ROOSEVELT AND HUGHES SAY DEMOCRACY TO PREVAIL

INDIA GREATLY DISTURBED OVER GANDHI'S FAST

Messages From Over Entire Nation Pour In On British Authorities

STOCK EXCHANGE CLOSES, BUSINESS LAGS IN BOMBAY

Resignation Of All Congress Party Governments Is Threatened

RAJKOT, India, March 4.—(AP)—Messages from all over India poured in on British authorities today urging immediate intervention to stop the "fast unto death" of Mohandas K. Gandhi before it led to dangerous consequences.

The shrivelled, 69-year-old master politician, whose influence is a potent force on India's millions, ended his second foodless day and his vitality was reported low.

The health minister of the Bombay presidency flew here to watch his health, fragile even before he began his sixth hunger strike to persuade the native ruler of Rajkot state, Thakore Saheb Shri Dharmendrasinhji, to give its people a voice in the government.

Most business in Bombay was at a standstill during the day. The Bombay stock exchange and cotton market closed after prices declined and traders became fearful of a slump because of the unsettled political situation.

The Congress party (Indian national) government of the united provinces telegraphed King George VI's viceroy of India, the marquess of Linlithgow, urging him to intervene. It warned that if anything should happen to Gandhi "we consider the ultimate responsibility yours."

The Congress party issued a statement threatening the resignation of all Congress party governments unless the viceroy acted within 24 hours. The party also sent a telegram to the marquess of Zetland, Britain's secretary of state for India, urging immediate British intervention and warning that a "disastrous consequences" might result from any delay.

Gandhi, who has had no nourishment since he sipped a cup of hot goat's milk at noon Friday, still was determined not to eat until the ruler of this western India state had met

Investigation Shows Both Cars Traveling Near Center Of Highway

LEESVILLE, La., March 4.—(AP)—An official investigation of the automobile accident near here late Friday in which three persons were fatally injured revealed that both of the cars involved were being driven near the middle of the highway, Deputy Sheriff E. W. McNaughton said tonight.

The collision occurred on a straight stretch of the Leesville-Shreveport highway, about 12 miles north of here, he said. No reason had been learned as to why the drivers kept the cars near the highway center, he reported.

McNaughton said he had been informed state police plan to conduct a further investigation.

Those killed were Mary Elaine Tipton, 21, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Tipton of Leesville; Vivian Fields, 21, daughter of Mrs. E. W. Fields of Leesville; and Edith Spencer, 45, saleswoman of Dallas, Tex.

Two men hurt in the collision, Walter Carlyon, 25, of Lake Charles, and Charles Jones, 25, of Leesville, were reported in a serious condition tonight in hospitals at Alexandria and DeRidder, respectively.

Carlyon, a salesman, was hurt about the head and back and suffered a possible internal injury. Jones received severe cuts and bruises. Both men, barring complications, will recover, physicians believe.

Miss Tipton died in local sanitarium about 5:30 p.m., Friday, one

MAN FATALLY HURT BY FALLING CHIMNEY

LEESVILLE, La., March 4.—(AP)—Crushed badly about the face and body about 3 p.m. today when he was struck by falling bricks from a chimney, Jackson Bass, 32, of Fullerton, a community near Pitkin, died about one hour later while en route to a Leesville hospital.

According to Dr. W. E. Reed, Vernon parish sheriff, the accident occurred while Bass was engaged in remodeling his Fullerton home.

PILGRIMAGES AND FIESTAS PLANNED

Will Extend Through Mississippi And Louisiana Until April 2

NEW ORLEANS, March 4.—(AP)—Beginning today at Natchez and extending through Mississippi and Louisiana and all along the gulf coast to Mobile there will be pilgrimages and fiestas until April 2.

As a matter of fact there will be two pilgrimages at Natchez, one after the other. The one was opened today by the Pilgrimage Garden club will last through March 19. Then from March 20 through April 2 the Natchez Garden club will have another one.

The club members promised that the ante-bellum homes and plantations in and around the city would be open for inspection. Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt will lecture there March 7. Hostesses greeting visitors will be dressed in costumes of the "days before the war."

Some of the other Mississippi events: Vicksburg, March 4-April 2, historic tours; Woodville, March 10-26; gulf coast pageants, March 17-19; Laurel's chemurgic festival, March 4-April 2; Port Gibson, historic tours, March 4-April 2; Holly Springs, April 23-25.

New Orleans' spring fiesta starts March 12 and lasts through March 19.

Included in this program are plantation tours, walking tours through the Old French quarter, an opera presented by the Louisiana State university school of music, artists' exhibits, flower parades and even receptions by the Colonial Dames.

SOUTHERN WATERWAY PROJECTS ARE LISTED

WASHINGTON, March 4.—(AP)—A long list of southern waterway developments will have a place on the roster of projects committee of the National Rivers and Harbors congress March 21 and 22.

The biggest of these projects will be the $200,000,000 Florida ship canal, whose completion has been urged by President Roosevelt. Also scheduled for consideration is the lakes-to-the-gulf waterway.

Others included:

Intracoastal canal of Louisiana and Texas; deepening of the Southwest pass, an outlet of the Mississippi river, New Orleans harbor and Mississippi river to Baton Rouge, La.; Red river basin projects, Oklahoma, Texas, Arkansas and Louisiana; Arkansas river basin projects, New Mexico, Colorado, Kansas, Oklahoma, Missouri and Arkansas; Wild Cat Shoals dam, White River, Arkansas; Calion, Ark., levee for flood control.

Tennessee-Tombigbee river, Alabama, Mississippi, flood control.

TAX REDUCTION PROBE PROMISED

District Attorney At New Orleans Says Investigation To Be Made

NEW ORLEANS, March 4.—(AP)—An investigation into charges of a "tax reduction racket" in this city was promised today by District Attorney Charles A. Byrne but he said the probe might be delayed because his office has several cases coming up before the supreme court.

The district attorney's statement followed by one day orders from Governor Richard W. Leche to Allen H. Generes, Louisiana tax commission member in charge of the local office, to investigate all tax reductions made in this city in the past three years.

"I conferred with Attorney General Dave M. Ellison Friday about the tax racket charges," Byrne said, "and we decided to conduct an investigation. When it will get under way and what the procedure will be has not been decided."

Hugh M. Wilkinson, friend of the late Huey P. Long, told the board of governors of the state bar Wednesday that this city and state had been defrauded of thousands of dollars through a tax reduction racket.

His charges implicated two New Orleans attorneys, a notary public, an employe in the local office of the tax commission and three other persons.

Byrne said:

"Mr. Wilkinson has never submitted to me the names of any persons accused of being involved in the tax racket and I had nothing to work on until a few days ago when formal charges were submitted to the state bar."

He added that he expected Ellison to send him the charges Monday but he said, "I don't know whether we will have the grand jury investigate the alleged tax racket or whether, if we find that criminal statutes have been violated, direct informations will be filed."

LOUISIANA COLLEGE GIRL DEBATE WINNER

DURANT, Okla., March 4.—(AP)—Finals of the debate contest of the 10th annual Southwestern Oklahoma Teachers college intercollegiate debate and speech tournament were held here tonight.

Nearly 300 speakers, representing 44 colleges from eight states, were entered in the debate and speaking contests.

Final winners in the speech tourney which ended this afternoon included:

Women's oratory: Mary Helen Parker, Louisiana college, Pineville, first.

Men's poetry reading: Jerry Holliman, Cameron Agricultural college, Lawton, Okla., first; E. Perry, Prothro, Louisiana college, Pineville, second.

FEAR ROOSEVELT NOT PLANNING TO CHECK SPENDING

KEY CABINET MEMBER IS LINING UP WITH HARRISON

Handbook Taken From Washington To New York Arouses New Anxiety

NEW YORK, March 4.—(AP)—An immediate "show-down" fight on increased government spending may becloud the business recovery program of Secretary of Commerce Hopkins, some business and financial leaders said today.

The decision of some of these executives to "fight now" has arisen, they said, out of a number of "portents" reaching the business community from Washington indicating that the administration may have "up its sleeve" new economic measures which, if carried out, would greatly temper their general attitude towards the Hopkins recovery plan.

Not in months, they said, have so many leading figures in Wall Street taken such an active interest in current political proceedings at Washington, and spokesmen have been active here for an "economy" coalition of Democrats rallying behind Senator Harrison of Mississippi, who issued a call for less spending on Thursday.

In this roundabout fashion a number were told that an influential key cabinet member has in the last few days aligned himself with the Harrison group and promised to endeavor to win over the president.

Some leaders, otherwise impressed greatly by the Hopkins program, said they were disappointed because they had been told he would take a vigorous stand in his Des Moines speech against further government spending and had not.

Moreover, some said they had received new "portents" indicating the administration both immediately and for a more distant period plans greater and greater borrowing and spending.

Not the least of these "portents," it was said, is a pocket-sized handbook brought back from Washington by some recent visitors to the capitol during the period of the Hopkins consultations with business leaders in the belief, mistaken or not, that it represents the first authentic attempt to tell compactly in simple language the complete economic and social ideology of the "New Deal."

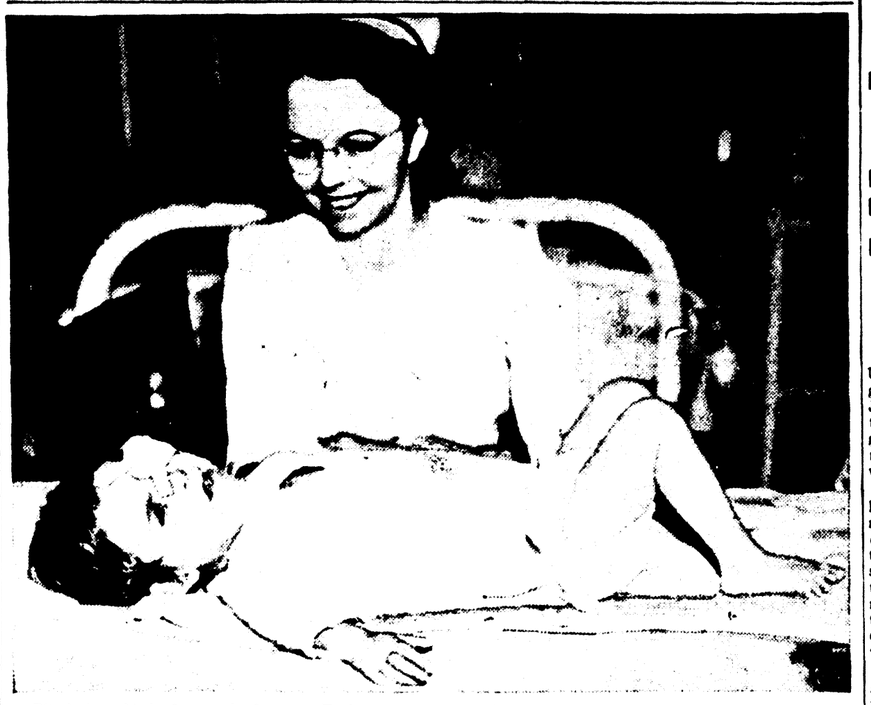

This book, "An Economic Program for American Democracy," (published by the Ganguard press,) lists as authors seven Harvard and Tufts economists, but a foreword says:

"Besides those whose names appear on the title page there were several taking an active part in the work of preparing this book who, because of their present connections with various branches of government service, did not feel free to affix their signatures to recommendations on questions of policy."

Parts of the program were enthusiastically approved by some industrial leaders who took an active part in the

SHERIFF MURPHY SUCCUMBS HERE

Veteran Union Parish Peace Officer Dies After Two-Week Illness

Fenner Wharton (Pat) Murphy, 51, sheriff of Union parish for 20 years, died in a local sanitarium last night as the result of cerebral hemorrhages from which he had been suffering for the past two weeks.

The death of Sheriff Murphy, who was well known throughout the state and one of the state's most colorful law enforcers, came as a shock to his many acquaintances, although it was known that his condition was extremely grave yesterday afternoon.

Sheriff Murphy was first taken ill two weeks ago today and brought to the St. Francis sanitarium here, but he returned home after spending four days in the hospital. Friday he returned here in a critical condition and suffered another hemorrhage yesterday afternoon.

Funeral services will be held this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at the First Baptist church of Farmerville. Funeral arrangements are under the direction of Davis-Lawhead Funeral home of Monroe.

Mr. Murphy is survived by his wife, the former Miss Kathleen Turnage, whom he married 21 years ago; his mother, Mrs. G. E. Murphy of Farmerville; three brothers, Jim Bob Murphy of Los Angeles, Calif., Minor Murphy of Big Springs, Tex., and Gordon Murphy of Monroe; and a sister, Mrs. Bessie Ramsey of Farmerville.

Mr. Murphy was born at Oakland, a small community near Farmerville, but had lived most of his life in Farmerville. Aside from his duties as a law enforcing officer, he took active part in church and civic affairs, being a member of the Baptist church and

CHILD KILLED BY AUTO NEAR PITKIN

LEESVILLE, La., March 4.—(AP)—Six-year-old Lawrence Edward Morrison, son of Mrs. Florence Morrison of Fullerton, near Pitkin, was injured fatally at 3 p.m. today near his home when he darted in front of an automobile which Sheriff W. A. Reed of Vernon parish said was driven by a Mr. Scarborough, oil man of Lake Charles.

The child, taken to a Leesville sanitarium, died about 6 p.m.

Coroner Brown Ward, who conducted an investigation, said the child had been playing in a ditch on the roadside and that Scarborough was unable to see him as he ran into the highway. Ward said the accident was "unquestionably unavoidable."

ACCIDENT FATAL TO MONROE GIRL

Miss Ivy Catherine Takewell Succumbs To Motorcycle Mishap Injuries

Miss Ivy Catherine Takewell, 22, of 204 Sixth street, died in a local hospital Saturday at 5:45 a.m. as a result of injuries she received in a motorcycle accident Wednesday morning.

A short service will be held at the Dixie Funeral home Sunday at 1 p.m. with Rev. L. T. Hastings, pastor of the First Baptist church, officiating. Immediately after this service, the body will be taken to Dubach, where services will be held in charge of Rev. Lloyd E. Baird. Interment will follow in Fellowship cemetery.

Pallbearers will be W. M. Green, J. Garner, Jack Morrison, Floyd Ferrington, Marcus Kahn and Joe Nelson.

Miss Takewell leaves her parents and three brothers, Lee Aubry, Fred Watson and Harold Takewell.

The accident occurred when the motorcycle on which Henry Heckford and Miss Takewell were riding was reported to have struck the rear wheel of another motorcycle and turned over on the Ruston road near West Monroe. She suffered a fracture of the right arm at the shoulder and bruises about the face, as well as probable internal injuries that resulted in death. Heckford also was injured but less seriously.

EROS 'IRON LUNGER' SHOWS IMPROVEMENT

SHREVEPORT, La., March 4.—(AP)—James Zeigler, 13, of Eros, La., who has been kept alive 43 days in the "iron lung" of Charity hospital here, today breathed alone outside the respirator for 16 minutes.

Doctors, who had abandoned hope for his life earlier, expressed belief he might recover from the paralytic condition which struck him last Thanksgiving day.

James was brought to Charity hospital 43 days ago, unable to move a muscle in his body.

Several hundred persons have visited him and thousands of letters from well-wishers in the tri-state area have been sent him during his stay in the hospital.

Annual School Of Cookery Will Open Here March 14

The News-Star—World's ninth annual school of cookery and homemaking exposition will open on Tuesday, March 14, and continue through the following Thursday night, according to an announcement made last night.

This interesting and highly instructive event in the lives of thousands of northeast Louisiana women will be conducted, as in past years, by Mrs. Ida Chitwood, noted culinary expert and owner and operator of the famous Chitwood Schools of Cookery, Dallas, Tex.

Cooking classes will be held at Neville High school auditorium at 2:15 o'clock on each day of the three-day school, and on the closing day a night session will be held when major prizes given by local merchants will be awarded. As in the past, daily awards will be made each afternoon.

Among the prizes already contracted for the awards are electric refrigerators, gas ranges, furniture and 10 baskets of groceries for daily awards. In addition to prizes, manufacturers' samples and booklets on cooking and home-making will be distributed.

Entertainment features will include style shows and floor shows.

As heretofore, admission to the cooking school and home-making exposition will be free and no charge of any kind will be involved in attending and participating in the awards.

The announcement that Mrs. Chitwood again will have charge of the News-Star—World's cooking school and home-making exposition is considered especially important, because of the prominence she holds in the culinary world of the nation.

She is probably the nation's outstanding lecturer and demonstrator in cookery schools. Year after year she personally completes a swing around a circuit of the nation's largest cities and conducts schools for the country's largest newspapers.

Each year she conducts huge con-

LIBERTY CALLED BEST GUARANTEE IT WON'T FAIL

President And Chief Justice Follow Much Same Line Of Thought

HONOR FIRST MEETING OF NATIONAL LEGISLATURE

F. D. R. Says Democracies Will Give No Encouragement To Tyranny

By Richard L. Turner

WASHINGTON, March 4.—(AP)—Upon a cheering joint session of congress, President Roosevelt and Chief Justice Hughes impressed today the thought that the individual liberty guaranteed by the constitution is this nation's defense against those who would destroy democracy.

Gathered in the big hall of the house of representatives were the members of both branches of congress, commemorating the first meeting of the national legislature under the constitution, 150 years ago today. With them were the members of the cabinet, the supreme court, the heads of the army and navy, and the diplomatic envoys of more than 50 foreign countries.

It was an occasion for traditional American patriotic speech-making, for tribute to the founders of the country, and to the constitution. But Mr. Roosevelt and Chief Justice Hughes made it also an occasion for reviewing a century and a half of democracy, what it has meant and what it promises to mean to the people of America. They found their thoughts following similar channels.

"Today," said the president, "with many other democracies, the United States will give no encouragement to the belief that our processes are outworn, or that we will approvingly watch the return of forms of government which for two thousand years have proved their tyranny and their instability alike."

He served notice, too, that the United States would not stand passive

ASKS $124,000,000 MORE FOR ARMY

President Roosevelt Says This Amount Needed For 'Critical Items'

WASHINGTON, March 4.—(AP)—Immediately after his return from the naval maneuvers in the Caribbean, President Roosevelt asked congress today for $124,000,000 to supply "critical items" of army equipment, strengthen seacoast defenses and train 20,000 civilian airplane pilots.

The money would supplement the $499,800,000 army appropriation which the house passed yesterday and sent to the senate.

The president's request was transmitted in letters to Speaker Bankhead.

Of the total, $110,000,000 was earmarked to provide the army with additional semi-automatic rifles, anti-aircraft artillery, gas masks, tanks, anti-tank guns, ammunition and artillery; $6,539,287 to bolster seacoast defenses and $7,300,000 for the pilot training program.

The president recommended that the funds for training young pilots be made available immediately so that the civil aeronautics authority could get the program under way at the beginning of the fiscal year starting July 1.

Budget Director Bell, in a letter accompanying the president's communication, said the program was designed to provide a trained reserve of competent and efficient pilots "for service

GERMAN AIRLINER, 11 BODIES FOUND

NICE, France, March 4.—(AP)—The wreckage of a German airliner and the bodies of 11 victims were found today in the Alps near Roubillon, close to the Italian frontier, and tonight French official investigators identified the craft as the missing D-Alus.

(Berlin announcements on February 25 had led to the general belief the D-Alus was a military craft. The air ministry announced a German airliner marked D-Alus had disappeared over the Mediterranean, but failed to state where the plane had taken off or where it was going. Lufthansa, Germany's only commercial airline, said the plane was not one of theirs.)

A patrol of Alpine chasseurs of the French army found the wreckage in a fortified zone opposite the Italian frontier over which all save French army planes are forbidden to fly.

Nine bodies burned so that they could not be identified immediately were found in the plane's cabin, and two others, one of a woman, were found some distance from the wreckage, indicating these two persons may have jumped as a crash seemed inevitable.

Officials said the pilot apparently lost his way in a fog and crashed into the mountains while circling low to seek bearings.

150,000 TO SEE POPE CORONATED

Ceremony Will Take Place On Outside Balcony Of St. Peter's

VATICAN CITY, March 4.—(AP)—Pope Pius XII, whose election departed from many ancient church traditions, today restored one by arranging for his coronation to be held out of doors.

The ceremony next Sunday, March 12, will take place on the outside balcony of St. Peter's after a pontifical mass inside the basilica.

At least 150,000 persons will be able to witness the coronation from St. Peter's square and from adjacent streets in Rome, just outside of Vatican City.

Popes regularly followed this procedure until they became voluntary "prisoners of the Vatican" in protest over the Italian state's expropriation of the Holy See's temporal possessions in 1870.

Pope Pius IX, who ascended the throne of St. Peter in 1846, was the last to observe the custom. The new pontiff's predecessor, Pope Pius XI, was crowned inside the basilica. But he was the last of the papal prisoners and made his first appearance on the balcony in 1929 after the Lateran accord had reconciled state and church.

When the pontifical mass is finished,

Byrne said:

"Mr. Wilkinson has never submitted to me the names of any persons accused of being involved in the tax racket and I had nothing to work on until a few days ago when formal charges were submitted to the state bar."

He added that he expected Ellison to send him the charges Monday but he said, "I don't know whether we will have the grand jury investigate the alleged tax racket or whether, if we find that criminal statutes have been violated, direct informations will be filed."

LOUISIANA COLLEGE GIRL DEBATE WINNER

DURANT, Okla., March 4.—(AP)—Finals of the debate contest of the 10th annual Southwestern Oklahoma Teachers college intercollegiate debate and speech tournament were held here tonight.

Nearly 300 speakers, representing 44 colleges from eight states, were entered in the debate and speaking contests.

Final winners in the speech tourney which ended this afternoon included:

Women's oratory: Mary Helen Parker, Louisiana college, Pineville, first.

Men's poetry reading: Jerry Holliman, Cameron Agricultural college, Lawton, Okla., first; E. Perry, Prothro, Louisiana college, Pineville, second.

FEAR ROOSEVELT NOT PLANNING TO CHECK SPENDING

KEY CABINET MEMBER IS LINING UP WITH HARRISON

Handbook Taken From Washington To New York Arouses New Anxiety

NEW YORK, March 4.—(AP)—An immediate "show-down" fight on increased government spending may becloud the business recovery program of Secretary of Commerce Hopkins, some business and financial leaders said today.

The decision of some of these executives to "fight now" has arisen, they said, out of a number of "portents" reaching the business community from Washington indicating that the administration may have "up its sleeve" new economic measures which, if carried out, would greatly temper their general attitude towards the Hopkins recovery plan.

Not in months, they said, have so many leading figures in Wall Street taken such an active interest in current political proceedings at Washington, and spokesmen have been active here for an "economy" coalition of Democrats rallying behind Senator Harrison of Mississippi, who issued a call for less spending on Thursday.

In this roundabout fashion a number were told that an influential key cabinet member has in the last few days aligned himself with the Harrison group and promised to endeavor to win over the president.

Some leaders, otherwise impressed greatly by the Hopkins program, said they were disappointed because they had been told he would take a vigorous stand in his Des Moines speech against further government spending and had not.

Moreover, some said they had received new "portents" indicating the administration both immediately and for a more distant period plans greater and greater borrowing and spending.

Not the least of these "portents," it was said, is a pocket-sized handbook brought back from Washington by some recent visitors to the capitol during the period of the Hopkins consultations with business leaders in the belief, mistaken or not, that it represents the first authentic attempt to tell compactly in simple language the complete economic and social ideology of the "New Deal."

This book, "An Economic Program for American Democracy," (published by the Ganguard press,) lists as authors seven Harvard and Tufts economists, but a foreword says:

"Besides those whose names appear on the title page there were several taking an active part in the work of preparing this book who, because of their present connections with various branches of government service, did not feel free to affix their signatures to recommendations on questions of policy."

Parts of the program were enthusiastically approved by some industrial leaders who took an active part in the

SHERIFF MURPHY SUCCUMBS HERE

Veteran Union Parish Peace Officer Dies After Two-Week Illness

Fenner Wharton (Pat) Murphy, 51, sheriff of Union parish for 20 years, died in a local sanitarium last night as the result of cerebral hemorrhages from which he had been suffering for the past two weeks.

The death of Sheriff Murphy, who was well known throughout the state and one of the state's most colorful law enforcers, came as a shock to his many acquaintances, although it was known that his condition was extremely grave yesterday afternoon.

Sheriff Murphy was first taken ill two weeks ago today and brought to the St. Francis sanitarium here, but he returned home after spending four days in the hospital. Friday he returned here in a critical condition and suffered another hemorrhage yesterday afternoon.

Funeral services will be held this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at the First Baptist church of Farmerville. Funeral arrangements are under the direction of Davis-Lawhead Funeral home of Monroe.

Mr. Murphy is survived by his wife, the former Miss Kathleen Turnage, whom he married 21 years ago; his mother, Mrs. G. E. Murphy of Farmerville; three brothers, Jim Bob Murphy of Los Angeles, Calif., Minor Murphy of Big Springs, Tex., and Gordon Murphy of Monroe; and a sister, Mrs. Bessie Ramsey of Farmerville.

Mr. Murphy was born at Oakland, a small community near Farmerville, but had lived most of his life in Farmerville. Aside from his duties as a law enforcing officer, he took active part in church and civic affairs, being a member of the Baptist church and

CHILD KILLED BY AUTO NEAR PITKIN

LEESVILLE, La., March 4.—(AP)—Six-year-old Lawrence Edward Morrison, son of Mrs. Florence Morrison of Fullerton, near Pitkin, was injured fatally at 3 p.m. today near his home when he darted in front of an automobile which Sheriff W. A. Reed of Vernon parish said was driven by a Mr. Scarborough, oil man of Lake Charles.

The child, taken to a Leesville sanitarium, died about 6 p.m.

Coroner Brown Ward, who conducted an investigation, said the child had been playing in a ditch on the roadside and that Scarborough was unable to see him as he ran into the highway. Ward said the accident was "unquestionably unavoidable."

ACCIDENT FATAL TO MONROE GIRL

Miss Ivy Catherine Takewell Succumbs To Motorcycle Mishap Injuries

Miss Ivy Catherine Takewell, 22, of 204 Sixth street, died in a local hospital Saturday at 5:45 a.m. as a result of injuries she received in a motorcycle accident Wednesday morning.

A short service will be held at the Dixie Funeral home Sunday at 1 p.m. with Rev. L. T. Hastings, pastor of the First Baptist church, officiating. Immediately after this service, the body will be taken to Dubach, where services will be held in charge of Rev. Lloyd E. Baird. Interment will follow in Fellowship cemetery.

Pallbearers will be W. M. Green, J. Garner, Jack Morrison, Floyd Ferrington, Marcus Kahn and Joe Nelson.

Miss Takewell leaves her parents and three brothers, Lee Aubry, Fred Watson and Harold Takewell.

The accident occurred when the motorcycle on which Henry Heckford and Miss Takewell were riding was reported to have struck the rear wheel of another motorcycle and turned over on the Ruston road near West Monroe. She suffered a fracture of the right arm at the shoulder and bruises about the face, as well as probable internal injuries that resulted in death. Heckford also was injured but less seriously.

EROS 'IRON LUNGER' SHOWS IMPROVEMENT

SHREVEPORT, La., March 4.—(AP)—James Zeigler, 13, of Eros, La., who has been kept alive 43 days in the "iron lung" of Charity hospital here, today breathed alone outside the respirator for 16 minutes.

Doctors, who had abandoned hope for his life earlier, expressed belief he might recover from the paralytic condition which struck him last Thanksgiving day.

James was brought to Charity hospital 43 days ago, unable to move a muscle in his body.

Several hundred persons have visited him and thousands of letters from well-wishers in the tri-state area have been sent him during his stay in the hospital.

ASKS $124,000,000 MORE FOR ARMY

President Roosevelt Says This Amount Needed For 'Critical Items'

WASHINGTON, March 4.—(AP)—Immediately after his return from the naval maneuvers in the Caribbean, President Roosevelt asked congress today for $124,000,000 to supply "critical items" of army equipment, strengthen seacoast defenses and train 20,000 civilian airplane pilots.

The money would supplement the $499,800,000 army appropriation which the house passed yesterday and sent to the senate.

The president's request was transmitted in letters to Speaker Bankhead.

Of the total, $110,000,000 was earmarked to provide the army with additional semi-automatic rifles, anti-aircraft artillery, gas masks, tanks, anti-tank guns, ammunition and artillery; $6,539,287 to bolster seacoast defenses and $7,300,000 for the pilot training program.

The president recommended that the funds for training young pilots be made available immediately so that the civil aeronautics authority could get the program under way at the beginning of the fiscal year starting July 1.

Budget Director Bell, in a letter accompanying the president's communication, said the program was designed to provide a trained reserve of competent and efficient pilots "for service

GERMAN AIRLINER, 11 BODIES FOUND

NICE, France, March 4.—(AP)—The wreckage of a German airliner and the bodies of 11 victims were found today in the Alps near Roubillon, close to the Italian frontier, and tonight French official investigators identified the craft as the missing D-Alus.

(Berlin announcements on February 25 had led to the general belief the D-Alus was a military craft. The air ministry announced a German airliner marked D-Alus had disappeared over the Mediterranean, but failed to state where the plane had taken off or where it was going. Lufthansa, Germany's only commercial airline, said the plane was not one of theirs.)

A patrol of Alpine chasseurs of the French army found the wreckage in a fortified zone opposite the Italian frontier over which all save French army planes are forbidden to fly.

Nine bodies burned so that they could not be identified immediately were found in the plane's cabin, and two others, one of a woman, were found some distance from the wreckage, indicating these two persons may have jumped as a crash seemed inevitable.

Officials said the pilot apparently lost his way in a fog and crashed into the mountains while circling low to seek bearings.

LIBERTY CALLED BEST GUARANTEE IT WON'T FAIL

President And Chief Justice Follow Much Same Line Of Thought

HONOR FIRST MEETING OF NATIONAL LEGISLATURE

F. D. R. Says Democracies Will Give No Encouragement To Tyranny

By Richard L. Turner

WASHINGTON, March 4.—(AP)—Upon a cheering joint session of congress, President Roosevelt and Chief Justice Hughes impressed today the thought that the individual liberty guaranteed by the constitution is this nation's defense against those who would destroy democracy.

Gathered in the big hall of the house of representatives were the members of both branches of congress, commemorating the first meeting of the national legislature under the constitution, 150 years ago today. With them were the members of the cabinet, the supreme court, the heads of the army and navy, and the diplomatic envoys of more than 50 foreign countries.

It was an occasion for traditional American patriotic speech-making, for tribute to the founders of the country, and to the constitution. But Mr. Roosevelt and Chief Justice Hughes made it also an occasion for reviewing a century and a half of democracy, what it has meant and what it promises to mean to the people of America. They found their thoughts following similar channels.

"Today," said the president, "with many other democracies, the United States will give no encouragement to the belief that our processes are outworn, or that we will approvingly watch the return of forms of government which for two thousand years have proved their tyranny and their instability alike."

He served notice, too, that the United States would not stand passive

150,000 TO SEE POPE CORONATED

Ceremony Will Take Place On Outside Balcony Of St. Peter's

VATICAN CITY, March 4.—(AP)—Pope Pius XII, whose election departed from many ancient church traditions, today restored one by arranging for his coronation to be held out of doors.

The ceremony next Sunday, March 12, will take place on the outside balcony of St. Peter's after a pontifical mass inside the basilica.

At least 150,000 persons will be able to witness the coronation from St. Peter's square and from adjacent streets in Rome, just outside of Vatican City.

Popes regularly followed this procedure until they became voluntary "prisoners of the Vatican" in protest over the Italian state's expropriation of the Holy See's temporal possessions in 1870.

Pope Pius IX, who ascended the throne of St. Peter in 1846, was the last to observe the custom. The new pontiff's predecessor, Pope Pius XI, was crowned inside the basilica. But he was the last of the papal prisoners and made his first appearance on the balcony in 1929 after the Lateran accord had reconciled state and church.

When the pontifical mass is finished,

Annual School Of Cookery Will Open Here March 14

The News-Star—World's ninth annual school of cookery and home-making exposition will open on Tuesday, March 14, and continue through the following Thursday night, according to an announcement made last night.

This interesting and highly instructive event in the lives of thousands of northeast Louisiana women will be conducted, as in past years, by Mrs. Ida Chitwood, noted culinary expert and owner and operator of the famous Chitwood Schools of Cookery, Dallas, Tex.

Cooking classes will be held at Neville High schoo' auditorium at 2:15 o'clock on each day of the three-day school, and on the closing day a night session will be held when major prizes given by local merchants will be awarded. As in the past, daily awards will be made each afternoon.

Among the prizes already contracted for the awards are electric refrigerators, gas ranges, furniture and 10 baskets of groceries for daily awards. In addition to prizes, manufacturers' samples and booklets on cooking and home-making will be distributed.

Entertainment features will include style shows and floor shows.

As heretofore, admission to the cooking school and home-making exposition will be free and no charge of any kind will be involved in attending and participating in the awards.

The announcement that Mrs. Chitwood again will have charge of the News-Star—World's cooking school and home-making exposition is considered especially important, because of the prominence she holds in the culinary world of the nation.

She is probably the nation's outstanding lecturer and demonstrator in cookery schools. Year after year she personally completes a swing around a circuit of the nation's largest cities and conducts schools for the country's largest newspapers.

Each year she conducts huge con-

...-Hughes vocational agriculture ... school teachers will confer with ... college agriculture faculty mem... and representatives of the stu... of the department next Thurs...

An agriculture program featuring a prominent speaker will be presented in the college auditorium during the morning. Exhibits will be displayed, sponsored by the agriculture students at Tech, high schools, the Tech chapter of the Demeter fraternity, the Ruston CCC camp, the soil conservation service, the Ruston Women's Garden club, the Tech home economics school and the Ruston Chamber of Commerce. Others who may participate will be announced later.

Displays on soil conservation, gardening, dairying, flower gardening, home economics, and other related agriculture activities will be given prominence, Mr. Lovett said.

The principal attractions of the day will include a cattle-judging contest, a "wild-cow" milking contest and a rodeo. The milking and cattle-judging contests are both open to the public. Only students, however, are to take part in the rodeo.

The day of activity at Tech for those interested in agriculture will end with an old-fashioned hill billy dance, which will be given at the college from 8 to 12 p.m.

MADISON SCHOOL BOARD BONDS FOR $15,000 SOLD

TALLULAH, La., March 4.—(Special)—At a meeting of the Madison parish school board, bonds amounting to $15,000 were sold to Scharff and Jones, Inc., of New Orleans, and the Tallulah State Bank and Trust company, for par and accrued interest and a premium of $641.50.

A resolution was adopted expressing disapproval of the local ambulances and fire truck passing the Tallulah High school at a high rate of speed and copies of the resolution were sent to the local undertakers, fire marshal and district attorney.

'Julius Caesar' And 'Hamlet' Will Be Given At Northeast Center Monday

Announcement of the presentation of two Shakespearean plays here Monday by the James Hendrickson and Claire Bruce company, has been received with unusual interest, as the company produced other similar plays here several years ago with unusual success.

The coming engagement will comprise the presentation at the Northeast Center auditorium Monday at 1:30 p.m. of "Julius Caesar" and at 8 p.m. of "Hamlet."

The appearance is not sponsored by any one group and the idea is not to make money but to give the community a professional company of highest ability who will interpret the classic dramas in a way that will, it is believed, be educational and uplifting. Only a moderate price will be charged with special rates to students.

Mr. Hendrickson and Miss Bruce will have in their supporting company such well known players as Forbes Francis, Helen Jensaen, John Ritchie, King Donovan, Katherine Cody, J. Allen Hamilton, Vernon Marvel, Nicholas Smith, Martin Wells, and others.

There will be a group of local students who will act as supernumeraries with the company. Members of the Speech club of Northeast Center, who will appear as court ladies and gentlemen will be as follows: Joe Evelyn Bales, Josephine Conger, Lorene Owens, Sidney Ruth Waddell, Patsy Slack, Doris Dietrich, Rosalie Ballard, Yvonne Williams, Barbara Butler, Martha Cook, Tommy Wyatt, Ralph Simpson, Lorain Armstrong, Jack Ramsaur, Billy Stevenson, Deryl Morris, Jack Hunter, William Byrd, Freddie Reagan, Arnold Kilpatrick and Ted Duckworth.

Still other students will assist in the stage settings and scenery. They are Paul Karlowitz, chairman of the stage committee of the Speech club; Philip Embanato, Bill Singleton, John Porter and Uriah Pickens.

NEGRO CHURCH TO MARK PASTOR'S ANNIVERSARY

Members of local negro Baptist churches and other denominations have been invited to participate in a four-day program observing the second anniversary of the pastorate of Rev. G. W. Killens at the St. Matthew's negro Baptist church at Mangham.

Groups from the local churches will attend each night program, and next Sunday night a special bus will be chartered to carry a large group from here to the final program, according to Frank Perkins, who has charge of the local arrangements.

Rev. G. W. Killens, pastor of the Mangham church, is well known to negro church leaders and members of northeast Louisiana, it was stated.

The highest marriage rate in Europe is in Germany, with more than 10 marriages per 1,000 of population. Poland ranks second with 8.3; Holland and Italy tie for third with 7.6; England fourth with 7 and France fifth with 6.9.

FERRIDAY MASONS MARK ANNIVERSARY

FERRIDAY, La., March 4.—(Special)—Ferriday lodge No. 390, Free and Accepted Masons, commemorated the 19th anniversary of the founding of the local lodge, at a special program held at the lodge headquarters this week.

Charter members present who gave brief talks were John L. DePrato, who discussed the beginning of the lodge and displayed some of its early records and equipment; Joe Pasternack, who told of the early financial difficulties and how they were overcome; C. B. Godbold, who related some of the early struggles of the lodge; and Abe Pasternack, who spoke in a similar vein.

A fish supper with trimmings was served to about 50 persons, including out-of-town Masons.

The following were the first members of the Ferriday lodge: John L. DePrato, T. H. Johnston, M. M. Perkins, J. E. Ormsby, T. G. Ormsby, Roman Miller, A. L. Wilson, Abe Pasternack, Joe Pasternack, D. B. Fleming, I. Litoff, P. H. Corbett, Willie Walton, C. B. Godbold and L. C. Hutchinson.

Officers of the Ferriday lodge were installed on May 30, 1920, and worked under a special dispensation until February 15, 1921, when they were granted a charter for the work being done.

Present officers of the Ferriday lodge are: P. H. Farmer, worshipful master; D. B. Mitchell, senior warden; C. E. Hunter, junior warden; Louis Jones, secretary.

TEMPORARY DINING HALL CONSTRUCTED AT TECH

RUSTON, La., March 4.—(Special)—To provide for the boarding students at Louisiana Tech, who will soon see their old dining hall torn down to make room for a new and larger one, a new structure is being erected where students will be served their meals in shifts until the new eating place is completed.

The building, which is now under construction, will be completed by March 14, according to T. A. Wright, superintendent of buildings and grounds at the college. It will connect the present cafeteria and student store.

The contract for the new dining hall will be let on March 14, and the old building will be torn down immediately, Mr. Wright stated. The completed structure is expected to be ready for use when the college opens for the fall semester.

"The addition to the Cafeteria and student store, which joins both, will remain as a part of the Cafeteria after the new dining hall is completed," Mr. Wright said.

TRUCK BIDS TO BE DISCUSSED AT MEET

The city council of West Monroe will meet Monday night for the regular March session. A number of matters of importance will be considered among which will be that of the purchase of trucks.

Bids were received up to Saturday at 10 a.m. for the purchase of three one and one-half ton dump trucks. They are to be used in hauling gravel for the streets included in the blacktopping program. Right to reject one or all bids was reserved by the city.

AGRICULTURE DAY PLANNED AT TECH

Program To Include Address, Exhibits, Rodeo And Hill-Billy Dance

RUSTON, La., March 4.—(Special)—Louisiana Tech's first Agriculture day will be held Saturday, April 29, according to an announcement by H. C. Lovett, acting head of the agriculture department at the college.

Smith-Hughes vocational agriculture high school teachers will confer with the college agriculture faculty members and representatives of the students of the department next Thursday night to study a cooperative arrangement whereby the program can be worked out by both groups. All Smith-Hughes teachers from nearby parishes are invited to attend the meeting, Mr. Lovett said.

An agriculture program featuring a prominent speaker will be presented in the college auditorium during the morning. Exhibits will be displayed, sponsored by the agriculture students at Tech, high schools, the Tech chapter of the Demeter fraternty, the Ruston CCC camp, the soil conservation service, the Ruston Women's Garden club, the Tech home economics school and the Ruston Chamber of Commerce. Others who may participate will be annouced later.

NEGRO CHURCH TO MARK PASTOR'S ANNIVERSARY

Members of local negro Baptist churches and other denominations have been invited to participate in a four-day program observing the second anniversary of the pastorate of Rev. G. W. Killens at the St. Matthew's negro Baptist church at Mangham.

Groups from the local churches will attend each night program, and next Sunday night a special bus will be chartered to carry a large group from here to the final program, according to Frank Perkins, who has charge of the local arrangements.

Rev. G. W. Killens, pastor of the Mangham church, is well known to negro church leaders and members of northeast Louisiana, it was stated.

The highest marriage rate in Europe is in Germany, with more than 10 marriages per 1,000 of population. Poland ranks second with 8.3; Holland and Italy tie for third with 7.6; England fourth with 7 and France fifth with 6.9.

FERRIDAY MASONS MARK ANNIVERSARY

FERRIDAY, La., March 4.—(Special)—Ferriday lodge No. 390, Free and Accepted Masons, commemorated the 18th anniversary of the founding of the local lodge, at a special program held at the lodge headquarters this week.

Charter members present who gave brief talks were John L. DePrato, who discussed the beginning of the lodge and displayed some of its early records and equipment; Joe Pasternack, who told of the early financial difficulties and how they were overcome; C. B. Godbold, who related some of the early struggles of the lodge; and Abe Pasternack, who spoke in a similar vein.

A fish supper with trimmings was served to about 50 persons, including out-of-town Masons.

The following were the first members of the Ferriday lodge: John L. DePrato, T. H. Johnston, M. M. Perkins, J. E. Ormsby, T. G. Ormsby, Roman Miller, A. L. Wilson, Abe Pasternack, Joe Pasternack, D. B. Fleming, I. Litoff, P. H. Corbett, Willie Walton, C. B. Godbold and L. C. Hutchinson.

Officers of the Ferriday lodge were installed on May 30, 1920, and worked under a special dispensation until February 15, 1921, when they were granted a charter for the work being done.

Present officers of the Ferriday lodge are: P. H. Farmer, worshipful master; D. B. Mitchell, senior warden; C. E. Hunter, junior warden; Louis Jones, secretary.

TEMPORARY DINING HALL CONSTRUCTED AT TECH

RUSTON, La., March 4.—(Special)—To provide for the boarding students at Louisiana Tech, who will soon see their old dining hall torn down to make room for a new and larger one, a new structure is being erected where students will be served their meals in shifts until the new eating place is completed.

The building, which is now under construction, will be completed by March 14, according to T. A. Wright, superintendent of buildings and grounds at the college. It will connect the present cafeteria and student store.

The contract for the new dining hall will be let on March 14, and the old building will be torn down immediately, Mr. Wright stated. The completed structure is expected to be ready for use when the college opens for the fall semester.

"The addition to the Cafeteria and student store, which joins both, will remain as a part of the Cafeteria after the new dining hall is completed," Mr. Wright said.

TRUCK BIDS TO BE DISCUSSED AT MEET

The city council of West Monroe will meet Monday night for the regular March session. A number of matters of importance will be considered among which will be that of the purchase of trucks.

Bids were received up to Saturday at 10 a.m. for the purchase of three one and one-half ton dump trucks. They are to be used in hauling gravel for the streets included in the blacktopping program. Right to reject one or all bids was reserved by the city.

Lincoln Sheriff Discusses Work Of His Office And FBI Crime Report

RUSTON, La., March 4.—(Special)—Sheriff Bryan Thigpen of Lincoln parish discussed the activities of the sheriff's office and mentioned several salient features of a recent F. B. I. crime report at a meeting of McFarland post No. 2 of the American Legion here this week.

The sheriff classified his office into civil work, criminal cases, tax collections and poll book registrations.

In the past 12 months, he said, his office has served 279 civil papers and conducted 26 sheriff's sales. Criminal cases in the district court for the past three years have totaled 275 arrests, with 37 resulting in penitentiary sentences.

Total tax collections for 1938 amounted to $256,896.94, of which amount $203,258.39 had been paid by March 1, Sheriff Thigpen stated. Out of each tax dollar collected, 16 cents go to the state, 39 cents to the parish and 45 cents to schools, he said.

In the past three years, the sheriff's office has turned back to taxing bodies a total of $6,804.45, which remained above the expenses of the department. The sheriff explained the salary fund and other expense items which are supplied by commissions, fees for serving papers, court costs and mileage for transporting prisoners.

Quoting from government figures, Sheriff Thigpen pointed out that of a total of 432,527 arrests from January 1, 1938, to September 30, 1938, "for all types of crime except commercialized vice the number of men arrested was larger than the number of women. However, a comparison of the figures representing an average group of 100 men arrested with those for an average group of 100 women arrested indicates that there were more women than men charged with murder, assault and the use of narcotic drugs." The F. B. I. figures also showed 34 per cent of the women and 14 per cent of the men were arrested for violaton of liquor laws.

SAM ROBERTS HELD ON FORGERY CHARGE

Sam Roberts, accused of forgery, was arrested yesterday by Police Captain J. D. Busby and Officer A. L. Cornett and surrendered to sheriff's deputies who held the warrant for his arrest, Sheriff Milton Coverdale announced last night.

Roberts is accused of forging the name of Jules Parks to a check drawn on the Ouachita National bank for $6.

Odell Roberts, charged with assault short of maiming, was arrested by sheriff's deputies yesterday. Odell Roberts is accused of assaulting J. U. McCrary on February 18.

The bond for Sam Roberts, who was still in jail late yesterday, was fixed at $750. Odell Roberts was released under $200 bond.

LOCAL BOYS ENDING ARMY ENLISTMENT

Carl Dennis, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Dennis, and H. D. Dennis, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Dennis, Sr., of Monroe, have just returned home having completed a three-year enlistment period in the United States army. The two young men, who are first cousins, enlisted at the same time and were assigned to the same post. Both plan to remain at home and secure employment in Monroe.

They have been stationed during the past several years at Fort Missoula, near Missoula, Mont.

They declared that they liked army life but that they will now be glad to remain at home for a time.

The weather in Montana presented a great contrast to that of Monroe, they said, as the temperature often dropped to 30 or 40 degrees below zero and the snow was deep most of the time during the winter.

They said that all the northern part of the country over which they came was buried deep in snow and when they arrived in Chicago it was immediately after a heavy snowfall and the cold was intense.

MELTON GANDY IS CRITICALLY SLASHED

HOMER, La., March 4.—(Special)—Melton Gandy, son of Mrs. Neva Gandy of Athens, a former Homer automobile salesman, is in a critical condition at the Minden sanitarium as the result of an alleged self-inflicted knife wound.

Gandy severed a blood vessel in his left arm shortly before noon today, according to reports, and almost bled to death before he was discovered on the Gandy farm near Athens.

He was rushed to a local clinic for treatment before being taken on to Minden.

Gandy was quoted as saying that he cut himself "because I wanted to die."

A blood transfusion was given late today, but attending physicians held little hope for his recovery, it was reported.

He had been separated from his estranged wife for about a year.

PEACE OFFICERS TO MEET AT CAPITAL

The Louisiana Peace Officers' association will meet for its 11th annual session in Baton Rouge May 15-17, according to an announcement made by Captain W. D. Atkins, chief of the state police bureau of identification and president of the association.

When the present membership drive is completed, the captain expects to have fully 1,000 paid up members among the sheriffs, state and city police, deputies and federal officials.

The officers of the association in addition to Captain Atkins, are: Sheriff Henry Reed, Claiborne parish, vice-president; Chief Deputy Sheriff Paul Cassagne, Jefferson parish, vice-president; Captain Joseph Sommerberg, New Orleans police department, sergeant-at-arms and Captain Leslie C. Cave, secretary.

CHAPTER XXII

Janet could hardly wait to hurry Barney off to inspect the new apartment. Tired as he seemed, his eyes danced in an otherwise respectful face as they inspected the tiny bath tub and then traveled over his own long person.

"Ah, a shaving mug, I see," he observed solemnly. "I didn't know they still made 'em."

"Oh, Barney—I'm so sorry!" Janet giggled. "But there is a shower," she added hopefully. "That is, if it works. I've just discovered that the door to the cabinet doesn't."

As they went back into the living room, she apologized, "Of course it is a little tacky in spots, Barney, but it will do till we find something permanent, won't it?"

"Do?" Barney said. "I think you were darned smart to find all this elegance and luxury for what the old budget allows."

"Well," Janet admitted somewhat guiltily, "as a matter of fact, it did cost a little more." . . . This was a subject she had meant to lead up to. . . . "You see, you have to pay $5 extra if you rent by the month."

He seemed, she thought, unpleasantly startled at first. Then his eyes traveled over her smart fur coat and expensive accessories, and he laughed.

"If you swept in looking as much like the Duke millions as you do now," he remarked, "it's a wonder they didn't ask you twice as much. . . . Well, I guess $5 won't upset the international rate of exchange. Of course, when I get the new deal they promised me at the office, we can begin to expand a little. You know this isn't what I'd like for you, don't you, Janet?"

Janet turned hastily away before something wistful in his eyes.

"But I think it's really swell," she declared staunchly. "I was just afraid you wouldn't like it. . . . Look at the cute window seat—and, Barney, you haven't seen the ice box."

They collected from the Breckenridge what possessions they needed for immediate use, and moved in.

Upon taking inventory, they found that "practically everything furnished" was a slight over-statement. It ignored table silver, for instance, and a number of minor essentials. So they spent a diverting hour at the five-and-ten, buying wash rags, paper napkins and tablecloth, and knives and forks and spoons at 10 cents a throw.

"How long do you bet it will take us to lick that 10 cents' worth of plating off the spoons?" Barney wondered.

A few minutes later Janet, finding him before another counter, obviously enchanted by an assortment of gayly painted kitchen gadgets, was amused—and unexpectedly touched. He insisted on buying a memorandum pad for the kitchen, a wastebasket decorated with a wise-looking owl, because the owl looked so much like his boss that he'd get a lot of fun throwing things at it, and a half dozen gadgets of mysterious utility, because, he said, they looked "convenient." It was amazing, they found, how much money you could spend at 10 cents a throw.

When they got home, Barney set the wastebasket on the living room table and pelted it with paper wads until he declared he felt better.

"He wants me to cut some of the best things out of my story," he explained. "We've been at it hammer and tongs all day about that."

So that was why Barney looked so tired.

"But, Barney," Janet cried, suddenly recognizing what this meant to him, "after you've spent all those months on it! And why should he, if it's true?"

"It's because it's true. It begins to look," Barney said soberly, "as if someone had got to him where he lives. . . . You see, they didn't take it very seriously at first. Now they're beginning to realize that we actually have the goods; and they'll do anything they can to kill it."

Janet started to cry out, "Barney, what do you mean by 'anything'?"

But she caught herself in time. Barney would hate that. She remembered that the suggestion that he might be in danger had always seemed to embarrass and irritate him.

Instead, she laughed, not quite naturally, and said, "That sounds to me as if one of those coat-of-mail undershirts might be indicated—the kind gangsters wear, if they really do—and a six-shooter. Think of the headlines: 'Ace News Reporter Forced to Go Armed.' And I'll bet you can't even shoot."

He grinned; then said with a touch of grimness, "You'll lose then," and changed the subject abruptly.

But she had a feeling that she had somehow let him down. It seemed to her that often, these last few days, there had been that something defensive about Barney's grin. She had never noticed that before. She wondered if she only imagined it now because, especially since seeing Cynthia and Timothy Benton together, she had found herself feeling doubly guilty that she was taking so much from Barney and giving so little—most guilty of all when he was least demanding.

But Barney, himself, sometimes made it a little hard. Once, when out of the real affection she felt for him, she leaned over behind his chair and put her cheek against his, he said, almost roughly, "You don't have to pretend, Jan. I went into this with my eyes open."

And so something of the ease and naturalness of their earlier companionship had gone, leaving nothing in its place.

Next day Janet had her own exquisite linens—the things Aunt Mary had monogrammed for her wedding to Lance Barstow—sent over from the Breckenridge, together with her other possessions. Among other things there was the imported cretonne she and Aunt Mary had picked up at a sale months ago because it would be perfect for the upstairs sitting room of the white house. She also asked Cynthia to send along Aunt Mary's sewing machine.

In the load Cynthia included, besides, several warm, soft-colored rugs that Janet had bought for her own room, her reading lamp with the cream shade, her white onyx table lamp, her gold-colored silk bedspread and draperies, two of her favorite pictures, the electric clock which had stood on her mantle-piece, and a silver bowl for flowers with candlesticks to match.

By a prodigy of effort for one unaccustomed to such work, Janet cut and made slip covers for the dingy chairs. With the rugs covering the worst in the carpet, the lamps softly burning, and the 25-cent dozen of roses she bought at the corner market in the silver bowl, they transformed the drabness of the living room into intimate coziness. The curtains, Janet decided, would have to "do" for a while. At least, they were clean and inoffensive.

"Home from the wars!" Barney called, coming in that night, looking taut, but doggedly cheerful.

Then his eyes lit with incredulous pleasure as he stepped into the transformed room.

"Gosh, Jan!" he cried softly. "Gosh!"

"Like it?" Janet asked proudly.

"Like it?" he echoed, looking about him slowly.

He took her into his arms and kissed her.

"If only—" Then as if [illegible] broke off abruptly.

"If only what?" Janet asked.

"Oh, nothing."

He released her and turned to take off his coat.

Janet started to cry out, "Barney, what do you mean by 'anything'?"

But she caught herself in time. Barney would hate that. She remembered that the suggestion that he might be in danger had always seemed to embarrass and irritate him.

Instead, she laughed, not quite naturally, and said, "That sounds to me as if one of those coat-of-mail undershirts might be indicated—the kind gangsters wear, if they really do—and a six-shooter. Think of the headlines: 'Ace News Reporter Forced to Go Armed.' And I'll bet you can't even shoot."

He grinned; then said with a touch of grimness, "You'll lose then," and changed the subject abruptly.

But she had a feeling that she had somehow let him down. It seemed to her that often, these last few days, there had been that something defensive about Barney's grin. She had never noticed that before. She wondered if she only imagined it now because, especially since seeing Cynthia and Timothy Benton together, she had found herself feeling doubly guilty that she was taking so much from Barney and giving so little—most guilty of all when he was least demanding.

But Barney, himself, sometimes made it a little hard. Once, when out of the real affection she felt for him, she leaned over behind his chair and put her cheek against his, he said, almost roughly, "You don't have to pretend, Jan. I went into this with my eyes open."

And so something of the ease and naturalness of their earlier companionship had gone, leaving nothing in its place.

Next day Janet had her own exquisite linens—the things Aunt Mary had monogrammed for her wedding to Lance Barstow—sent over from the Breckenridge, together with her other possessions. Among other things there was the imported cretonne she and Aunt Mary had picked up at a sale months ago because it would be perfect for the upstairs sitting room of the white house. She also asked Cynthia to send along Aunt Mary's sewing machine.

In the load Cynthia included, besides, several warm, soft-colored rugs that Janet had bought for her own room, her reading lamp with the cream shade, her white onyx table lamp, her gold-colored silk bedspread and draperies, two of her favorite pictures, the electric clock which had stood on her mantle-piece, and a silver bowl for flowers with candlesticks to match.

By a prodigy of effort for one unaccustomed to such work, Janet cut and made slip covers for the dingy chairs. With the rugs covering the worst in the carpet, the lamps softly burning, and the 25-cent dozen of roses she bought at the corner market in the silver bowl, they transformed the drabness of the living room into intimate coziness. The curtains, Janet decided, would have to "do" for a while. At least, they were clean and inoffensive.

"Home from the wars!" Barney called, coming in that night, looking taut, but doggedly cheerful.

Then his eyes lit with incredulous pleasure as he stepped into the transformed room.

"Gosh, Jan!" he cried softly. "Gosh!"

"Like it?" Janet asked proudly.

"Like it?" he echoed, looking about him slowly.

He took her into his arms and kissed her.

"If only—" Then as if reminding himself of an earlier resolution, he broke off abruptly.

"If only what?" Janet asked.

"Oh, nothing."

He released her and turned to take off his coat.

Counting The Cost

The Spanish tragedy now staggers to its final act. Amid the dust and blood and tears, Spain may now stumble to her feet and try to set her face forward again.

Nearly two million men in arms must somehow be returned to civilian life in a country whose population is only 22,000,000.

Between 700,000 and a million men are dead on the field of battle. No one knows, no one will ever know, how many were assassinated by both factions during the early days of the revolt, how many have been executed by both sides, how many men, women and children have been killed by bombs and shells. No one will ever know how many thousands have died of privation and shock, but these casualties surely are in the scores of thousands.

Hundreds of thousands are wounded and maimed, and scores of thousands will never again have decent physical or mental health because of what they have felt, and seen, and done.

Last of all, the cost in money. Again, no one knows what it is, but certainly any new Spanish government must start out as a bankrupt.

This is a cost perhaps higher in proportion to population than any other country paid during the World war. It is a foretaste of what future wars will be if they come.

Now that the extremists of both sides, the right and the left, have had their say at the point of the bayonet, the reasonable people must be heard at last, the middle-of-the-road people whom it is now the fashion to decry as wishy-washy and futile.

Such a one, Salvador de Madariaga, spoke words a year and a half ago which all can see now were true. But a year and a half ago, none would listen. Madariaga, first ambassador of the Spanish republic to the United States, and president of the League of Nations council, spoke from Switzerland:

"Both sides fight for an ideal . . . but while fighting for an ideal Spain are they not destroying that real Spain without which their ideal nation cannot materialize? . . . Moral victory—the one that matters—will not be theirs, whoever wins, since military victory will be due to a preponderance of foreign war weapons. . . . Thus the real Spain will not be committed to a victory which—whoever wins—will be a foreign victory. And so—whoever wins—Spain is defeated.

"Whoever wins must govern with the good-will of all Spaniards, and that good-will cannot be enforced."

Wise, prophetic words, to which bleeding Spain must return, now that the extremists of both sides have done their worst.

The kind of words to which people of any country would do well to listen before they allow uncompromising extremists to plunge them into the hell of civil or foreign wars.

FAVORABLE BALANCE?

A rather remarkable thing happened to United States foreign trade in 1938.

In 1937 we sent abroad, according to the Alexander Hamilton institute, $3,349,000,000 worth of goods. In 1938, this fell off only to $3,094,000,000, a rather small drop considering the general state of world business. Meanwhile imports fell from $3,084,000,000 in 1937 to $1,960,000,000 in 1938, a tremendous decline.

How could we sell so much abroad and buy so little? Well, the foreign countries sent gold and silver, more than enough to make up the difference. This is what is called, in pre-depression language, a "favorable balance" of trade.

What's favorable about it? We received, instead of things people could eat or wear, gold and silver of which we have too much already. We brought closer the day when the other countries will have run out of gold and silver, at which time they will have nothing to send in exchange for our exports, since we take less and less import goods all the time.

And that is the day when our export will fail to hold up as it did between 1937 and 1938, and we will all wonder "what has become of our export trade?" and "How did Germany get it?"

AIN'T

A Princeton professor of language says the word "ain't" isn't so bad. It has a good historic background. Americans have said "ain't" since 1775. Maybe this departure from usage of good English was one of their shows of independence along with the Boston tea party and the continental congress.

The indulgence comes a little late. Schools and the means of education have pretty well eradicated "ain't" from the American colloquial speech. After all, isn't contains no more letters and is a lot easier to expand into its component parts.

If the professor would tell us what to use for a common gender relative pronoun to go with such words as everybody and nobody and one without assuming that these words always refer to males, he would be getting our modern speech out of a real tangle. It is awkward for a woman to say, "One doesn't know what to do with one's hat in the theater." And it is obviously ungrammatical to say, "Everybody keeps their hats on."

• BRUCE CATTON IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON—Before this session of congress ends, there will be a spirited dustup over the emergency powers held by President Roosevelt.

Although he is in the seventh year of his presidency, Mr. Roosevelt still holds most of the extraordinary powers delegated to him by congress. Practically all of these powers either are or were due to expire next June. A few have already been extended for two years; but the vigilant Republican minority in the house is preparing to do battle before any more extensions are voted.

Congressman Joe Martin of Massachusetts, Republican minority leader, recently appointed a committee of 17 Republican representatives to study the president's emergency powers. This committee has just begun its sessions, under the chairmanship of Congressman Jesse P. Wolcott of Michigan.

It will submit to the Republican membership of the house a detailed recommendation on each case. And then the shooting will begin.

Too Much Strength?

Says Congressman Wolcott: "The extraordinary powers we've directly and indirectly given the president have set up a situation where we virtually have a managed economy.

"The president can create a depression—as he did in 1937. And if his power to distribute the money appropriated by congress in any manner he sees fit isn't checked, he can also create a period of seeming prosperity by spending government money.

"The president in these particulars has nearly as much power as Stalin, Hitler or Mussolini. He controls the velocity of credit, the life-blood of agriculture, business and industry.

"We are going to endeavor to recoup those emergency powers, so that the people may have jurisdiction over all of them, through the congress."

President's 'Powerhouse'

The list of extraordinary powers is impressive. It includes:

The power to revalue the gold dollar.

Control of the foreign exchange stabilization funds—a matter of $2,000,000,000, whose operations are secret.

The power to issue $3,000,000,000 worth of paper money.

The power to apportion relief appropriations.

Control over FHA home modernization loans.

Control over the rules under which gold may be imported, exported, bought, sold, or stored.

Control over the use of government bonds secured by federal reserve notes.

The power to put the currency on a bi-metallic standard by ordering the free and unlimited coinage of silver.

The power to raise or lower any tariff duty by 50 per cent.

These powers, with the exception of that of raising or lowering tariffs, are due to expire in the spring unless congress votes an extension. The tariff power does not automatically expire, but is due to come up for consideration during discussion of the reciprocal trade agreement act.

In the case of five other powers, extensions have already been voted. These are:

The Import-Export bank.

The Electric Farm and Home authority.

The Commodity Credit corporation.

The RFC Mortgage corporation.

The lending powers of the RFC.

Battle On Currency Likely

Congressman Martin remarks that six years' trial have shown that these emergency powers did not solve the country's economic or social problems, and suggests that the country wants "to start at once toward the restoration of balanced government."

It is likely that some of the most spirited debate will come when extension of the devaluing power and the power to issue $3,000,000,000 in greenbacks are up for consideration. The latter power has never been used, and there is no indication that any further use will be made of the former.

But to remove the powers permanently appeals to the Republican leaders as an excellent means of notifying the country that the nation no longer is faced by an emergency and that currency-manipulation fears can be set at rest.

JIMMIE FIDLER In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, March 4.—For three or four years, Hollywood's movie-makers have been trying to alibi the slump in theater attendance by passing the buck to the writers. According to the studio czars, their scribes have not been giving them enough stories—moreover, the stories which have been written have been inferior. They've sold their wail so effectively that even the industry's trade papers, which should know better, have joined in the chorus.

And here's the pay-off: At the great academy award dinner the other evening, Arthur Rankin was solemnly presented with a statuette for his original story, "Boys Town," picked by general ballot as the best of the year. Mr. Rankin wrote that story in 1929, just 10 years ago—and his agent had been peddling it from studio to studio for eight years before it found a taker! And the author of "The Life of Louis Pasteur" could tell an even more ironic story—if he hadn't died of combined disappointment and discouragement. He wrote that academy award winner on studio time—and was fired for his pains. The studio considered it an absolute dud.

I could cite a dozen similar cases, but those two should be enough to serve the purpose. There's no dearth of good screen stories in Hollywood, and no dearth of men capable of writing more. Hollywood merely lacks executives with sufficient judgment to recognize good stories when they see them. It also lacks men who are fearless enough to break away from the tried and proven hokum. Any story is apt to become tiresome after its umpteenth screening.

Mutterings: Hard to believe when I remember her woe at losing Harmon O. Nelson, but it really looks like Bette Davis has a Brent for romance. Imaginable hilarious evening: refereeing an insulting duel between George Bernard Shaw and John Barrymore—my dough would still be on the great profile. Now that studios have put hair on the chests of Bob Taylor and "Bob" Breen, how about devoting a little attention to Guy Kibbee's pate? Pomp and circumstance: Hollywood hostesses' silly habit of supplying informal dinner guests with printed menus.

Frantic urge: to interrupt Dorothy Lamour's sad-voiced songs with a cheery "There, there, little girl, you mustn't cry." The amount of an actress' salary is in exact inverse ratio to the amount of clothes she wears in her publicity stills—with experience you can guess the approximate size of the paycheck every time. Nervous itch: to strap Marie Wilson's ever-fluttering hands tight to her sides and tell her to act if she dares. Wondering muse: why are the foreign stars so much more venomous in their jealousy of one another than are our home-grown celebrities?

Without Grace Moore on hand to stir things up, this town's as tame as a Fourth of July with fireworks. Secret ambition: to watch Nelson Eddy trying to slap Victor McLaglen around in real life the way he did for that picture, "Let Freedom Ring." Silly notions: Joan Davis fighting off a swarm of ants. Norma Shearer's announced intention of playing only romantic young girls in the future does make those stories about the late Irving G. Thalberg being the guardian of her career seem plausible.

Add the Ritz zannies to your list of superstitious stars. One of yesterday's scenes for "The Gorilla" called for them to fall down a flight of stairs, and they were willing enough until Al Ritz discovered there were 13 steps. "Nothing doing!" they chorused—and held up production for half an hour while carpenters constructed a false landing that lopped off the bottom step. And here's the laugh: In the first take, Harry misjudged his tumble, strained his wrist and scraped his knee. I asked him if he was hurt. "Not much," he said, after a check-up. "But if there'd been 13 steps there, I'da broken my neck, sure!"

Speaking of things injured, I'm reminded of Nancy Kelly's pride. It suffered when, on arriving in Hollywood, she learned that despite her grown-up roles she would have to conform to all the rules and regulations of the California state board of education—a tutor on the set, regular hours for lessons, etc. Last week, she took a final examination on her high school studies, passed with flying colors and congratulated herself that her adolescent humiliations were over. She was too hasty. There's another state law that governs the employment of minors. Until Nancy attains the ripe old age of 18, on the 25th of this month, a state officer will sit beside her, watch in hand and make sure that her working hours are within the law.

I like Joe E. Brown's story about the old vaudevillian who was being hissed by some cluck in the audience. The oldster finally stopped and spoke directly to the heckler. "My friend, there are three things that hiss—a goose, a snake and a fool. Suppose you identify yourself."

Human Side Of The News

By EDWIN C. HILL

(Copyright, 1938, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Chichester, N. Y., a town of generations of woodworkers, on the auction block a few weeks ago, gets a new lease of life. There's a deal on which will reopen the furniture factory. When the hungry citizens heard the good news, the first thing they said was: "Now we can open up the bowling alley." That's interesting, because the spot that Rip Van Winkle picked out for his twenty-year nap is only around the corner from Chichester and this mountain country. No wonder they take to bowling.

When Rip returned, his wife's new husband said: "Give him a cold potato and send him away." If he had slept 150 instead of 20 years, he might have found folks more friendly, but he would be lucky to get a cold potato after more than a century of industrial progress. He probably would have gone to sleep again, hoping to wake up in a day when a skilled craftsman might earn a living.

Company towns of mining, lumber, agriculture, have employed migratory and seasonal labor of widely varied national derivations, but lightly rooted in American soil and tradition. Here at Chichester, is a carry-over into the power age of Walt Whitman's stalwart Americans who broke the soil, owned their tools, applied their varied skills, paid their debts, and took no back talk from anybody. Perhaps they stayed too long. Even with the wheels turning again, the town is still up for sale—and that means the home of every man in it, the church and general store, the boss' mansion, the factory, the school, social and recreation halls and their beloved bowling alley. If, as you read this, you are sitting on a chair of exceptionally fine craftsmanship, it is possible that it was made by the Chichester workers. For four or five generations they have been making furniture like that, for well-to-do people all over the world.

The increase in farm and home tenancy and share-cropping has been a disquieting trend of latter-day America. But the company-town is now passing. There are fewer of them in each decade. Independence and home ownership have proven a better stimulus to productivity and good citizenship. An observing friend of this writer who recently toured the south, tells me that the textile industry, long the stronghold of this form of industrial community, is beginning to encourage town ownership and organization entirely independent of the company. He quoted one North Carolina manufacturer substantially as follows:

"Industrial paternalism doesn't work out any better than governmental paternalism. We are coming to believe that both are unmitigated evils. Company towns grew up in an effort to cut down labor turnover and unrest and to give us social controls which we believed were necessary for stability in the industry and good for the workers.

"Some company towns have been well and honestly managed, providing many educational recreational services which the workers might not have enjoyed otherwise. Others have been bad in every way, with wretched housing and exorbitant prices at the company store. In my opinion it hasn't worked out in either case—good or bad. There is absolutely no substitute for free home ownership, free business and the hope of some gain and security all around. I predict that in a few years the company town will be a thing of the past in the textile regions."

In the deep hillbilly regions of the mountains, the people never have taken kindly to company towns and never liked to see their sons and daughters move into them. Nor do they take kindly to the federal housing and reclamation projects. A patch of shallow soil and a tumbledown cabin, distressing as both may seem in the light of decent living standards, are prized as a better way of life, because they are their own—as poor as it may be, it is their own.

No one with any concern for human dignity and welfare will defend such conditions, yet this stubborn survival of the pioneer spirit is something which government and industry might ponder as the great national housing drive gathers momentum.

The Berry schools in the south have achieved much by a tactful regard for this intense individualism in this vastly American, Scotch, Irish stock. Government housing hasn't reached down to the little roadside cabin yet, with all the millions that have been spent. Isn't it possible that it may be done by education, by somehow loosening a flow of credit, by a stimulus to agriculture, by diversified farming and other such devices, rather than by huge direct subsidies and their attendant peternalism? A company town is a company town, whether the boss is an industrial padrone or Uncle Sam running one of those huge housing projects.

STAMP NEWS

By I. S. Klein

ISSUANCE of the first U. S stamp of the 1939 program, the 3-cent Golden Gate Exposition value, found ready reception around the country. There were 352,165 first-day covers canceled in San Francisco, 10,296 in Washington. Total sales in San Francisco stood at $25,147.18 and $11,407 in Washington.

Subsequently, it was announced that the initial printing of this stamp had been increased from 50,000,000 to 65,000,000.

Reports from London indicate the British Coronation stamps are again in demand, after having dropped below face value. This is true because dealer supplies are being exhausted and many colonies have destroyed stocks of remaining Coronations to make way for the new reign issues.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

"My boy doesn't come home from school. Either he goes to play on the field or he goes visiting in other boys' homes. Nothing I can do or say seems to help. He simply will not come home. He is ten, and if I can't make him come home now what will I do when he is in his teens?"

You can never make a boy or girl come home. You cannot make them do anything and have it stick. What you need to do is to get the child to want to do the thing you wish he would do. Anything you do with any other aim in view is so much wasted effort. Work to win the will and to harness the purpose of the child, and not to make him do what you want. When he wants what you want everything goes smoothly.

How can one get a boy or girl to want to come home after school? By having something at home that the child wants. He will go home if he finds there what he is wanting just as he goes to the field, or to the other boys' homes, for it. There is something there that he wants and he goes after it. Put that thing in his home in better quality and greater quantity and he will go home.

You won't bribe him to obey? Neither will you force him. Make up your mind to that. You cannot force anybody, especially a boy of ten, to do what you want by imposing your will upon him. You may catch him and hold him as you might capture and hold a prisoner. But the instant he sees a chance for escape he is off and away and it will be much harder to catch him and bind him another time. Experience works for him, as it does for you.

What do boys like to find at home? First a welcome, somebody glad to see him. Then a welcome for his friends. Something good for them to eat. A place for meeting, talk, play and work. If home provides these for its children the boys and girls will go home rather than anywhere else.

It is no idle thing, this welcoming of homecoming school children. Mothers are tired of housework. They have cooked and cleaned and washed dishes, and there is still another meal to be cooked and served and all the work they entail, still to do. Taking in a group of hungry, restless children is doing something. But that is what home means, a service to children for eighteen years or so. After that, things ease off a bit, but home becomes a lonely empty place. So be careful.

If the children are taught to help do the work that their entertaining makes for the household, they will be all the happier, and the mother's work will be lightened. It is a fine idea to simplify life at this stage. Use much paper in the refreshment department. Plates and cups and napkins, when used, can well be of paper. Furniture and fittings can be the sturdiest and simplest possible. Children are not particular about the quality of the rugs and chairs, or games, or table service. It is the feeling of being welcomed, or having a chance to relax in the presence of friends, in the practice of games they know and like.

Begin early to train children with this sort of home background, and when they get to the place where they need chums, need the "bunch," you will have the comfort of their presence in the safety and protection of their home. They go after what they want. They stay with it when they get it.

Send for it, addressing your request to Mr. Angelo Patri, Child Psychology Department, News-Star—World Pub. Co., and enclose a self-addressed, stamped (3-cent) envelope.

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

WASHINGTON—The diplomatic nut which has not yet been cracked either here or abroad is whether Japan is tightly united with Germany and Italy in a military alliance against all comers or just merely sailing along with them for mutual benefit.

Japan's seizure of Hainan island, off the French Indo-China coast, could be interpreted either way.

Neither the United States, England, nor France has accepted as a fact that there is a military alliance. There are reasons for Japan to hesitate. Her alliance with Germany and Italy against communism, which means against Russia, is a natural for her. But joining a military alliance against any and all enemies of Germany and Italy, is different.

Japan is disposed to tool along with the United States on a reasonably friendly basis and only a foolish diplomat would think of trying to do that and fight England and France at the same time.

Many Factors Add Up

These things are not matters of record but the situation is evident to those who have an opportunity to question authorities.

A true alliance would strengthen even further Germany's position in Europe. Without such a tie-up England and France can act more boldly in Europe. The persuasive efforts of the United States upon Germany and Italy to preserve peace may also be more noticeable.

The Hainan seizure is being watched closely here just now for an important reason: The pressure upon Hitler to make a decisive move is reported to be increasing.

A further pressure arises from within. Private sources indicate that German note issues are increasing. This variety of inflation has not been widely advertised. German people know only of a mild increase in prices and Hitler's statement that the country must "export to get money) or die."

As to what Hitler's next move may be, only unverified reports are available. Some reports trickling over here are to the effect that Holland is to be the next victim.

There's A Tie-Up

That would tie in with the Japanese seizure of Hainan. Is this seizure a first step in a joint Japanese-German action against the Netherlands and her East Indian colonies? That problem causes the Hainan case to be examined closely by this country. For Japan to get hold of any large section of the oil fields in the Dutch East Indies, due south of Hainan, would be a factor of prime importance in the United States' relations in the Pacific.

Thus the situation rambles—half way around the world—but the ends tie together. If Japan is in a tight military alliance with Germany, then the Hainan seizure adds weight to rumors of an invasion of Holland. (And England might easily go to war to prevent Germany becoming so near a neighbor across the North sea.)

If Japan is not in such an alliance, then the Hainan seizure could be accepted as just an opportunist action on her part. Maybe she simply saw a chance to carry a threat against both French and English Indian possessions in protest against their shipping arms to China. And took the step opportunely when England and France were much embroiled over the Spanish business.

YOUR HEALTH

By Dr. Morris Fishbein

(Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygeia the Health

The far-sightedness which comes to most of mankind with advancing years is called scientifically presbyopia, which translated literally means "the old man's sight." This comes on about the age of 40 and slowly increases to reach a maximum about the age of 70.

The gradual decline in the power of accomodation of the eye is due to a loss of elasticity of the lens. As the man grows older, the lens becomes rigid and flat. Thus reading becomes increasingly difficult, and it is necessary to have convex eyeglasses in order to do close work.

The older individual can follow a golf ball or a horse race perhaps better than he could before, but has a hard time seeing objects that are close to him. Gradually the person begins holding his book or his newspaper farther away and holding his head backwards.

At night the difficulty is increased because of poor illumination. Unless something is done, the eyes feel weary after reading and headaches soon follow.

When a specialist in conditions affecting the eye is consulted, he is likely to prescribe the wearing of convex eyeglasses for all work that is done close to the eye, including particularly the reading of small print.

It is important also for the person who fits the eyes with glasses to know the nature of the occupation of the person concerned. For example, the distance of 13 inches is correct for reading, writing and sewing, but a piano player might require the best vision at a distance of 20 to 35 inches at which point he reads music.

Many people may require one pair of eyeglasses for doing their work and another pair for reading.

It is also important that each of the eyes be fitted according to its condition, because frequently the two eyes differ in construction and effectiveness. Since there may be such trouble as astigmatism as well as the difficulty with the lens, the person who fits the eyeglasses must take account of such difficulties as well. Furthermore, this condition, once begun, increases so that stronger glasses may eventually be required.

Spectacles are one of the greatest contributions to the comfort and usefulness of mankind, but the correct fitting in accordance with the individual concerned is of as much importance as the lenses themselves.

Castor oil trees grow 30 to 40 feet high in the tropical regions of India, British East Africa, French Indo-China, Mexico and South America.

Counting The Cost

The Spanish tragedy now staggers to its final act. Amid the dust and blood and tears, Spain may now stumble to her feet and try to set her face forward again.

Nearly two million men in arms must somehow be returned to civilian life in a country whose population is only 22,000,000.

Between 700,000 and a million men are dead on the field of battle. No one knows, no one will ever know, how many were assassinated by both factions during the early days of the revolt, how many have been executed by both sides, how many men, women and children have been killed by bombs and shells. No one will ever know how many thousands have died of privation and shock, but these casualties surely are in the scores of thousands.

Hundreds of thousands are wounded and maimed, and scores of thousands will never again have decent physical or mental health because of what they have felt, and seen, and done.

Last of all, the cost in money. Again, no one knows what it is, but certainly any new Spanish government must start out as a bankrupt.

This is a cost perhaps higher in proportion to population than any other country paid during the World war. It is a foretaste of what future wars will be if they come.

Now that the extremists of both sides, the right and the left, have had their say at the point of the bayonet, the reasonable people must be heard at last, the middle-of-the-road people whom it is now the fashion to decry as wishy-washy and futile.

Such a one, Salvador de Madariaga, spoke words a year and a half ago which all can see now were true. But a year and a half ago, none would listen. Madariaga, first ambassador of the Spanish republic to the United States, and president of the League of Nations council, spoke from Switzerland:

"Both sides fight for an ideal . . . but while fighting for an ideal Spain are they not destroying that real Spain without which their ideal nation cannot materialize? . . . Moral victory—the one that matters—will not be theirs, whoever wins, since military victory will be due to a preponderance of foreign war weapons. . . . Thus the real Spain will not be committed to a victory which—whoever wins—will be a foreign victory. And so—whoever wins—Spain is defeated.

"Whoever wins must govern with the good-will of all Spaniards, and that good-will cannot be enforced."

Wise, prophetic words, to which bleeding Spain must return, now that the extremists of both sides have done their worst.

The kind of words to which people of any country would do well to listen before they allow uncompromising extremists to plunge them into the hell of civil or foreign wars.

FAVORABLE BALANCE?

A rather remarkable thing happened to United States foreign trade in 1938.

In 1937 we sent abroad, according to the Alexander Hamilton institute, $3,349,000,000 worth of goods. In 1938, this fell off only to $3,094,000,000, a rather small drop considering the general state of world business. Meanwhile imports fell from $3,084,000,000 in 1937 to $1,960,000,000 in 1938, a tremendous decline.

How could we sell so much abroad and buy so little? Well, the foreign countries sent gold and silver, more than enough to make up the difference. This is what is called, in pre-depression language, a "favorable balance" of trade.

What's favorable about it? We received, instead of things people could eat or wear, gold and silver of which we have too much already. We brought closer the day when the other countries will have run out of gold and silver, at which time they will have nothing to send in exchange for our exports, since we take less and less import goods all the time.

And that is the day when our export will fail to hold up as it did between 1937 and 1938, and we will all wonder "what has become of our export trade?" and "How did Germany get it?"

AIN'T

A Princeton professor of language says the word "ain't" isn't so bad. It has a good historic background. Americans have said "ain't" since 1775. Maybe this departure from usage of good English was one of their shows of independence along with the Boston tea party and the continental congress.

The indulgence comes a little late. Schools and the means of education have pretty well eradicated "ain't" from the American colloquial speech. After all, isn't contains no more letters and is a lot easier to expand into its component parts.

If the professor would tell us what to use for a common gender relative pronoun to go with such words as everybody and nobody and one without assuming that these words always refer to males, he would be getting our modern speech out of a real tangle. It is awkward for a woman to say, "One doesn't know what to do with one's hat in the theater." And it is obviously ungrammatical to say, "Everybody keeps their hats on."

• BRUCE CATTON IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON—Before this session of congress ends, there will be a spirited dustup over the emergency powers held by President Roosevelt.

Although he is in the seventh year of his presidency, Mr. Roosevelt still holds most of the extraordinary powers delegated to him by congress. Practically all of these powers either are or were due to expire next June. A few have already been extended for two years; but the vigilant Republican minority in the house is preparing to do battle before any more extensions are voted.

Congressman Joe Martin of Massachusetts, Republican minority leader, recently appointed a committee of 17 Republican representatives to study the president's emergency powers. This committee has just begun its sessions, under the chairmanship of Congressman Jesse P. Wolcott of Michigan.

It will submit to the Republican membership of the house a detailed recommendation on each case. And then the shooting will begin.

Too Much Strength?

Says Congressman Wolcott: "The extraordinary powers we've directly and indirectly given the president have set up a situation where we virtually have a managed economy.

"The president can create a depression—as he did in 1937. And if his power to distribute the money appropriated by congress in any manner he sees fit isn't checked, he can also create a period of seeming prosperity by spending government money.

"The president in these particulars has nearly as much power as Stalin, Hitler or Mussolini. He controls the velocity of credit, the life-blood of agriculture, business and industry.

"We are going to endeavor to recoup those emergency powers, so that the people may have jurisdiction over all of them, through the congress."

President's 'Powerhouse'

The list of extraordinary powers is impressive. It includes:

The power to revalue the gold dollar.

Control of the foreign exchange stabilization funds—a matter of $2,000,000,000, whose operations are secret.

The power to issue $3,000,000,000 worth of paper money.

The power to apportion relief appropriations.

Control over FHA home modernization loans.

Control over the rules under which gold may be imported, exported, bought, sold, or stored.

Control over the use of government bonds secured by federal reserve notes.

The power to put the currency on a bi-metallic standard by ordering the free and unlimited coinage of silver.

The power to raise or lower any tariff duty by 50 per cent.

These powers, with the exception of that of raising or lowering tariffs, are due to expire in the spring unless congress votes an extension. The tariff power does not automatically expire, but is due to come up for consideration during discussion of the reciprocal trade agreement act.

In the case of five other powers, extensions have already been voted. These are:

The Import-Export bank.

The Electric Farm and Home authority.

The Commodity Credit corporation.

The RFC Mortgage corporation.

The lending powers of the RFC.

Battle On Currency Likely

Congressman Martin remarks that six years' trial have shown that these emergency powers did not solve the country's economic or social problems, and suggests that the country wants "to start at once toward the restoration of balanced government."

It is likely that some of the most spirited debate will come when extension of the devaluing power and the power to issue $3,000,000,000 in greenbacks are up for consideration. The latter power has never been used, and there is no indication that any further use will be made of the former.

But to remove the powers permanently appeals to the Republican leaders as an excellent means of notifying the country that the nation no longer is faced by an emergency and that currency-manipulation fears can be set at rest.

JIMMIE FIDLER In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, March 4.—For three or four years, Hollywood's moviemakers have been trying to alibi the slump in theater attendance by passing the buck to the writers. According to the studio czars, their scribes have not been giving them enough stories—moreover, the stories which have been written have been inferior. They've sold their wail so effectively that even the industry's trade papers, which should know better, have joined in the chorus.

And here's the pay-off: At the great academy award dinner the other evening, Arthur Rankin was solemnly presented with a statuette for his original story, "Boys Town," picked by general ballot as the best of the year. Mr. Rankin wrote that story in 1929, just 10 years ago—and his agent had been peddling it from studio to studio for eight years before it found a taker! And the author of "The Life of Louis Pasteur" could tell an even more ironic story—if he hadn't died of combined disappointment and discouragement. He wrote that academy award winner on studio time—and was fired for his pains. The studio considered it an absolute dud.

I could cite a dozen similar cases, but those two should be enough to serve the purpose. There's no dearth of good screen stories in Hollywood, and no dearth of men capable of writing more. Hollywood merely lacks executives with sufficient judgment to recognize good stories when they see them. It also lacks men who are fearless enough to break away from the tried and proven hokum. Any story is apt to become tiresome after its umpteenth screening.

Mutterings: Hard to believe when I remember her woe at losing Harmon O. Nelson, but it really looks like Bette Davis has a Brent for romance. Imaginable hilarious evening: refereeing an insulting duel between George Bernard Shaw and John Barrymore—my dough would still be on the great profile. Now that studios have put hair on the chests of Bob Taylor and "Bob" Breen, how about devoting a little attention to Guy Kibbee's pate? Pomp and circumstance: Hollywood hostesses' silly habit of supplying informal dinner guests with printed menus.

Frantic urge: to interrupt Dorothy Lamour's sad-voiced songs with a cheery "There, there, little girl, you mustn't cry." The amount of an actress' salary is in exact inverse ratio to the amount of clothes she wears in her publicity stills—with experience you can guess the approximate size of the paycheck every time. Nervous itch: to strap Marie Wilson's ever-fluttering hands tight to her sides and tell her to act if she dares. Wondering muse: why are the foreign stars so much more venomous in their jealousy of one another than are our home-grown celebrities?

Without Grace Moore on hand to stir things up, this town's as tame as a Fourth of July with fireworks. Secret ambition: to watch Nelson Eddy trying to slap Victor McLaglen around in real life the way he did for that picture, "Let Freedom Ring." Silly notions: Joan Davis fighting off a swarm of ants. Norma Shearer's announced intention of playing only romantic young girls in the future does make those stories about the late Irving G. Thalberg being the guardian of her career seem plausible.

Add the Ritz zannies to your list of superstitious stars. One of yesterday's scenes for "The Gorilla" called for them to fall down a flight of stairs, and they were willing enough until Al Ritz discovered there were 13 steps. "Nothing doing!" they chorused—and held up production for half an hour while carpenters constructed a false landing that lopped off the bottom step. And here's the laugh: In the first take, Harry misjudged his tumble, strained his wrist and scraped his knee. I asked him if he was hurt. "Not much," he said, after a check-up. "But if there'd been 13 steps there, I'da broken my neck, sure!"

Speaking of things injured, I'm reminded of Nancy Kelly's pride. It suffered when, on arriving in Hollywood, she learned that despite her grown-up roles she would have to conform to all the rules and regulations of the California state board of education—a tutor on the set, regular hours for lessons, etc. Last week, she took a final examination on her high school studies, passed with flying colors and congratulated herself that her adolescent humiliations were over. She was too hasty. There's another state law that governs the employment of minors. Until Nancy attains the ripe old age of 18, on the 25th of this month, a state officer will sit beside her, watch in hand and make sure that her working hours are within the law.

I like Joe E. Brown's story about the old vaudevillian who was being hissed by some cluck in the audience. The oldster finally stopped and spoke directly to the heckler. "My friend, there are three things that hiss—a goose, a snake and a fool. Suppose you identify yourself."

Human Side Of The News

(Copyright, 1938, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Chichester, N. Y., a town of generations of woodworkers, on the auction block a few weeks ago, gets a new lease of life. There's a deal on which will reopen the furniture factory. When the hungry citizens heard the good news, the first thing they said was: "Now we can open up the bowling alley." That's interesting, because the spot that Rip Van Winkle picked out for his twenty-year nap is only around the corner from Chichester and this mountain country. No wonder they take to bowling.

When Rip returned, his wife's new husband said: "Give him a cold potato and send him away." If he had slept 150 instead of 20 years, he might have found folks more friendly, but he would be lucky to get a cold potato after more than a century of industrial progress. He probably would have gone to sleep again, hoping to wake up in a day when a skilled craftsman might earn a living.

Company towns of mining, lumber, agriculture, have employed migratory and seasonal labor of widely varied national derivations, but lightly rooted in American soil and tradition. Here at Chichester, is a carry-over into the power age of Walt Whitman's stalwart Americans who broke the soil, owned their tools, applied their varied skills, paid their debts, and took no back talk from anybody. Perhaps they stayed too long. Even with the wheels turning again, the town is still up for sale—and that means the home of every man in it, the church and general store, the boss' mansion, the factory, the school, social and recreation halls and their beloved bowling alley. If, as you read this, you are sitting on a chair of exceptionally fine craftsmanship, it is possible that it was made by the Chichester workers. For four or five generations they have been making furniture like that, for well-to-do people all over the world.

The increase in farm and home tenancy and share-cropping has been a disquieting trend of latter-day America. But the company-town is now passing. There are fewer of them in each decade. Independence and home ownership have proven a better stimulus to productivity and good citizenship. An observing friend of this writer who recently toured the south, tells me that the textile industry, long the stronghold of this form of industrial community, is beginning to encourage town ownership and organization entirely independent of the company. He quoted one North Carolina manufacturer substantially as follows:

"Industrial paternalism doesn't work out any better than governmental paternalism. We are coming to believe that both are unmitigated evils. Company towns grew up in an effort to cut down labor turnover and unrest and to give us social controls which we believed were necessary for stability in the industry and good for the workers.

"Some company towns have been well and honestly managed, providing many educational recreational services which the workers might not have enjoyed otherwise. Others have been bad in every way, with wretched housing and exorbitant prices at the company store. In my opinion it hasn't worked out in either case—good or bad. There is absolutely no substitute for free home ownership, free business and the hope of some gain and security all around. I predict that in a few years the company town will be a thing of the past in the textile regions."

In the deep hillbilly regions of the mountains, the people never have taken kindly to company towns and never liked to see their sons and daughters move into them. Nor do they take kindly to the federal housing and reclamation projects. A patch of shallow soil and a tumbledown cabin, distressing as both may seem in the light of decent living standards, are prized as a better way of life, because they are their own—as poor as it may be, it is their own.

No one with any concern for human dignity and welfare will defend such conditions, yet this stubborn survival of the pioneer spirit is something which government and industry might ponder as the great national housing drive gathers momentum.

The Berry schools in the south have achieved much by a tactful regard for this intense individualism in this early American, Scotch, Irish stock. Government housing hasn't reached down to the little roadside cabin yet, with all the millions that have been spent. Isn't it possible that it may be done by education, by somehow loosening a flow of credit, by a stimulus to agriculture, by diversified farming and other such devices, rather than by huge direct subsidies and their attendant peternalism? A company town is a company town, whether the boss is an industrial padrone or Uncle Sam running one of those huge housing projects.

STAMP NEWS

By I. S. Klein

ISSUANCE of the first U. S stamp of the 1939 program, the 3-cent Golden Gate Exposition value, found ready reception around the country. There were 352,165 first-day covers canceled in San Francisco, 10,296 in Washington. Total sales in San Francisco stood at $25,147.18 and $11,407 in Washington.

Subsequently, it was announced that the initial printing of this stamp had been increased from 50,000,000 to 65,000,000.

Helpful to the specializing collector will be the new "Handbook of United States Postage Meters, Including Meter Slogans." It is published by Stephen G. Rich, Verona, N. Y.

Reports from London indicate the British Coronation stamps are again in demand, after having dropped below face value. This is true because dealer supplies are being exhausted and many colonies have destroyed stocks of remaining Coronations to make way for the new reign issues.

New postal paper from the Vatican City may be expected shortly after the selection of a new Pope. Pius XI appeared on issues of the Vatican, the first pontiff pictured on a stamp. It is likely that an issue may be scheduled as a memorial to the late Pius XI.

Interesting new issues:

Bolivia—18 pictorials for regular postage; Iran (Persia)—eight values without inscriptions in Latin characters. This is the first set to carry only Arabic letters in nearly 60 years.

Canada—13-cent ultramarine, picturing Halifax harbor. Guatemala—23 airmail values.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

"My boy doesn't come home from school. Either he goes to play on the field or he goes visiting in other boys' homes. Nothing I can do or say seems to help. He simply will not come home. He is ten, and if I can't make him come home now what will I do when he is in his teens?"

You can never make a boy or girl come home. You cannot make them do anything and have it stick. What you need to do is to get the child to want to do the thing you wish he would do. Anything you do with any other aim in view is so much wasted effort. Work to win the will and to harness the purpose of the child, and not to make him do what you want. When he wants what you want everything goes smoothly.

How can one get a boy or girl to want to come home after school? By having something at home that the child wants. He will go home if he finds there what he is wanting just as he goes to the field, or to the other boys' homes, for it. There is something there that he wants and he goes after it. Put that thing in his home in better quaulity and greater quantity and he will go home.

You won't bribe him to obey? Neither will you force him. Make up your mind to that. You cannot force anybody, especially a boy of ten, to do what you want by imposing your will upon him. You may catch him and hold him as you might capture and hold a prisoner. But the instant he sees a chance for escape he is off and away and it will be much harder to catch him and bind him another time. Experience works for him, as it does for you.

What do boys like to find at home? First a welcome, somebody glad to see him. Then a welcome for his friends. Something good for them to eat. A place for meeting, talk, play and work. If home provides these for its children the boys and girls will go home rather than anywhere else.

It is no idle thing, this welcoming of homecoming school children. Mothers are tired of housework. They have cooked and cleaned and washed dishes, and there is still another meal to be cooked and served and all the work they entail, still to do. Taking in a group of hungry, restless children is doing something. But that is what home means, a service to children for eighteen years or so. After that, things ease off a bit, but home becomes a lonely empty place. So be careful.

If the children are taught to help do the work that their entertaining makes for the household, they will be all the happier, and the mother's work will be lightened. It is a fine idea to simplify life at this stage. Use much paper in the refreshment department. Plates and cups and napkins, when used, can well be of paper. Furniture and fittings can be the sturdiest and simplest possible. Children are not particular about the quality of the rugs and chairs, or games, or table service. It is the feeling of being welcomed, or having a chance to relax in the presence of friends, in the practice of games they know and like.

Begin early to train children with this sort of home background, and when they get to the place where they need chums, need the "bunch," you will have the comfort of their presence in the safety and protection of their home. They go after what they want. They stay with it when they get it.

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

WASHINGTON—The diplomatic nut which has not yet been cracked either here or abroad is whether Japan is tightly united with Germany and Italy in a military alliance against all comers or just merely sailing along with them for mutual benefit.

Japan's seizure of Hainan island, off the French Indo-China coast, could be interpreted either way.

Neither the United States, England, nor France has accepted as a fact that there is a military alliance. There are reasons for Japan to hesitate. Her alliance with Germany and Italy against communism, which means against Russia, is a natural for her. But joining a military alliance against any and all enemies of Germany and Italy, is different.

Japan is disposed to tool along with the United States on a reasonably friendly basis and only a foolish diplomat would think of trying to do that and fight England and France at the same time.

Many Factors Add Up

These things are not matters of record but the situation is evident to those who have an opportunity to question authorities.

A true alliance would strengthen even further Germany's position in Europe. Without such a tie-up England and France can act more boldly in Europe. The persuasive efforts of the United States upon Germany and Italy to preserve peace may also be more noticeable.

The Hainan seizure is being watched closely here just now for an important reason: The pressure upon Hitler to make a decisive move is reported to be increasing.

A further pressure arises from within. Private sources indicate that German note issues are increasing. This variety of inflation has not been widely advertised. German people know only of a mild increase in prices and Hitler's statement that the country must "export to get money) or die."

As to what Hitler's next move may be, only unverified reports are available. Some reports trickling over here are to the effect that Holland is to be the next victim.

There's A Tie-Up

That would tie in with the Japanese seizure of Hainan. Is this seizure a first step in a joint Japenese-German action against the Netherlands and her East Indian colonies? That problem causes the Hainan case to be examined closely by this country. For Japan to get hold of any large section of the oil fields in the Dutch East Indies, due south of Hainan, would be a factor of prime importance in the United States' relations in the Pacific.

Thus the situation rambles—half way around the world—but the ends tie together. If Japan is in a tight military alliance with Germany, then the Hainan seizure adds weight to rumors of an invasion of Holland. (And England might easily go to war to prevent Germany becoming so near a neighbor across the North sea.)

If Japan is not in such an alliance, then the Hainan seizure could be accepted as just an opportunist action on her part. Maybe she simply saw a chance to carry a threat against both French and English Indian possessions in protest against their shipping arms to China. And took the step opportunely when England and France were much embroiled over the Spanish business.

YOUR HEALTH

By Dr. Morris Fishbein

(Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygeia, the Health

The far-sightedness which comes to most of mankind with advancing years is called scientifically presbyopia, which translated literally means "the old man's sight." This comes on about the age of 40 and slowly increases to reach a maximum about the age of 70.

The gradual decline in the power of accomodation of the eye is due to a loss of elasticity of the lens. As the man grows older, the lens becomes rigid and flat. Thus reading becomes increasingly difficult, and it is necessary to have convex eyeglasses in order to do close work.

The older individual can follow a golf ball or a horse race perhaps better than he could before, but has a hard time seeing objects that are close to him. Gradually the person begins holding his book or his newspaper farther away and holding his head backwards.

At night the difficulty is increased because of poor illumination. Unless something is done, the eyes feel weary after reading and headaches soon follow.

When a specialist in conditions affecting the eye is consulted, he is likely to prescribe the wearing of convex eyeglasses for all work that is done close to the eye, including particularly the reading of small print.

It is important also for the person who fits the eyes with glasses to know the nature of the occupation of the person concerned. For example, the distance of 13 inches is correct for reading, writing and sewing, but a piano player might require the best vision at a distance of 20 to 35 inches at which point he reads music.

Many people may require one pair of eyeglasses for doing their work and another pair for reading.

It is also important that each of the eyes be fitted according to its condition, because frequently the two eyes differ in construction and effectiveness. Since there may be such trouble as astigmatism as well as the difficulty with the lens, the person who fits the eyeglasses must take account of such difficulties as well. Furthermore, this condition, once begun, increases so that stronger glasses may eventually be required.

Spectacles are one of the greatest contributions to the comfort and usefulness of mankind, but the correct fitting in accordance with the individual concerned is of as much importance as the lenses themselves.

Castor oil trees grow 30 to 40 feet high in the tropical regions of India, British East Africa, French Indo-China, Mexico and South America.

DR. CALDWELL IS LOCAL SPEAKER

Will Conduct Series Of Services At First Presbyterian Church Here

A series of evangelistic services will be initiated at the First Presbyterian church this morning at 11 a.m., by Dr. Frank H. Caldwell, president of the Louisville Presbyterian seminary, Louisville, Ky.

Dr. Caldwell has been professor of homiletics at this institution since 1930, and has had extensive experience not only as professor and college president but also as pastor. His previous pastorates were at Bradfordsville, Ky., 1925-1926, and at the White Memorial church, McComb, Miss., 1928-1930.

He is a graduate of New York university, and was accorded the Humphrey Fellowship, Edinburgh university, receiving the degree of doctor of philosophy in 1934.

He is said to be a speaker of unusual forcefulness and Rev. Ernest Duncan Holloway, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Monroe, states that he is highly pleased to secure the assistance of so capable a leader.

There will be services this morning and night and also morning and night services through the week.

$1,129,422 PROFIT REPORTED BY 'LIFE'

NEW YORK, March 4.—(AP)—Time, Inc., and subsidiaries, magazine publishers, reported today 1938 net profit of $1,129,422 as against $168,430 for 1937. Outstanding are 237,201 common shares of no par value.

Henry R. Luce, president, said the relatively small 1937 net profit was due to "large" loss for "Life" in its first year under Time's ownership as a new picture magazine. In its second year, he added, "Life" had made "enormous strides toward the black ink side of the ledger."

COMPENSATION SYSTEM IS LEFT UP TO BAILEY

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., March 4.—(AP)—Clinging to the position that Governor Carl E. Bailey and not the legislature should determine what type of workmen's compensation system is best for Arkansas, the senate today passed four different bills on the subject.

Two of the bills already had passed the house and will be delivered to Bailey next week. The other two, with two more passed by the senate Thursday, have yet to be considered by the house.

Administration leaders led the movement to put the final decision on the moot question in the governor's hands.

INDIAN DANCES WILL BE GIVEN

Exponents Of Lore Of 'Buffalo Bill' Days Will Appear At Center

Reginald and Gladys Laubin, exponents of American Indian lore and dances, will present "Old Buffalo Days" at Northeast Center of L. S. U. tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock.

"Old Buffalo Days" is a program featuring the lore, music and dances of western Indians before the disappearance of the buffalo.

The presentation includes a demonstration of the pipe ceremony as given by an old medicine man; an exhibit of old Indian relics; the recite' of life on the reservations today; the store of the Battle of the Washita in sign language; Indian music with drums, flute, whistles and rattles; explanation and demonstration of Indian dances; and a presentation featuring headdresses and ornaments patterned after the plumage and appearance of birds.

The Laubins are nationally known entertainers and in 1936 were invited by John Martin, dance critic of the New York Times, to open his course, "The Dance in the Social Scene," at the New School of Social Research in New York. They danced at the Century of Progress in Chicago, and they have danced at the Art Institute of Chicago on five occasions.

Something like 26,000,000 golf balls were sold in the United States in 1938.

Amputation Would Be Effected To Give Poland And Hungary Common Border

WARSAW, March 4.—(AP)—The possibility of arranging a new territorial amputation of Czechoslovakia to give Poland and Hungary a common border was reported tonight to be one of the chief subjects for important week-end talks between the Rumanian and Polish foreign ministers.

Grigore Gafence, foreign minister to Rumania, arrived here this morning to discuss international problems with his counterpart in the Polish government, Colonel Joseph Beck.

Both Polish and Rumanian quarters said Gafencu and Colonel Beck would discuss the possibility of Hungarian annexation of Carpatho-Ukraine, easternmost province of Czechoslovakia, thus bringing the Polish and Hungarian borders together on Rumania's north.

Sharp internal friction in federal Czechoslovakia and changed attitudes of both Germany and Rumania regarding Carpatho-Ukraine were advanced as reasons why central Europe was moving toward another Czechoslovak problem.

(In Prague, the Czechoslovak cabinet on Thursday began discussions scheduled to continue through next Monday of alleged "arbitrary actions" in economic and internal affairs of the Slovak autonomous government.

(Federal ministers are in charge of defense, finance, foreign affairs and other general matters for the whole of Czechoslovakia but there are separate administrations for the provincial affairs of the three constituent parts of the republic—Bohemia and Moravia; Capatho-Ukraine; and Slovakia.)

Carpatho-Ukraine was granted autonomy by the Czechoslovaks following last September's crisis which ended in Germany's annexation of the Sudetenland.

Hungary, supported by Poland, then claimed the whole of Carpatho-Ukraine but Germany and Italy as mediators divided the region. They gave Hungary important cities and left but a small section of mountains and forests to the Czechoslovak federal union.

(In last year's dismemberment, Czechoslovakia ceded 10,810 square miles of her territory of nearly 50,000 square miles to Germany; 4,595 square miles to Hungary and 353 square miles to Poland.)

Germany opposed publicly the Polish-Hungarian wishes for a common frontier through Hungary's absorption of all Carpatho-Ukraine. Nazi foreign policy then had Hitler's pet dream of domination over the Soviet Russian Ukraine as the next objective.

But the Nazis postponed the Ukrainian question and both Poles and Rumanians believe Germany is ready, when circumstances are ripe, to permit Hungary to take charge of Czechoslovakia's eastern tip.

DIVORCE COMPLAINT FILED AGAINST GABLE

LAS VEGAS, Nev., March 4.—(AP)—The divorce complaint of Maria F. Gable against handsome Clark Gable, Hollywood movie actor, was filed with the county clerk shortly before his office closed at noon today.

The 49 year-old Mrs. Gable arrived here January 22 to established the six weeks' residence necessary for divorce under Nevada law. Unofficially it was said the case probably will be heard in Judge William Orr's chambers next Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Gable's six weeks' residence will be completed Monday.

Her complaint charged Gable, who is 11 years younger, deserted her in October, 1935. They have no children.

In their separation, they reached a property settlement under which she received $286,000 in three years.

REAL ESTATE TRANSFERS

Real estate transfers recorded yesterday at the office of the clerk of court of Ouachita parish were:

The Townley Drilling company, Inc., sold to W. F. Grant that part of the southeast quarter of the northwest quarter of section 16 lying north of the Bosco-Boeuf river road, the northeast quarter of the northwest quarter of section 16, the southeast quarter of the southeast quarter of section 9 and the south 30 acres in the northeast quarter of the southwest quarter of section 9, all in township 15 north, range 4 east, less mineral rights, for $2,083.46.

Mrs. Elizabeth Davis sold to T. A. Mashaw her half interest in the south half of the southwest quarter of section 18 township 16 north, range 3 east, lying north of the Monroe and Southwestern railroad, for $25.

DR. CALDWELL IS LOCAL SPEAKER

Will Conduct Series Of Services At First Presbyterian Church Here

A series of evangelistic services will be initiated at the First Presbyterian church this morning at 11 a.m., by Dr. Frank H. Caldwell, president of the Louisville Presbyterian seminary, Louisville, Ky.

Dr. Caldwell has been professor of homiletics at this institution since 1930, and has had extensive experience not only as professor and college president but also as pastor. His previous pastorates were at Bradfordsville, Ky., 1925-1926, and at the White Memorial church, McComb, Miss., 1928-1930.

He is a graduate of New York university, and was accorded the Humphrey Fellowship, Edinburgh university, receiving the degree of doctor of philosophy in 1934.

He is said to be a speaker of unusual forcefulness and Rev. Ernest Duncan Holloway, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Monroe, states that he is highly pleased to secure the assistance of so capable a leader.

There will be services this morning and night and also morning and night services through the week.

Ouachita Parish, a Pioneer . . .

OUACHITA Parish once again showed its pioneering leadership in Louisiana recently by voting a tax to furnish, maintain and operate G. B. Cooley Tuberculosis Sanatorium. In so doing, it became the first of the 64 parishes in the state to provide hospitalization for underprivileged victims of one of the greatest human scourges.

The action of the electorate demonstrated that the parish has, in recent years, grown in humanitarianism as well as developed along other lines; that, while showing material progress, it has become increasingly aware of the general welfare of its residents.

A decisive move toward eradicating tuberculosis in Ouachita Parish, the hospital will be open only to indigent persons, negroes as well as whites, in immediate need of hospital treatment. But despite their financial status, they will receive the best of care known to medical science.

The plant—two large buildings of Colonial architecture—is already in readiness. As soon as it can be furnished and equipped and a medical and nursing staff organized, it will be put in operation. That shouldn't be more than a few months hence.

While the favorable vote was a credit to Ouachita Parish, it represented a personal triumph for Captain G. B. Cooley of Monroe, who, for years, has waged almost a single-handed battle against tuberculosis. He has preached against tuberculosis like a zealot and fought it, with such means as he could muster, like a fanatic.

The victory was won by Captain Cooley only after a campaign extending over virtually a quarter of a century. In recent years he has devoted his undivided attention to the Ouachita Public Health and Tuberculosis Association, which he founded, nursed along, directed and largely financed, leaving the management of his business affairs to subordinates.

The site for the sanatorium was provided by the association and the two hospital buildings were erected through the assistance of the Works Progress Administration of the Federal Government. Captain Cooley saw his chance of materializing his dream of the tuberculosis sanatorium when the WPA program was first announced and he lost no time in getting an application for aid through.

The hospital units were several years in the building and at times activities lagged, but Captain Cooley's determination literally pushed them through to completion. He all but saw each brick and board set in place.

Located on a wooded knoll known as Pine Top, several miles north of West Monroe, the sanatorium will provide hospitalization for 22 white persons and 26 negroes. The number of beds for the former is less because the administrative offices and quarters for the medical and nursing staff are located in the building for whites.

Both buildings have all modern conveniences and incorporate the latest in tubercular hospital designing. When the project was undertaken, a high-ranking WPA official characterized it as the most praise-worthy in Louisiana. Moreover, it excited interest in distant states

G. B. Cooley Tuberculosis Sanatorium, with the backing of Ouachita Parish, is destined to do untold good. But it is far more than a mere charitable institution. When it starts functioning, the residents of the parish will soon find that, without burdening themselves unduly to support it, they have made a sound investment in public health.

Know Monroe . . . Promote Monroe . . . Work For A Greater Ouachita Parish

Ouachita Parish, a Pioneer . . .

OUACHITA Parish once again showed its pioneering leadership in Louisiana recently by voting a tax to furnish, maintain and operate G. B. Cooley Tuberculosis Sanatorium. In so doing, it became the first of the 64 parishes in the state to provide hospitalization for underprivileged victims of one of the greatest human scourges.

The action of the electorate demonstrated that the parish has, in recent years, grown in humanitarianism as well as developed along other lines; that, while showing material progress, it has become increasingly aware of the general welfare of its residents.

A decisive move toward eradicating tuberculosis in Ouachita Parish, the hospital will be open only to indigent persons, negroes as well as whites, in immediate need of hospital treatment. But despite their financial status, they will receive the best of care known to medical science.

The plant—two large buildings of Colonial architecture—is already in readiness. As soon as it can be furnished and equipped and a medical and nursing staff organized, it will be put in operation. That shouldn't be more than a few months hence.

While the favorable vote was a credit to Ouachita Parish, it represented a personal triumph for Captain G. B. Cooley of Monroe, who, for years, has waged almost a single-handed battle against tuberculosis. He has preached against tuberculosis like a zealot and fought it, with such means as he could muster, like a fanatic.

The victory was won by Captain Cooley only after a campaign extending over virtually a quarter of a century. In recent years he has devoted his undivided attention to the Ouachita Public Health and Tuberculosis Association, which he founded, nursed along, directed and largely financed, leaving the management of his business affairs to subordinates.

The site for the sanatorium was provided by the association and the two hospital buildings were erected through the assistance of the Works Progress Administration of the Federal Government. Captain Cooley saw his chance of materializing his dream of the tuberculosis sanatorium when the WPA program was first announced and he lost no time in getting an application for aid through.

The hospital units were several years in the building and at times activities lagged, but Captain Cooley's determination literally pushed them through to completion. He all but saw each brick and board set in place.

Located on a wooded knoll known as Pine Top, several miles north of West Monroe, the sanatorium will provide hospitalization for 22 white persons and 26 negroes. The number of beds for the former is less because the administrative offices and quarters for the medical and nursing staff are located in the building for whites.

Both buildings have all modern conveniences and incorporate the latest in tubercular hospital designing. When the project was undertaken, a high-ranking WPA official characterized it as the most praise-worthy in Louisiana. Moreover, it excited interest in distant states.

G. B. Cooley Tuberculosis Sanatorium, with the backing of Ouachita Parish, is destined to do untold good. But it is far more than a mere charitable institution. When it starts functioning, the residents of the parish will soon find that, without burdening themselves unduly to support it, they have made a sound investment in public health.

RECOGNITION OF FRANCO STUDIED

Roosevelt Summons Ambassador To Spain Home For Conference On Situation

WASHINGTON, March 4.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today summoned Claude G. Bowers, American ambassador to Spain, home for conference on recognition of the Franco government, and filled the long-vacant ambassadorial post in Moscow.

Laurence A. Steinhardt, now ambassador in Peru, was selected to be the third American ambassador to the Soviet Union, filling the post left vacant nine months ago when Joseph E. Davies was transferred from Moscow and made ambassador to Belgium.

Bowers sailed from France today on the liner Queen Mary and should reach Washington by the latter part of next week.

The disclosure that he had been summoned home for "consultation" gave rise to speculation that the United States might give early recognition to General Francisco Franco's government.

The United States has followed closely the British and French lead in wartime relations with Spain. These two governments last week announced recognition of Franco.

The Steinhardt appointment was not officially announced, since this ordinarily is not done until the nomination goes to the senate. There was authoritative confirmation, however, of reports of the president's action.

Steinhardt, of New York City, is 66 years old, and a seasoned New Deal diplomat. He was named minister to Sweden in 1933, and promoted to the embassy in Peru in 1937.

The fact that it was decided to send him to Moscow, just at the time Bowers was recalled, led to speculation that Bowers might not be sent back to Spain, but instead would succeed Steinhardt in Lima.

The long vacancy in the Moscow post gave rise to a belief in some circles here that American-Soviet relations had suffered some strain. This was denied at the state department.

Ambassador Alexander A. Troyanovsky returned to the Soviet Union last summer on vacation and has not returned.

in our expanding air transport system and in addition, form an important adjunct to an adequate national defense."

For seacoast defenses, the president recommended $3,295,631 be appropriated for continental United States installations; $766,284 for insular possessions and $1,416,572 for the Panama Canal zone. These sums would be supplemented by authorizations to make contracts totaling $1,061,000, for which actual appropriations would have to be made later.

As was the case with a $7,250,000 item for seacoast defenses in the army supply bill approved by the house yesterday, details of how and where the money would be spent was kept secret.

The president disclosed, however, that he intended to ask congress later for money to build a highway across the Isthumus of Panama outside the Canal Zone's boundaries. Defense experts have contended such a highway is essential for adequate protection of the vital and vulnerable canal—the nation's "lifeline."

Included in the defense estimates today was a lone item of $47,000 for the navy to permit topographic and hydrographic surveys of naval air bases recommended by a special naval board, some of which already have been authorized by the house. There was also a $400,000 item for modernization of two ships the maritime commission is turning over to the army for conversion into transports.

MANY GERMANS TO MOVE TO CANADA

PRAGUE, March 4.—(AP)—The Czechoslovak and British governments have arranged for 800 families of former German Socialists and Democrats, cut adrift by German annexation of the Sudeten territories, to emigrate to Canada.

The Prague government has alloted $1,500 to each family. This will come from the $75,000,000 which Britain recently granted Czecho-Slovakia, half as a loan and half as a gift, to aid refugees and assist in reconstruction work.

Two former members of the chamber of deputies, Wenzel Jaksch and Siegfried Taub, will lead the emigrants, who have received permission from Canada to establish a village of their own in northern Saskatchewan.

AL CAPONE WILL TELL HIS STORY

May Assert At Johnny Torrio's Trial He Was Only 'Front'

NEW YORK, March 4.—(AP)—The true story behind Al Capone's reign in the old Chicago terror days was marked for disclosure by federal authorities tonight.

Was "Scarface Al" the real czar of the rackets?

Or was he merely the "front"—nothing more—for a fretfully shy little man who deplored the heat of Chicago's blazing gang guns and fled, leaving Capone in charge, after two close brushes with death?

Government officials hinted a new version of the role played by Capone may come to light next week when his former boss, Johnny Torrio, goes on trial, starting Tuesday, for alleged conspiracy to defraud Uncle Sam of $110,276 in income taxes.

Capone himself may tell the story.

The prison-worn "big shot" of the bootleg era, it was indicated, will be brought here—as a government witness against Torrio—for his first public appearance since he was convicted of tax evasion and sent away to "The Rock" at Alcatraz island seven years ago.

For the first time, too, the mystery of Capone's mental condition may be dispelled when he faces Torrio in open court.

Conflicting reports in recent months have variously described the fat-jowled ex-mobster as "stir crazy" from his long imprisonment at Alcatraz, and as suffering from paresis, a dread disease of the brain.

But while the spotlight inevitably must center on Capone—now become almost a legendary figure due to the ironclad secrecy surrounding prisoners at Alcatraz—the brunt of prosecution attention will fall on Torrio.

The 56-year-old defendant, one of the few "big name" survivors of the old gang wars, faces a maximum sentence of 12 years in prison and $30,000 in fines on conviction.

A roly poly little man, once listed by Police Commissioner Lewis J. Valentine as New York's "public enemy No. 1," Torrio reputedly amassed a $10,000,000 fortune as overlord of a chain of Chicago honkytonks, speakeasies and gaudy cabarets before handing over the reins to his boyhood pal and henchman, Al Capone.

DEATHS

BARRETT FUNERAL

TALLULAH, La., March 4.—(Special)—Funeral services for E. F. Barrett, 78, who died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. J. L. Thompson, were held at the Methodist church here Friday afternoon with Rev. D. W. Poole officiating, assisted by Rev. H. N. Alexander of the Presbyterian church and Rev. Clarence Crow of the Baptist church. Interment followed in Silver Cross cemetery here.

Mr. Barrett, formerly of Indianapolis, had been a resident of Tallulah for several years. He was a member of the Methodist church. Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Thompson and Mrs. Carl Swanson, the latter residing at Roanoke, Va., a son, Charles Barrett of Indianapolis, Ind.; and a sister, Mrs. Jane Bush of Medora, Ind. Several grandchildren and great grandchildren also survive.

INFANT WOMACK

The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Womack of West Monroe died in a local sanitarium shortly after birth early Saturday morning. Interment was made in a cemetery at Huttig, Ark., Saturday afternoon in charge of Davis-Lawhead Funeral home.

Surviving are, besides the parents, one sister, Lora Nell, and the grandparents, who reside in Huttig, Ark.

MRS. MARTHA JANE MAXEY

Mrs. Martha Jane Maxey, 90, mother of Mrs. James Nicholson of Monroe, died last night at 9:30 o'clock at the home of her daughter here.

The body will be taken over the Missouri Pacific railroad to North Little Rock, Ark., where funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment will take place in Thomas cemetery at North Little Rock.

Mrs. Maxey is survived by one son, Lige Maxey of Monroe; and two daughters, Mrs. Nicholson and Mrs. Helen Kwons of El Dorado, Ark.

DUCK HILL AT LAST CHOOSES ALDERMEN

DUCK HILL, Miss., March 4.—(AP)—It took a couple of elections to do it, but now Duck Hill has a regularly elected mayor and board of aldermen.

In a regular municipal election last December, there were no candidates for the places, with the exception of Taylor Holmes, named alderman.

In February, another election was set for today.

11 RUSSIANS KILLED

TOKYO, March 4.—(AP)—A dispatch to the newspaper Asahi from Hsinking, Manchoukuo, said 11 Soviet Russians were killed today in a clash on the Manchoukuo-Siberian border near Manchuli. The casualties were said to have been inflicted when 100 Russians charged across the border, the scene of recurrent minor fighting in recent weeks.

shaping of the Hopkins' program. Among these were:

1. An endorsement of the "private enterprise" system.

2. A firm stand against higher income taxes for the rich.

3. Opposition to immediate redistribution of wealth (even though opposition is expressed as temporary).

4. Elimination of tax exempt securities.

5. A recognition of the importance of helping the steel industry, and other heavy industries (including emphasis on continued housing program).

6. Recommendation the power companies remain under private ownership and control.

Some leaders said the statement of these aims in this form had been instrumental in deciding support for the Hopkins' plan. These and others of similar import have been publicly enunciated, since the book's appearance, by the president, Hopkins and others.

However, there were other doctrines in the book which have produced reactions ranging from expressions of mild alarm to vigorous protest.

Chief among those are insistence on resumption of heavy spending directly to consumer channels, chiefly through the Works Progress administration on a scale calculated to raise the national income above $70,000,000,000 a year.

The program also calls for a permanent policy of ever greater borrowing for government spending for "investment," and ridicules as selfish political devices the raising of a question as to over-extending government credit. These statements, viewed in this light as representing the "New Deal's" aims, have played an immediate part, they said, in rallying support to the Harrison "economy" bloc.

Some other expressions in the book, which have not proved popular in high financial circles, are the following:

Railroads: "It would be cheaper for the country as a whole to have the government take over the railroads at whatever price is considered adequate to protect security holders and then reduce rates to a level that will attract an optimum flow of traffic." The program also calls for nationalization of the railroads because regulatory efforts have "failed."

Government debt: "What we should worry about is not the increase in the debt but the increase in savings beyond the amount that can be absorbed by investment. It is ridiculous to maintain that debt in general must be repaid."

Business and government: "The danger exists that business men, obsessed with a devil theory of government, will attempt to use their economic power to suppress democracy and place in its stead a dictatorship supposedly dedicated to the fulfillment of their desires."

Taxes: "Rates in the middle-income brackets are relatively low—compared with England strikingly low—and can easily stand a moderate increase."

JAPANESE CAPTURE TOWN OF HAICHOW

SHANGHAI, March 4.—(AP)—Japanese officers said today their troops had captured Haichow, coastal terminus of the east-west Lunghai railway and last Chinese-held port north of Shanghai.

Haichow is 275 airline miles north of Shanghai.

Further south in Kiangsu province other Japanese forces moving northward along the grand canal routed Chinese defenders at Paoying, situated strategically between Lake Tatsung and Lake Paoying, 190 miles northwest of Shanghai.

The advance gave Japanese control of all the ancient waterway north of the Yangtze except for a 30-mile section north of Paoying. The canal is the backbone of transportation through Kiangsu province.

The Japanese had isolated Hwaian, important north Kiangsu trading center.

Chinese reported guerillas in the northeast province of Suiyuan attacked a Japanese airdrome at Kwanchengtze and set fire to ten planes.

Other guerilla attacks were reported on Japanese garrisons at Taikan, in east Honan, with 100 Japanese casualties, and at two north Shansi cities with 50 casualties.

Flush Poisonous Waste and Acid From Kidneys

GAIN IN HEALTH

If you aren't feeling just right—are nervous—have dizzy spells and occasional backache—study your kidneys and learn more about yourself.

Through the delicate filters of the kidneys, acid and poisonous waste are drawn from the blood and discharged from the body thru the bladder—sometimes these filters are less active than they should be because of excess poisonous waste and kidneys do not function properly—they need harmless stimulation.

One reliable medicine, highly efficient and inexpensive is GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules. This grand medicine has been helping people for 50 years—to relieve these aches and pains by helping conditions caused or aggravated by excess uric acid or other circulating poisons such as is so often the case with sciatica, neuritis, neuralgia, lumbago and rheumatism.

So if you have such symptoms of kidney trouble as backache, nervousness, getting up two or three times during the night—scanty, burning or smarting passage—leg cramps—moist palms or puffy eyes get a 35 cent package of this grand and harmless diuretic at any modern drug store—it starts the first day on its errand of helpfulness.

HOME OWNERSHIP MADE EASY

There has been much publicity recently about the building of new homes, however, it is interesting to note from the figures we have prepared that the prospective home owner has NOT lost sight of the BARGAINS that are offered in many homes which are NOT new construction. Home buyers during the last year have found that dwellings could be bought on the present market at much less than their production cost, and, where needed, could be modernized at a small cost.

This association is offering many desirable homes on their regular monthly payment plan which can be bought with only a 10% down payment, the balance payable monthly, which payments are less than the rental value of the home. ferences at Chicago, Ill., of women who gather for three successive weeks for cooking schools presented by the Chicago Tribune.

Among the other notable metropolitan schools personally conducted by Mrs. Chitwood are those sponsored by the Detroit Free Press, Philadelphia Public Ledger, Buffalo Times, Los Angeles Herald, Louisville Courier-Journal, Nashville Banner, Boston Herald-Traveler, San Francisco Daily News and Chattanooga Times.

All the features that have made the News-Star—World annual cooking school and home-makers' exposition famous throughout northeast Louisiana will be continued during this year's three-day school, as well as many new innovations which have never before been introduced.

ASKS $124,000,000 MORE FOR ARMY

in our expanding air transport system and in addition, form an important adjunct to an adequate national defense."

For seacoast defenses, the president recommended $3,295,631 be appropriated for continental United States installations; $766,284 for insular possessions and $1,416,372 for the Panama Canal zone. These sums would be supplemented by authorizations to make contracts totaling $1,061,000, for which actual appropriations would have to be made later.

As was the case with a $7,250,000 item for seacoast defenses in the army supply bill approved by the house yesterday, details of how and where the money would be spent was kept secret.

The president disclosed, however, that he intended to ask congress later for money to build a highway across the Isthumus of Panama outside the Canal Zone's boundaries. Defense experts have contended such a highway is essential for adequate protection of the vital and vulnerable canal—the nation's "lifeline."

Included in the defense estimates today was a lone item of $47,000 for the navy to permit topographic and hydrographic surveys of naval air bases recommended by a special naval board, some of which already have been authorized by the house. There was also a $400,000 item for modernization of two ships the maritime commission is turning over to the army for conversion into transports.

MANY GERMANS TO MOVE TO CANADA

PRAGUE, March 4.—(AP)—The Czechoslovak and British governments have arranged for 800 families of former German Socialists and Democrats, cut adrift by German annexation of the Sudeten territories, to emigrate to Canada.

The Prague government has alloted $1,500 to each family. This will come from the $75,000,000 which Britain recently granted Czecho-Slovakia, half as a loan and half as a gift, to aid refugees and assist in reconstruction work.

Two former members of the chamber of deputies, Wenzel Jaksch and Siegfried Taub, will lead the emigrants, who have received permission from Canada to establish a village of their own in northern Saskatchewan.

AL CAPONE WILL TELL HIS STORY

May Assert At Johnny Torrio's Trial He Was Only 'Front'

NEW YORK, March 4.—(AP)—The true story behind Al Capone's reign in the old Chicago terror days was marked for disclosure by federal authorities tonight.

Was "Scarface Al" the real czar of the rackets?

Or was he merely the "front"—nothing more—for a fretfully shy little man who deplored the heat of Chicago's blazing gang guns and fled, leaving Capone in charge, after two close brushes with death?

Government officials hinted a new version of the role played by Capone may come to light next week when his former boss, Johnny Torrio, goes on trial, starting Tuesday, for alleged conspiracy to defraud Uncle Sam of $110,276 in income taxes.

Capone himself may tell the story.

The prison-worn "big shot" of the bootleg era, it was indicated, will be brought here—as a government witness against Torrio—for his first public appearance since he was convicted of tax evasion and sent away to "The Rock" at Alcatraz island seven years ago.

For the first time, too, the mystery of Capone's mental condition may be dispelled when he faces Torrio in open court.

Conflicting reports in recent months have variously described the fat-jowled ex-mobster as "stir crazy" from his long imprisonment at Alcatraz, and as suffering from paresis, a dread disease of the brain.

But while the spotlight inevitably must center on Capone—now become almost a legendary figure due to the ironclad secrecy surrounding prisoners at Alcatraz—the brunt of prosecution attention will fall on Torrio.

The 56-year-old defendant, one of the few "big name" survivors of the old gang wars, faces a maximum sentence of 12 years in prison and $30,000 in fines on conviction.

A roly poly little man, once listed by Police Commissioner Lewis J. Valentine as New York's "public enemy No. 1," Torrio reputedly amassed a $10,000,000 fortune as overlord of a chain of Chicago honkytonks, speakeasies and gaudy cabarets before handing over the reins to his boyhood pal and henchman, Al Capone.

PILGRIMAGES AND FIESTAS PLANNED

ested parties can stream over to the gulf coast, see the pageants on land and water and follow the Azalea trail through Mobile's streets and suburbs, 17 miles of flowers.

In the meantime, St. Francisville, La., will be holding a John James Audubon pilgrimage through the scenes where the artist and ornithologist spent many happy years and found subjects of his "Birds of America." The date of that pilgrimage is March 11-April 2.

In Shreveport, La., March 24-26 there will be a city-wide flower show.

Seventeen dfferent kinds of oil may be used for the manufacture of butter substitutes, including rice oil.

DEATHS

BARRETT FUNERAL

TALLULAH, La., March 4.—(Special)—Funeral services for E. F. Barrett, 78, who died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. J. L. Thompson, were held at the Methodist church here Friday afternoon with Rev. D. W. Poole officiating, assisted by Rev. H. N. Alexander of the Presbyterian church and Rev. Clarence Crow of the Baptist church. Interment followed in Silver Cross cemetery here.

Mr. Barrett, formerly of Indianapolis, had been a resident of Tallulah for several years. He was a member of the Methodist church. Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Thompson and Mrs. Carl Swanson, the latter residing at Roanoke, Va., a son, Charles Barrett of Indianapolis, Ind.; and a sister, Mrs. Jane Bush of Medora, Ind. Several grandchildren and great grandchildren also survive.

INFANT WOMACK

The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Womack of West Monroe died in a local sanitarium shortly after birth early Saturday morning. Interment was made in a cemetery at Huttig, Ark., Saturday afternoon in charge of Davis-Lawhead Funeral home.

Surviving are, besides the parents, one sister, Lora Nell, and the grandparents, who reside in Huttig, Ark.

MRS. MARTHA JANE MAXEY

Mrs. Martha Jane Maxey, 90, mother of Mrs. James Nicholson of Monroe, died last night at 9:30 o'clock at the home of her daughter here.

The body will be taken over the Missouri Pacific railroad to North Little Rock, Ark., where funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment will take place in Thomas cemetery at North Little Rock.

Mrs. Maxey is survived by one son, Lige Maxey of Monroe; and two daughters, Mrs. Nicholson and Mrs. Helen Kwons of El Dorado, Ark.

DUCK HILL AT LAST CHOOSES ALDERMEN

DUCK HILL, Miss., March 4.—(AP)—It took a couple of elections to do it, but now Duck Hill has a regularly elected mayor and board of aldermen.

In a regular municipal election last December, there were no candidates for the places, with the exception of Taylor Holmes, named alderman.

In February, another election was set for today.

11 RUSSIANS KILLED

TOKYO, March 4.—(AP)—A dispatch to the newspaper Asahi from Hsinking, Manchoukuo, said 11 Soviet Russians were killed today in a clash on the Manchoukuo-Siberian border near Manchuli. The casualties were said to have been inflicted when 100 Russians charged across the border, the scene of recurrent minor fighting in recent weeks.

shaping of the Hopkins' program. Among these were:

1. An endorsement of the "private enterprise" system.

2. A firm stand against higher income taxes for the rich.

3. Opposition to immediate redistribution of wealth (even though opposition is expressed as temporary).

4. Elimination of tax exempt securities.

5. A recognition of the importance of helping the steel industry, and other heavy industries (including emphasis on continued housing program).

6. Recommendation the power companies remain under private ownership and control.

Some leaders said the statement of these aims in this form had been instrumental in deciding support for the Hopkins' plan. These and others of similar import have been publicly enunciated, since the book's appearance, by the president, Hopkins and others.

However, there were other doctrines in the book which have produced reactions ranging from expressions of mild alarm to vigorous protest.

Chief among those are insistence on resumption of heavy spending directly to consumer channels, chiefly through the Works Progress administration on a scale calculated to raise the national income above $70,000,000,000 a year.

The program also calls for a permanent policy of ever greater borrowing for government spending for "investment," and ridicules as selfish political devices the raising of a question as to over-extending government credit. These statements, viewed in this light as representing the "New Deal's" aims, have played an immediate part, they said, in rallying support to the Harrison "economy" bloc.

Some other expressions in the book, which have not proved popular in high financial circles, are the following:

Railroads: "It would be cheaper for the country as a whole to have the government take over the railroads at whatever price is considered adequate to protect security holders and then reduce rates to a level that will attract an optimum flow of traffic." The program also calls for nationalization of the railroads because regulatory efforts have "failed."

Government debt: "What we should worry about is not the increase in the debt but the increase in savings beyond the amount that can be absorbed by investment. It is ridiculous to maintain that debt in general must be repaid."

Business and government: "The danger exists that business men, obsessed with a devil theory of government, will attempt to use their economic power to suppress democracy and place in its stead a dictatorship supposedly dedicated to the fulfillment of their desires."

Taxes: "Rates in the middle-income brackets are relatively low—compared with England strikingly low—and can easily stand a moderate increase."

JAPANESE CAPTURE TOWN OF HAICHOW

SHANGHAI, March 4.—(AP)—Japanese officers said today their troops had captured Haichow, coastal terminus of the east-west Lunghai railway and last Chinese-held port north of Shanghai.

Haichow is 275 airline miles north of Shanghai.

Further south in Kiangsu province other Japanese forces moving northward along the grand canal routed Chinese defenders at Paoying, situated strategically between Lake Tatsung and Lake Paoying, 190 miles northwest of Shanghai.

The advance gave Japanese control of all the ancient waterway north of the Yangtze except for a 30-mile section north of Paoying. The canal is the backbone of transportation through Kiangsu province.

The Japanese had isolated Hwaian, important north Kiangsu trading center.

Chinese reported guerillas in the northeast province of Suiyuan attacked a Japanese airdrome at Kwanchengtze and set fire to ten planes.

Other guerilla attacks were reported on Japanese garrisons at Taikan, in east Honan, with 100 Japanese casualties, and at two north Shansi cities with 50 casualties.

1,500,000 MARKED FOR CANCER DEATH

NEW YORK, March 4.—(AP)—One million five hundred thousand Americans are already "marked" for death by cancer in the next 10 years, and a third of them can be saved.

This report to the annual dinner meeting of the board of the American Society for the Control of Cancer was made jointly today by Bowman C. Crowell, M. D., associate director of the American College of Surgeons, and Dr. Clarence Cook Little, the society's managing director.

Early diagnosis and treatment, Dr. Little declared, will save a half million in 10 years.

Dr. Crowell reviewed the studies of the College of Surgeons to show that "cancer is curable."

North Carolina's sweet potato yield per acre increased from a 97-bushel average during 1927-36 to 108 bushels in 1938.

WHEN KIDNEY TROUBLE CAUSES YOU TO GET UP NIGHTS

When Bladder is Irritated
When Passage is Difficult
When Backache Results

Flush Poisonous Waste and Acid From Kidneys

GAIN IN HEALTH

If you aren't feeling just right—are nervous—have dizzy spells and occasional backache—study your kidneys and learn more about yourself.

Through the delicate filters of the kidneys, acid and poisonous waste are drawn from the blood and discharged from the body thru the bladder—sometimes these filters are less active than they should be because of excess poisonous waste and kidneys do not function properly—they need harmless stimulation.

One reliable medicine, highly efficient and inexpensive is GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules. This grand medicine has been helping people for 50 years—to relieve their aches and pains by helping conditions caused or aggravated by excess uric acid or other circulating poisons such as is so often the case with sciatica, neuritis, neuralgia, lumbago and rheumatism.

So if you have such symptoms of kidney trouble as backache, nervousness, getting up two or three times during the night—scanty, burning or smarting passage—leg cramps—moist palms or puffy eyes get a 35 cent package of this grand and harmless diuretic at any modern drug store—it starts the first day on its errand of helpfulness.

Don't be an EASY MARK and accept a substitute—Ask for Gold Medal Haarlem Oil Capsules—right from Haarlem in Holland. GET GOLD MEDAL—the original—the genuine. Look for the Gold Medal on the box—35 cents. (Adv.)

TECH MAY ENROLL REFUGEE STUDENT

RUSTON, La., March 4.—(Special)—Following the trend of leading colleges and universities in the nation, the student council at Louisiana Tech voted recently to submit a plan to the student body whereby a refugee student from a European country might be brought to the campus next fall.

The council named Amy Sue Furlow, Elizabeth, chairman of the student committee which will present the refugee plan to the student body at the regular chapel meeting Thursday morning, March 30, in the college auditorium.

The plan is said to have many advantages, according to members of the group to present the movement to the students. Both the refugee student and the college will benefit from such an arrangement, it is believed.

TO PRESIDE AT STATE MEET

J. M. Shows, of Jonesboro, deputy grand master of the grand lodge of Odd Fellows of Louisiana, will wield the gavel at the sessions held on the second day of the convention in Jonesboro, March 13-15. A large delegation from Monroe is expected to be present, the local lodge ranging as one of the youngest and most active in the state.

Army Promotes Former Resident Of West Monroe

Sanderford Jarman Will Become Brigadier General

The Army and Navy Journal, official organ of these two departments of government at Washington, in a recent issue published a picture on the front page of Colonel Sanderford Jarman, now commanding the 64th coast artillery regiment (anti-aircraft) at Fort Shafter, Hawaii. He has just been named to succeed Brigader General Walter Krueger, bearing that title.

News of this appointment was received with interest by older residents of the Twin Cities, where he spent his boyhood. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Jarman, both of whom are deceased and who resided in West Monroe for many years. Sanderford attended the old Ouachita Parish High school and later went to Louisiana State university, after which he entered West Point Military academy, where he was graduated in 1908.

He served with the A. E. F. in France throughout the World war. He is only 54 years of age, being one of the youngest brigadier generals in the army. He was stationed at Fort Shafter, Hawaii, for a long period and now has been ordered to Panama, where he is to report early in April.

He has had a long and interesting service on the general staff in Washington, D. C., covering a total number of 15 years, together with 10 years' service as an instructor at the United States Military academy.

Another member of the same family, a brother of Brigadier General Jarman is Willard Jarman, who now lives in Huntington Park, Calif. He also will be remembered by many of the older residents of Monroe and West Monroe.

JONESBORO F. F. A. TEAM VISITS SOUTHERN TEXAS

JONESBORO, March 4.—(Special)—The livestock judging team of the Jonesboro-Hodge chapter of Future Farmers of America has returned from a tour of south Texas that included a visit to the Houston Fat Stock show. The team was made up of "Junior" Rhymes, president of the local chapter; Douglas Robinson, vice-president, and A. C. Shackerford.

Neal Dry, vocational agriculture teacher of the Jonesboro High school, T. O. Arrington, and Emmit L. Peterson, vocational agriculture practice teachers, accompanied the team.

Other places of interest visited were: V. D. Hugens brahma farm, Hungerford, Tex., and the Pine Hurst livestock farm of Orange, Tex.

Upon having been asked what the most interesting thing he saw in the show, Mr. Dry said, "The fine Future Farmer livestock exhibit. It shows that this organization will not only develop leaders but will in time solve some of the major problems of the south."

SPEAKER WILL MAKE APPEAL FOR JEWRY

The United Jewish Charities of Northeast Louisiana, of which Abe Blumenthal is president, will inaugurate its 1939 campaign with a meeting in Temple B'Nai Israel Wednesday night. The speaker of the occasion will be S. Bertrand Jacobson, of New York, representing the United Jewish Appeal for Refugees and Over-sea Needs.

Because of the unprecedented condition of the Jewish people in certain countries in Europe, a greater burden rests upon the Jews in this country, it is pointed out.

This year the quota here has been raised to meet this need. No solicitation for funds will be made at the meeting, as the campaign proper will begin the following day.

The meeting is open to the public and it is desired to have a large and representative attendance.

ALUMNI WILL MEET

St. Matthew's Parochial school alumni will meet in the school auditorium, Tuesday at 8:30 p.m. Important business will be transacted and all members of the association are urged to attend.

WEST MONROE FINDS PUMPS EFFICIENT

West Monroe's new municipal pumps have been given a tryout and have proved highly successful now that high water in the Ouachita river makes it necessary to put them to use as the flood gates in the levee system are closed.

The pumps were operated for the first time a few days ago and the water that had accumulated on the surface after a heavy rainfall was quickly pumped over the levee into the river.

C. A. Peerman, engineer in charge, states that the pumps are ready to go into action at a moment's notice and that after only a few hours run, all surplus water will be removed.

J. W. Wheelis, drainage board president stated that drainage water is piling up against the levee this year after each rain. This means that with drainage ditches cleared of obstructions, that the water flows faster. He said that rain water will go into drainage ditches quicker and can be lifted quicker than in recent years.

SHRIMP SUPPER FOR LEGION ANNOUNCED

Boiled shrimp "a la Wood."

That will be the piece de resistance of a meeting of members of Leonidas Barkdull Faulk post of the American Legion Monday night at 8 o'clock at the Legion memorial home, it was announced yesterday afternoon by H. Flood Madison, post commander.

The "a la Wood" idea in connection with the announcement is derived from the fact Dr. R. L. Wood, prominent local gourmet and member of the post, will have supervision of cooking and serving the shrimp supper. Appropriate beverages will be served with the meal.

One hundred pounds of selected shrimp, fresh from the gulf, will be delivered to Dr. Wood Monday.

All members of the post are invited to attend the supper, and visiting Legionnaires cordially welcomed, it was stated.

Preceding the supper, the post will conduct a brief discussion of plans for its junior baseball league for 1939.

NATIVE OF ORLEANS DIES IN MEMPHIS

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 4.—(AP)—Mrs. Georgiana Meyer Carroll, 65, a native of New Orleans, died at her home here today after an illness of three weeks. She was the daughter of the late George Meyer, owner of a large plantation at Summit, Miss. She moved here from Biloxi 25 years ago.

Survivors include her husband, Charles Howard Carroll, and daughter, both of Memphis, and a sister, Mrs. Glenn Bentley, Mammoth Springs, Ark. Funeral arrangements were incomplete.

FIND BURIED COINS BENEATH RESIDENCE

HOMER, La., March 4.—(Special)—While digging in dirt beneath the old T. A. McKenzie residence four miles from here, Jack Hallmark and Jim Beene unearthed three fruit jars filled with coins amounting to $606.71. Dates of the coins ranged from 1903 to 1905.

All of the coins were silver, with the exception of $60 in gold.

In the division of the money, one-half went to the finders and the other half to the McKenzie estate.

Later, a fourth jar of the buried money was reported found by Beene. This jar was placed in the charge of Sheriff L. G. Sale pending disposition of its contents.

BAPTIST PASTORS TO MEET MONDAY

The Northeast Louisiana Baptist Pastors' and Workers' conference will meet at the Baptist church at Dubach Monday morning at 10 o'clock, according to an announcement made yesterday by Rev. Roger M. Baxter, secretary.

Opening with a devotional, the morning session will be occupied by a business program presided over by President C. F. Almand; Bible study presented by Rev. W. E. Winstead of Columbia, and Rev. J. R. Campbell of Oak Grove; and an evangelistic sermon by Rev. B. C. Land of Winnfield.

The afternoon session will be occupied by a devotional conducted by Rev. M. V. Burns of Bernice; an address on the subject, "Promotional Emphasis," by Rev. J. H. Buckner of Jonesboro; Bible study presented by Rev. G. A. Nelson of Lake Providence, and Rev. W. E. B. Lockridge of Ruston.

BANDS OF CITY GIVE CONCERT

Neville High Group Is Augmented By Other School Groups

The Neville High school band and elementary school bands from Barkdull Faulk, Lida Benton and Georgia Tucker schools, were presented in concert at Neville High school auditorium Friday night by their director, Charles Gaushell. The concert was highly appreciated by a good-size audience and showed painstaking drilling and a high degree of talent. There were more than 130 in the combined group and as the curtain rose upon the aggregation it presented a pleasing scene, the elementary school bands being attired in immaculate white uniforms contrasting pleasingly with the orange and black suits of Neville High school band members.

The audience was so appreciative of the concert given that several extra numbers were provided. Piano accompanists, who contributed largely to the success of the program, were Lowery Jefferson and Mrs. Charles Gaushell.

While all numbers were marked with rhythm and beauty of execution, the several overtures by the band members were particularly well received. The program was a preliminary to the participation in the statewide spring band contest that will be held in Shreveport soon. Last year, both the Neville High school band and the Barkdull Faulk band were accorded unusual honors and it will be the endeavor to again capture superior ratings this year.

TECH MAY ENROLL REFUGEE STUDENT

RUSTON, La., March 4.—(Special)—Following the trend of leading colleges and universities in the nation, the student council at Louisiana Tech voted recently to submit a plan to the student body whereby a refugee student from a European country might be brought to the campus next fall.

The council named Amy Sue Furlow, Elizabeth, chairman of the student committee which will present the refugee plan to the student body at the regular chapel meeting Thursday morning, March 30, in the college auditorium.

The plan is said to have many advantages, according to members of the group to present the movement to the students. Both the refugee student and the college will benefit from such an arrangement, it is believed.

TO PRESIDE AT STATE MEET

J. M. Shows, of Jonesboro, deputy grand master of the grand lodge of Odd Fellows of Louisiana, will wield the gavel at the sessions held on the second day of the convention in Jonesboro, March 13-15. A large delegation from Monroe is expected to be present, the local lodge ranging as one of the youngest and most active in the state.

WEST MONROE FINDS PUMPS EFFICIENT

West Monroe's new municipal pumps have been given a tryout and have proved highly successful now that high water in the Ouachita river makes it necessary to put them to use as the flood gates in the levee system are closed.

The pumps were operated for the first time a few days ago and the water that had accumulated on the surface after a heavy rainfall was quickly pumped over the levee into the river.

C. A. Peerman, engineer in charge, states that the pumps are ready to go into action at a moment's notice and that after only a few hours run, all surplus water will be removed.

J. W. Wheelis, drainage board president stated that drainage water is piling up against the levee this year after each rain. This means that with drainage ditches cleared of obstructions, that the water flows faster. He said that rain water will go into drainage ditches quicker and can be lifted quicker than in recent years.

SHRIMP SUPPER FOR LEGION ANNOUNCED

Boiled shrimp "a la Wood."

That will be the piece de resistance of a meeting of members of Leonidas Barkdull Faulk post of the American Legion Monday night at 8 o'clock at the Legion memorial home, it was announced yesterday afternoon by H. Flood Madison, post commander.

The "a la Wood" idea in connection with the announcement is derived from the fact Dr. R. L. Wood, prominent local gourmet and member of the post, will have supervision of cooking and serving the shrimp supper. Appropriate beverages will be served with the meal.

One hundred pounds of selected shrimp, fresh from the gulf, will be delivered to Dr. Wood Monday.

All members of the post are invited to attend the supper, and visiting Legionnaires cordially welcomed, it was stated.

Preceding the supper, the post will conduct a brief discussion of plans for its junior baseball league for 1939.

FIND BURIED COINS BENEATH RESIDENCE

HOMER, La., March 4.—(Special)—While digging in dirt beneath the old T. A. McKenzie residence four miles from here, Jack Hallmark and Jim Beene unearthed three fruit jars filled with coins amounting to $606.71. Dates of the coins ranged from 1303 to 1905.

All of the coins were silver, with the exception of $60 in gold.

In the division of the money, one-half went to the finders and the other half to the McKenzie estate.

Later, a fourth jar of the buried money was reported found by Beene. This jar was placed in the charge of Sheriff L. G. Sale pending disposition of its contents.

BAPTIST PASTORS TO MEET MONDAY

The Northeast Louisiana Baptist Pastors' and Workers' conference will meet at the Baptist church at Dubach Monday morning at 10 o'clock, according to an announcement made yesterday by Rev. Roger M. Baxter, secretary.

Opening with a devotional, the morning session will be occupied by a business program presided over by President C. F. Almand; Bible study presented by Rev. W. E. Winstead of Columbia, and Rev. J. R. Campbell of Oak Grove; and an evangelistic sermon by Rev. B. C. Land of Winnifeld.

The afternoon session will be occupied by a devotional conducted by Rev. M. V. Burns of Bernice; an address on the subject, "Promotional Emphasis," by Rev. J. H. Buckner of Jonesboro; Bible study presented by Rev. G. A. Nelson of Lake Providence, and Rev. W. E. B. Lockridge of Ruston.

Army Promotes Former Resident Of West Monroe

Sanderford Jarman Will Become Brigadier General

The Army and Navy Journal, official organ of these two departments of government at Washington, in a recent issue published a picture on the front page of Colonel Sanderford Jarman, now commanding the 64th coast artillery regiment (anti-aircraft) at Fort Shafter, Hawaii. He has just been named to succeed Brigader General Walter Krueger, bearing that title.

News of this appointment was received with interest by older residents of the Twin Cities, where he spent his boyhood. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Jarman, both of whom are deceased and who resided in West Monroe for many years. Sanderford attended the old Ouachita Parish High school and later went to Louisiana State university, after which he entered West Point Military academy, where he was graduated in 1908.

He served with the A. E. F. in France throughout the World war. He is only 54 years of age, being one of the youngest brigadier generals in the army. He was stationed at Fort Shafter, Hawaii, for a long period and now has been ordered to Panama, where he is to report early in April.

He has had a long and interesting service on the general staff in Washington, D. C., covering a total number of 15 years, together with 10 years' service as an instructor at the United States Military academy.

Another member of the same family, a brother of Brigadier General Jarman is Willard Jarman, who now lives in Huntington Park, Calif. He also will be remembered by many of the older residents of Monroe and West Monroe.

JONESBORO F. F. A. TEAM VISITS SOUTHERN TEXAS

JONESBORO, March 4.—(Special)—The livestock judging team of the Jonesboro-Hodge chapter of Future Farmers of America has returned from a tour of south Texas that included a visit to the Houston Fat Stock show. The team was made up of "Junior" Rhymes, president of the local chapter; Douglas Robinson, vice-president, and A. C. Shackerford.

Neal Dry, vocational agriculture teacher of the Jonesboro High school, T. O. Arrington, and Emmit L. Peterson, vocational agriculture practice teachers, accompanied the team.

Other places of interest visited were: V. D. Hugens brahma farm, Hungerford, Tex., and the Pine Hurst livestock farm of Orange, Tex.

Upon having been asked what the most interesting thing he saw in the show, Mr. Dry said, "The fine Future Farmer livestock exhibit. It shows that this organization will not only develop leaders but will in time solve some of the major problems of the south."

SPEAKER WILL MAKE APPEAL FOR JEWRY

The United Jewish Charities of Northeast Louisiana, of which Abe Blumenthal is president, will inaugurate its 1939 campaign with a meeting in Temple B'Nai Israel Wednesday night. The speaker of the occasion will be S. Bertrand Jacobson, of New York, representing the United Jewish Appeal for Refugees and Over-sea Needs.

Because of the unprecedented condition of the Jewish people in certain countries in Europe, a greater burden rests upon the Jews in this country, it is pointed out.

This year the quota here has been raised to meet this need. No solicitation for funds will be made at the meeting, as the campaign proper will begin the following day.

The meeting is open to the public and it is desired to have a large and representative attendance.

ALUMNI WILL MEET

St. Matthew's Parochial school alumni will meet in the school auditorium Tuesday at 8:30 p.m. Important business will be transacted and all members of the association are urged to attend.

NATIVE OF ORLEANS DIES IN MEMPHIS

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 4.—(AP)—Mrs. Georgiana Meyer Carroll, 65, a native of New Orleans, died at her home here today after an illness of three weeks. She was the daughter of the late George Meyer, owner of a large plantation at Summit, Miss. She moved here from Biloxi 25 years ago.

Survivors include her husband, Charles Howard Carroll, and daughter, both of Memphis, and a sister, Mrs. Glenn Bentley, Mammoth Springs, Ark. Funeral arrangements were incomplete.

Members Of Local Society Welcome Arrival Of Annual Spring Pilgrimages

Ideas Attracting Considerable Praise

Mrs. Sperry Ready Again To Make Journey To Natchez; Mrs. Noe In Search For Antiques

WEARY of winter and hungry for spring, everyone said good-bye to February with exhileration. It was good ridance, as February is invariably the meanest month of the year. The name coming from an ancient Roman festival of expiation and purification, has been appropriately used to mean a whip.

March, the noisy trumpeter, was more than welcome this year, as it ushers in the season of garden pilgrimages. Already the great trek to the wide open spaces has started. Just home from a jaunt through the Bellingrath gardens, Dot McCord tells of a frost-bitten world of flowers. The azaleas, the glory of the southland, and the magnet that draws thousands of visitors to the famous gardens in Mobile, were laid low by a frost. A few days of sunshine, however, will coax new blossoms to venture forth and again the gardens will be a "lovesome thing, God wot."

Mrs. J. T. Bullen is glad indeed that the Natchez Garden pilgrimage opens this week, as she is searching for something out of the ordinary to show her son, Lieutenant J. T. Bullen, Jr., and his wife, who are arriving tomorrow from a three-year stay in China and Europe. She feels that the ante-bellum homes where the old south still lingers equal in charm and beauty anything the old world had to offer.

Gladys Sperry says she never tires of Natchez, where the old south lives again each spring. Each year when March comes she fills up her automobile with friends who have never before been in Natchez during garden pilgrimage and enjoys with them over and over again the never-failing allure of a bygone era. Her face has become so familiar in fact to the hostesses that complimentary tickets are presented her each year.

• • •

Anna Grey Noe is antique hunting these spring days. White Hall, purchased several years ago, and one of the oldest plantation homes in this section of the country, is being restored to its former glory by the Noes. The high ceilinged rooms, where the invading hosts of Union officers encamped during Civil war days, requires colonial furniture of Civil war period. Anna Grey, in her quest, is quite enchanted with the people who own these relics of ante-bellum days. Her search takes her away from the beaten track—in out-of-the-way places where people are only too glad to rid themselves of the old so that they can surround themselves with the new.

Nancy Starr Breard, infant daughter of the Harold Breards, is sleeping today in a handsome cradle—one that her father slept in, also her uncle John Breard and all the Breards in this branch of the family who have gone before. Charlotte Breard Hamilton slept in the cradle, and when her daughter Ashley arrived she slumbered peacefully therein.

Blanche Oliver was so pressed for time getting off for New Orleans to see the Lunts in "Amphitryon 38," she walked in her stocking feet from the shoe shop to the millinery shop. While waiting for her shoes to be repaired she found that she could have time by selecting a hat. Unaware, until too late, that her feet were shoeless, she mustered all the sang-froid she possesses and went calmly about her business. To forget oneself and the petty things that clutter up our lives, is indeed an admirable trait.

Mrs. Dean Selig never misses an opportunity to share the camellias Dean is raising so successfully, with others. She even sent a box of the rarest, most beautiful blooms to Nelson Eddy when he appeared in concert in Shreveport. Frances McHenry and Dick Major, who happened to occupy a room next to the Eddys at the Washington Youree hotel, heard them raving about the camellias and later discovered they came from Monroe. Mrs. Eddy wore a flock of them to the concert.

The culture of camellias has been lifted to a fine art in Monroe during the past several years. Old bushes from the famous camellia section in south Louisiana have been transplanted with remarkable success in Monroe gardens. Several bushes, more than 50 years old were lifted bodily from their native soil near Lafayette and transplanted in the Allan Sholars gardens. Azaleas, raised with little success in Monroe until recent years, are also being transplanted from southern Louisiana gardens. The A. L. Harringtons recently purchased an immense azalea bush which withstood the shock of being placed in foreign soil.

Junior Gavel Club Holds Meeting

The Junior Gavel club met with Mrs. D. L. Bornman on Rochelle avenue Thursday afternoon. Beautiful spring flowers were placed at vantage points in the reception suite.

The meeting was presided over by the president, Mrs. H. L. Delaney, who welcomed to the club a new member, Mrs. Blair Bartleson.

The roll call and minutes were read by Mrs. Bornman, secretary. Mrs. G. V. McCaskill, treasurer, Mrs. Merrell Williams, social service chairman, and Mrs. E. T. Heard, Jr., membership chairman, submitted reports.

Mrs. L. A. Duffee presented the subject for study, another in a series of lessons of practical English and effective speech.

Mrs. John Naylor entertained with a review of "The Life and Death of a Spanish Town," by Elliot Paul.

This is an important book to Americans, as it is the first penetrating light thrown upon the lost peace and the present terror in Spain. Elliot Paul's contact with the struggles which have led to the present acute social crisis has been continuous and varied. Until he was taken off the island by a man-of-war in September of 1936, he spent five years in the peaceful town of Santa Eulalia, a little town which lies on an island off the Spanish mainland, the scene of his story.

Mrs. Naylor related how the author tells of the idyllic life led by its natives before the revolution and of the horrors visited upon them by civil war. His book describes a town as typical of all Spain. The serene beauty of its peacetime activities and its simple humanity are revealed by the author, who learned to share their work and learned their problems. With the invasion, death and hatred were let loose upon the tranquil inhabitants of the town with heartbreaking consequences.

Santa Eulalia represents in miniature what has been happening on an enormous scale in Spain itself and elsewhere in a troubled world. Elliot Paul stated that it was a privilege to be associated with such courageous, high-minded men and women, and their enemies will do well to be afraid of them as long as they are above ground.

During the social hour Mrs. Bornman served refreshments to the following members: Mrs. G. V. McCaskill, Mrs. Ray Rhymes, Mrs. John Naylor, Mrs. C. O. Boyce, Mrs. H. L. Delaney, Mrs. Olan Black, Mrs. E. T. Heard, Jr., Mrs. Merrell Williams, Mrs. Blair Bartleson, Mrs. H. V. Collins and Mrs. L. A. Duffee.

Mr. and Mrs. John Gonzales announce the arrival of their third child, a son, February 21. He has been named William Ramon Gonzales.

WHAT IS A Termite Inspection?
A Termite Inspection is an expert investigation that will tell you whether or not your property is being damaged by those tiny wood-eating insects, termites. It is a precaution that wise property owners are taking because so many homes and buildings are secretly being attacked by termites.
You don't see termites when they bore into a building, or while they are at work inside the wood. It takes a skilled inspection to locate them. A Terminix Inspection costs you nothing, obligates you in no way. It is made in the basement and underneath your house, without inconvenience to occupants. After it is completed you are given a detailed and reliable report, telling you if termites or termite damage are found.

Current Literature Club Holds Meeting

Wednesday afternoon the members of the Current Literature Book club met in the home of Mrs. J. C. Kramer, Jr., to hear a review of a novel by a famous Louisiana author.

Mrs. F. T. Harkness presented a polished review of "The Handsome Road," by Gwen Bristow, author of the widely published book who left Louisiana in 1929 to live in California, where her first inspiration, "Deep Summer," was completed.

The story takes place in the southern part of Louisiana during the period of the Civil war. It reveals the clash of two classes—the rich plantation families and the poor white trash. The book brought out two remarkable facts; first, that the Civil war was a rich man's war and men of wealth could pay to remain out of it, and second, the outstanding worth of the negro. Hundreds of dollars were paid for each child born. The sentiment of all negroes was "I'd rather be a negro than poor white trash."

Mrs. E. R. Whitaker gave an interesting talk on "Libraries in Louisiana."

Members attending were Mmes. G. W. Guerriero, E. R. Whitaker, V. S. Garnett, J. C. Kramer, Jr., R. F. Seiler, F. T. Harkness, John Best, G. D. Holland, J. M. Menefee, William Whitfield and Mike John, Jr.

Miss Smith Weds Alden J. Daigle

The interest of friends is centered in the announcement of the marriage of Miss Margaret Elizabeth Smith, daughter of Mrs. Myrtle Haynes Smith, and Mr. Alden J. Daigle of Baton Rouge, February 27. The ceremony was performed at 12 o'clock noon at the home of the bride's mother in Baton Rouge.

The bride wore a smart spring model of camellia pink and honey beige with all accessories of beige. A corsage of camellias and valley lilies. She was attended by Miss Mildred Burns.

Mr. Daigle was attended by Mr. W. V. Smith, a brother of the bride.

Mrs. Daigle is a graduate of Ouachita Parish High school and Monroe commercial college and at present is affiliated with a department store at Baton Rouge. She is a granddaughter of Mrs. G. B. Haynes and the late G. B. Haynes of West Monroe.

Mr. and Mrs. Daigle are at home to their friends at 2152 Pocahontas street, Baton Rouge.

Federated Women's Clubs Hold Meeting

Twenty-Eight Members Of Board, Includng Mrs. A. D. Tisdale, Present At Alexandria

Twenty-eight members of the board of directors of the Louisiana Federation of Women's clubs, including Mrs. A. D. Tisdale, of Monroe, president of the Fifth district, attended the annual spring meeting in Alexandria. This number was considerably more than the required quorum. The session was presided over by the president, Mrs. C. E. Hester, of Tallulah, assisted by the first vice-president, Mrs. Fenn A. Leaming, of Mansfield, and Mrs. Ralph H. Agate, general federation director for Louisiana.

The annual district meeting dates were set as follows: First and Second districts, New Orleans, April 21; Third district, Thibodaux, April 22; Fourth district, Minden, April 13; Fifth district, Oak Grove, April 15; Sixth district, Pontchatoula, May 5; Seventh district, DeRidder, May 14; Eighth district, Natchitoches, April 1.

The annual state convention to be held in Lake Charles will take place between November 1 and 15. The definite dates will be fixed to suit the convenience of Mrs. Saidie Orr Dunbar, president of the general federation, the expected guest speaker from the national organization.

The committee, appointed following the recommendation passed at the last state convention to prepare a plan for selecting the outstanding clubs of the districts, presented a score sheet that compares favorably with the best of other state federations. The object of the plan is to set a standard that will develop unity, provide for group action, and the true spirit of federation.

An appeal to save a strip 50 feet wide on each side of the highway running through Bynun Woods was made by Miss Caroline Dormon, adviser of the conservation committee. "Why spend millions creating great parkways, when here is a monumental thing which God has already attended to?" said Miss Dormon. The board unanimously recommended that this matter be presented at the district meetings.

The president was authorized to appoint a committee to make a study of the marriage laws of other states to ascertain if they conform to the Louisiana law, and if it is found that the Louisiana law is not satisfactory a change will be sought to raise the age of marriage.

As chairman of the war veterans committee, Mrs. Alfred Wettermark of Alexandria proposed a plan of bringing cheer and beauty to veterans' hospitals by making appropriate plantings on the grounds, which resulted in a donation of 200 rose bushes to the United States veterans' hospital at Pineville from the Fourth district, of which Mrs. Scott Wilkinson of Shreveport is president.

It was announced that six new clubs had affiliated with the state federation since the last meeting in November which are as follows: Town and Country club of Tallulah, Junior Federated club of Rayville, Junior Gavel club, and Current Literature club of Monroe in the Fifth district, of which Mrs. A. D. Tisdale of Monroe is president; Study club of DeQuincy, and Janette Van Nests club of DeRidder in the Seventh district, of which Mrs. A. R. LeCompte is president.

A telegram was sent Senator Ellender, a member of the senate education committee, urging active support of senate bill 1305 which provides federal aid to education including libraries. The Louisiana Federation of Women's clubs is known as the mother of the library movement in Louisiana which began during the administration of Mrs. Albert F. Storm, past president of the organization. Mrs. A. G. Reed of Baton Rouge, also a past president, is now serving as a member of the Louisiana library commission.

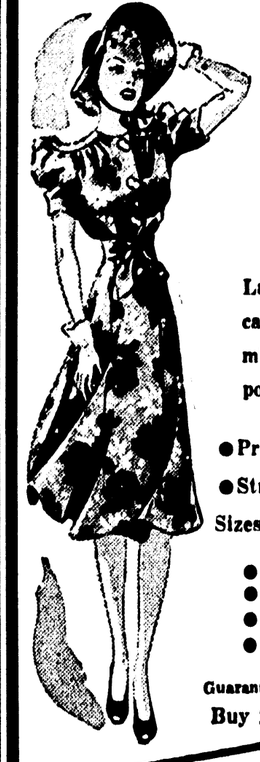

The federation will stress Louisiana products and manufactured articles through exhibits at the district meetings and the state convention upon recommendation of the American home department of which Mrs. Henry M. Mims of Baton Rouge is chairman.

Mr. and Mrs. Baskin Wright and son, John Dryburgh Wright, of Tuscaloosa, Ala., will arrive in the city on Monday en route from a six week's stay in Portland, Ore., and Seattle, Wash., to spend a few days with Mrs. Wright's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dryburgh. Mr. Wright, member of the faculty of the university of Alabama, has been engaged in government public forum work. En route home they visited the fair in San Francisco and spent several days in Los Angeles.

Members Of Local Society Welcome Arrival Of Annual Spring Pilgrimages

Azaleas Attracting Considerable Praise

Mrs. Sperry Ready Again To Make Journey To Natchez; Mrs. Noe In Search For Antiques

WEARY of winter and hungry for spring, everyone said good-bye to February with exhileration. It was good ridance, as February is invariably the meanest month of the year. The name coming from an ancient Roman festival of expiation and purification, has been appropriately used to mean a whip.

March, the noisy trumpeter, was more than welcome this year, as it ushers in the season of garden pilgrimages. Already the great trek to the wide open spaces has started. Just home from a jaunt through the Bellengrath gardens, Dot McCord tells of a frost-bitten world of flowers. The azaleas, the glory of the southland, and the magnet that draws thousands of visitors to the famous gardens in Mobile, were laid low by a frost. A few days of sunshine, however, will coax new blossoms to venture forth and again the gardens will be a "lovesome thing, God wot."

Mrs. J. T. Bullen is glad indeed that the Natchez Garden pilgrimage opens this week, as she is searching for something out of the ordinary to show her son, Lieutenant J. T. Bullen, Jr., and his wife, who are arriving tomorrow from a three-year stay in China and Europe. She feels that the ante-bellum homes where the old south still lingers equal in charm and beauty anything the old world had to offer.

Gladys Sperry says she never tires of Natchez, where the old south lives again each spring. Each year when March comes she fills up her automobile with friends who have never before been in Natchez during garden pilgrimage and enjoys with them over and over again the never-failing allure of a bygone era. Her face has become so familiar in fact to the hostesses that complimentary tickets are presented her each year.

Anna Grey Noe is antique hunting these spring days. White Hall, purchased several years ago, and one of the oldest plantation homes in this section of the country, is being restored to its former glory by the Noes. The high ceilinged rooms, where the invading hosts of Union officers encamped during Civil war days, requires colonial furniture of Civil war period. Anna Grey, in her quest, is quite enchanted with the people who own these relics of ante-bellum days. Her search takes her away from the beaten track—in out-of-the-way places where people are only too glad to rid themselves of the old so that they can surround themselves with the new.

Nancy Starr Breard, infant daughter of the Harold Breards, is sleeping today in a handsome cradle—one that her father slept in, also her uncle John Breard and all the Breards in this branch of the family who have gone before. Charlotte Breard Hamilton slept in the cradle, and when her daughter Ashley arrived she slumbered peacefully therein.

Blanche Oliver was so pressed for time getting off for New Orleans to see the Lunts in "Amphitryon 38," she walked in her stocking feet from the shoe shop to the millinery shop. While waiting for her shoes to be repaired she found that she could have time by selecting a hat. Unaware, until too late, that her feet were shoeless, she mustered all the sang-froid she possesses and went calmly about her business. To forget oneself and the petty things that clutter up our lives, is indeed an admirable trait.

Mrs. Dean Selig never misses an opportunity to share the camellias Dean is raising so successfully, with others. She even sent a box of the rarest, most beautiful blooms to Nelson Eddy when he appeared in concert in Shreveport. Frances McHenry and Dick Major, who happened to occupy a room next to the Eddys at the Washington Youree hotel, heard them raving about the camellias and later discovered they came from Monroe. Mrs. Eddy wore a flock of them to the concert.

The culture of camellias has been lifted to a fine art in Monroe during the past several years. Old bushes from the famous camellia section in south Louisiana have been transplanted with remarkable success in Monroe gardens. Several bushes, more than 50 years old were lifted bodily from their native soil near Lafayette and transplanted in the Allan Sholars gardens. Azaleas, raised with little success in Monroe until recent years, are also being transplanted from southern Louisiana gardens. The A. L. Harringtons recently purchased an immense azalea bush which withstood the shock of being placed in foreign soil.

RECENT BRIDE AND HER MAID OF HONOR

Mrs. Andrew Pappas (left), who before her recent marriage was Miss Ilo Jane Boyd, and her maid of honor, Miss Koula Pappas. Mrs. Pappas and Miss Pappas are both wearing lovely spring models of fuchsia colored crepe. Mrs. Pappas' coat is a shade darker than dress and the small, close-fitting hat is fashioned of fuchsia colored flowers. (Pictures by Griffin)

Junior Gavel Club Holds Meeting

The Junior Gavel club met with Mrs. D. L. Bornman on Rochelle avenue Thursday afternoon. Beautiful spring flowers were placed at vantage points in the reception suite.

The meeting was presided over by the president, Mrs. H. L. Deloney, who welcomed to the club a new member, Mrs. Blair Bartleson.

The roll call and minutes were read by Mrs. Bornman, secretary. Mrs. G. V. McCaskill, treasurer, Mrs. Merrell Williams, social service chairman, and Mrs. E. T. Heard, Jr., membership chairman, submitted reports.

Mrs. L. A. Duffee presented the subject for study, another in a series of lessons of practical English and effective speech.

Mrs. John Naylor entertained with a review of "The Life and Death of a Spanish Town," by Elliot Paul.

This is an important book to Americans, as it is the first penetrating light thrown upon the lost peace and the present terror in Spain. Elliot Paul's contact with the struggles which have led to the present acute social crisis has been continuous and varied. Until he was taken off the island by a man-of-war in September of 1936, he spent five years in the peaceful town of Santa Eulalia, a little town which lies on an island off the Spanish mainland, the scene of his story.

Mrs. Naylor related how the author tells of the idyllic life led by its natives before the revolution and of the horrors visited upon them by civil war. His book describes a town as typical of all Spain. The serene beauty of its peacetime activities and its simple humanity are revealed by the author, who learned to share their work and learned their problems. With the invasion, death and hatred were let loose upon the tranquil inhabitants of the town with heartbreaking consequences.

Santa Eulalia represents in miniature what has been happening on an enormous scale in Spain itself and elsewhere in a troubled world. Elliot Paul stated that it was a privilege to be associated with such courageous, high-minded men and women, and their enemies will do well to be afraid of them as long as they are above ground.

During the social hour Mrs. Bornman served refreshments to the following members: Mrs. G. V. McCaskill, Mrs. Ray Rhymes, Mrs. John Naylor, Mrs. C. O. Boyce, Mrs. H. L. Deloney, Mrs. Olan Black, Mrs. E. T. Heard, Jr., Mrs. Merrell Williams, Mrs. Blair Bartleson, Mrs. H. V. Collins and Mrs. L. A. Duffee.

WHAT IS A Termite Inspection?

A Termite Inspection is an expert investigation that will tell you whether or not your property is being damaged by those tiny wood-eating insects, termites. It is a precaution that wise property owners are taking because so many homes and buildings are secretly being attacked by termites.
You don't see termites when they bore into a building, or while they are at work inside the wood. It takes a skilled inspection to locate them. A Terminix Inspection costs you nothing, obligates you in no way. It is made in the basement and underneath your house, without inconvenience to occupants. After it is completed you are given a detailed and reliable report, telling you if termites or termite damage are found.

Current Literature Club Holds Meeting

Wednesday afternoon the members of the Current Literature Book club met in the home of Mrs. J. C. Kramer, Jr., to hear a review of a novel by a famous Louisiana author.

Mrs. F. T. Harkness presented a polished review of "The Handsome Road," by Gwen Bristow, author of the widely published book who left Louisiana in 1929 to live in California, where her first inspiration, "Deep Summer," was completed.

The story takes place in the southern part of Louisiana during the period of the Civil war. It reveals the clash of two classes—the rich plantation families and the poor white trash. The book brought out two remarkable facts; first, that the Civil war was a rich man's war and men of wealth could pay to remain out of it, and second, the outstanding worth of the negro. Hundreds of dollars were paid for each child born. The sentiment of all negroes was "I'd rather be a negro than poor white trash."

Mrs. E. R. Whitaker gave an interesting talk on "Libraries in Louisiana."

Members attending were Mmes. G. W. Guerriero, E. R. Whitaker, V. S. Garnett, J. C. Kramer, Jr., R. F. Seiler, F. T. Harkness, John Best, G. D. Holland, J. M. Menefee, William Whitfield and Mike John, Jr.

Miss Smith Weds Alden J. Daigle

The interest of friends is centered in the announcement of the marriage of Miss Margaret Elizabeth Smith, daughter of Mrs. Myrtle Haynes Smith, and Mr. Alden J. Daigle of Baton Rouge, February 27. The ceremony was performed at 12 o'clock noon at the home of the bride's mother in Baton Rouge.

The bride wore a smart spring model of camellia pink and honey beige with all accessories of beige. A corsage of camellias and valley lilies. She was attended by Miss Mildred Burns.

Mr. Daigle was attended by Mr. W. V. Smith, a brother of the bride.

Mrs. Daigle is a graduate of Ouachita Parish High school and Monroe commercial college and at present is affiliated with a department store at Baton Rouge. She is a granddaughter of Mrs. G. B. Haynes and the late G. B. Haynes of West Monroe.

Mr. and Mrs. Daigle are at home to their friends at 2152 Pocahontas street, Baton Rouge.

Twenty-Eight Members Of Board, Includng Mrs. A. D. Tisdale, Present At Alexandria

Twenty-eight members of the board of directors of the Louisiana Federation of Women's clubs, including Mrs. A. D. Tisdale, of Monroe, president of the Fifth district, attended the annual spring meeting in Alexandria. This number was considerably more than the required quorum. The session was presided over by the president, Mrs. C. E. Hester, of Tallulah, assisted by the first vice-president, Mrs. Fenn A. Leaming, of Mansfield, and Mrs. Ralph H. Agate, general federation director for Louisiana.

The annual district meeting dates were set as follows: First and Second districts, New Orleans, April 21; Third district, Thibodaux, April 22; Fourth district, Minden, April 13; Fifth district, Oak Grove, April 15; Sixth district, Pontchatoula, May 5; Seventh district, DeRidder, May 14; Eighth district, Natchitoches, April 1.

The annual state convention to be held in Lake Charles will take place between November 1 and 15. The definite dates will be fixed to suit the convenience of Mrs. Saidie Orr Dunbar, president of the general federation, the expected guest speaker from the national organization.

The committee, appointed following the recommendation passed at the last state convention to prepare a plan for selecting the outstanding clubs of the districts, presented a score sheet that compares favorably with the best of other state federations. The object of the plan is to set a standard that will develop unity, provide for group action, and the true spirit of federation.

An appeal to save a strip 50 feet wide on each side of the highway running through Bynun Woods was made by Miss Caroline Dormon, adviser of the conservation committee. "Why spend millions creating great parkways, when here is a monumental thing which God has already attended to?" said Miss Dormon. The board unanimously recommended that this matter be presented at the district meetings.

The president was authorized to appoint a committee to make a study of the marriage laws of other states to ascertain if they conform to the Louisiana law, and if it is found that the Louisiana law is not satisfactory a change will be sought to raise the age of marriage.

As chairman of the war veterans committee, Mrs. Alfred Wettermark of Alexandria proposed a plan of bringing cheer and beauty to veterans' hospitals by making appropriate plantings on the grounds, which resulted in a donation of 200 rose bushes to the United States veterans' hospital at Pineville from the Fourth district, of which Mrs. Scott Wilkinson of Shreveport is president.

Several Nuptial Events Continue To Claim Attention Of Society In Monro

Miss Morgan To Wed Robert W. Calvert

Miss Olive Hodge Will Marry Walker Glenn, Jr.; Miss Boyd Becomes Bride Of Andrew Pappas

There is no place for sackcloth and ashes in Dan Cupid's scheme of life. Design for living these days seems to be in the hands of this gay romancer who is responsible for interesting engagements and surprise weddings.

Romance is in the air. Now comes news of the engagement and approaching marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Morgan's lovely daughter, Mary Elizabeth, to Robert Woodrow Calvert of New Orleans, son of Dr. E. G. Calvert of West Monroe.

The wedding will be solemnized in April at Rayville, home of Mr. and Mrs. Morgan.

Miss Morgan, a charming member of the younger set, is a graduate of Ward-Belmont college and Louisiana State university. She is a member of Chi Omega sorority.

Mr. Calvert attended Chamberlain-Hunt academy and Louisiana State university and is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity. Mr. Calvert and his bride-to-be will reside in New Orleans.

Claiming the interest of friends today is the announcement made by Mrs. Wesley J. Hodge of the engagement and approaching marriage of her daughter, Olive, to Mr. Walker Glenn, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Walker Glenn of this city.

The wedding will be a charming event of April 2 at the West Monroe Methodist church.

Miss Hodge, popular member of the younger set of this city, is a graduate of Northeast Center of L. S. U. and Soule Business college, New Orleans.

Mr. Glenn, who was born and reared in this city and a favorite in younger social circles, attended the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor and Louisiana State university at Baton Rouge.

Claiming prominence among the early springtime weddings was that of Miss Ilo Jane Boyd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Boyd of West Monroe, and Mr. Andrew Pappas, Sunday afternoon, February 26, at 4 o'clock at the First Methodist church, with the pastor, Rev. W. C. Scott, officiating.

Springtime was reflected in the beautiful blossoms banking the altar and chancel rail.

While the guests were being seated by the ushers, Mr. William Gannaway and Mr. David Tarver, a pre-nuptial concert was rendered by Mrs. John Sholars, organist, and Miss Mary Katherine Penuel, soloist.

The bride's maid of honor, Miss Koula Pappas, sister of the bridegroom, wore a beautiful spring model of fuschia crepe with corsage of pink sweetheart roses and valley lilies. Mr. Raymond John served in the capacity of best man.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a distinctive spring model of fuschia colored crepe with all accessories of the same lovely shade. A corsage of bride's roses and valley lilies was worn.

Immediately following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Pappas motored to Jackson, Miss., and New Orleans. Following the honeymoon they will be at home in Brookhaven, Miss., where Mr. Pappas is engaged in business.

Out-of-town guests attending the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Ray Boyd and children, James, Martha Jean, Carolyn and Ray, Jr., of Fairbanks; Mr. and Mrs. Guy M. Boyd and Anne Boyd of Collinston; Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Boyd and Laura Anne Boyd of Rodessa, and Miss Myrtle Lipscomb of Shreveport.

TO WED IN APRIL!

Miss Olive Hodge, daughter of Mrs. Wesley J. Hodge of West Monroe, whose engagement and approaching marriage to Mr. Walker Glenn, Jr., is formally announced today. The wedding will be an interesting event of April 2.—(Picture by Griffin)

Betty Jo Henry Observes Birthday

Twelve candles flamed high on Betty Jo Henry's beautifully embossed birthday cake, placed in the center of the tea table arranged by the celebrant's mother, Mrs. R. B. Henry, in commemoration of her birthday anniversary.

Guests on this occasion were confined to the celebrant's classmates at the Crosley school and the festivities took place in the school cafeteria. Beautiful flowers placed in the background created an atmosphere of festivity.

A lovely bit of sentiment was the presence of the celebrant's teachers from the first grade to the fifth grade. They were Mrs. Herbert Rinehart, Mrs. J. A. Rainbolt, Mrs. Thomas Roussell, Mrs. Otto Miller, Mrs. E. E. Anders and Mrs. W. D. Clark.

A delicious confectionery course was served at flower appointed tables.

Games were introduced and gifts, large crystal jars of candy, presented to the winners.

Mrs. Henry was assisted by Mrs. King Hunt.

Bridge-Luncheon At Whitfield Home

Spring flowers created a festive atmosphere in the reception suite of Mrs. J. L. Whitfield's home when she and Mrs. Burl Hollis and Mrs. X. M. Holt entertained at bridge-luncheon. The card tables were covered with crisp linens and silver appointed for the serving of a turkey course luncheon.

Bridge was later introduced and resulted in Mrs. Luther Powell and Mrs. Ben Bicknell winning the high score trophies. Miss Billie Stroud received the consolation gift.

Enjoying the courtesies were Mmes. G. L. Morgan, Merrell Williams, W. Cecil Blanchard, H. B. Staples, Clay Olbon, Leon Dennis, Clyde Hart, F. A. Randow, C. J. Phelps, Earl Hitt, Ben Bicknell, John Martinere, J. T. Conger, J. S. Harbuck and Luther Powell of Memphis, Tenn., Misses Ann Barber of Meridian, Miss., and Billie Stroud.

Luncheon guests were Mrs. C. M. Thomas and Mrs. Oliver Lowery.

Mrs. E. Roberson is enjoying a visit from her sister, Mrs. Flem George and her brother, Mr. Joseph Clevinger of Moskogee, Okla.

Readers Clique Holds Meeting

Mrs. R. M. Cook was hostess to members of the Readers Clique Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. C. J. Phelps, vice-president, presiding.

Mrs. G. L. Morgan gave a most interesting talk on the book "How to Be Your Own Decorator" by Helen Koues. "If you are to be your own decorator," Mrs. Morgan said, "one of the first things to realize is that the qualities of livableness and charm are not intangible, but the result of putting the right things together. There are not only good illustrations in periodicals and books to follow, but the better stores throughout the country, as well as the museums in the larger cities, show authentic rooms of different periods, which may be of real help to the amateur. With some study of this sort, and the knowledge of a few simple principles, every woman can decorate her own house. The five principles considered as a foundation are: Type, that is the sort of house or room you would like to have; background; color; scale; individuality. The houses in America today, and the rooms in them, fall into colonial, Georgian (the more formal colonial), English, English cottage, regency, French, Italian, modern, Spanish and nondescript. Even though a room is not strictly true to type there should be some guiding influence in the making of it. Backgrounds vary in different types of houses. In a colonial house, for instance, walls may be papered or painted white, ivory, gray or various traditional colors. For each type there is a different style background, which though it may be varied must have some of the characteristics of the type to which it belongs to obtain a distinctive effect. Today, there is an increasing appreciation of color and knowledge of how to use it. There is, however, one very important consideration in choosing the color for a given room, and that is its exposure. Scale is the relation of one thing to another in building, or of one article of furniture to another in a room. Before buying any piece of furniture consider whether or not it is in a scale, lightness of massiveness, that will suit the space in which it is to be used. There is nothing more important in making the home out of the house than to be able to put into it the qualities that mean livableness, restfulness and your own individuality. Order is always to be desired and "a place for everything and everything in its place." We do not want to have all our rooms, whether they are living rooms or bedrooms, of a stereotyped sort. Take a few liberties with your room, and your pictures and your ornaments, and try them here and there. In this way you will find what is best for the room in the way of comfort and charm.

During the social hour books were exchanged by the members as follows: Mrs. Clyde C. Blanchard, Mrs. W. Cecil Blanchard, Mrs. R. M. Cook, Mrs. J. Leon Dennis, Mrs. J. S. Harbuck, Mrs. W. F. Hemler, Mrs. Burl Hollis, Mrs. R. C. Kester, Mrs. G. L. Morgan, Mrs. C. J. Phelps, Mrs. J. L. Whitfield.

Several Nuptial Events Continue To Claim Attention Of Society In Monroe

Miss Morgan To Wed Robert W. Calvert

Miss Olive Hodge Will Marry Walker Glenn, Jr.; Miss Boyd Becomes Bride Of Andrew Pappas

There is no place for sackcloth and ashes in Dan Cupid's scheme of life. Design for living these days seems to be in the hands of this gay romancer who is responsible for interesting engagements and surprise weddings.

Romance is in the air. Now comes news of the engagement and approaching marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Morgan's lovely daughter, Mary Elizabeth, to Robert Woodrow Calvert of New Orleans, son of Dr. E. G. Calvert of West Monroe.

The wedding will be solemnized in April at Rayville, home of Mr. and Mrs. Morgan.

Miss Morgan, a charming member of the younger set, is a graduate of Ward-Belmont college and Louisiana State university. She is a member of Chi Omega sorority.

Mr. Calvert attended Chamberlain-Hunt academy and Louisiana State university and is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity. Mr. Calvert and his bride-to-be will reside in New Orleans.

Claiming the interest of friends today is the announcement made by Mrs. Wesley J. Hodge of the engagement and approaching marriage of her daughter, Olive, to Mr. Walker Glenn, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Walker Glenn of this city.

The wedding will be a charming event of April 2 at the West Monroe Methodist church.

Miss Hodge, popular member of the younger set of this city, is a graduate of Northeast Center of L. S. U. and Soule Business college, New Orleans.

Mr. Glenn, who was born and reared in this city and a favorite in younger social circles, attended the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor and Louisiana State university at Baton Rouge.

Claiming prominence among the early springtime weddings was that of Miss Ilo Jane Boyd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Boyd of West Monroe, and Mr. Andrew Pappas, Sunday afternoon, February 26, at 4 o'clock at the First Methodist church, with the pastor, Rev. W. C. Scott, officiating.

Springtime was reflected in the beautiful blossoms banking the altar and chancel rail.

While the guests were being seated by the ushers, Mr. William Gannaway and Mr. David Tarver, a pre-nuptial concert was rendered by Mrs. John Sholars, organist, and Miss Mary Katherine Penuel, soloist.

The bride's maid of honor, Miss Koula Pappas, sister of the bridegroom, wore a beautiful spring model of fuschia crepe with corsage of pink sweetheart roses and valley lilies. Mr. Raymond John served in the capacity of best man.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a distinctive spring model of fuschia colored crepe with all accessories of the same lovely shade. A corsage of bride's roses and valley lilies was worn.

Immediately following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Pappas motored to Jackson, Miss., and New Orleans. Following the honeymoon they will be at home in Brookhaven, Miss., where Mr. Pappas is engaged in business.

Out-of-town guests attending the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Ray Boyd and children, James, Martha Jean, Carolyn and Ray, Jr., of Fairbanks; Mr. and Mrs. Guy M. Boyd and Anne Boyd of Collinston; Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Boyd and Laura Anne Boyd of Rodessa, and Miss Myrtle Lipscomb of Shreveport.

TO WED IN APRIL

Miss Olive Hodge, daughter of Mrs. Wesley J. Hodge of West Monroe, whose engagement and approaching marriage to Mr. Walker Glenn, Jr., is formally announced today. The wedding will be an interesting event of April 2.—(Picture by Griffin)

Readers Clique Holds Meeting

Mrs. R. M. Cook was hostess to members of the Readers Clique Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. C. J. Phelps, vice-president, presiding.

Mrs. G. L. Morgan gave a most interesting talk on the book "How to Be Your Own Decorator" by Helen Koues. "If you are to be your own decorator," Mrs. Morgan said, "one of the first things to realize is that the qualities of livableness and charm are not intangible, but the result of putting the right things together. There are not only good illustrations in periodicals and books to follow, but the better stores throughout the country, as well as the museums in the larger cities, show authentic rooms of different periods, which may be of real help to the amateur. With some study of this sort, and the knowledge of a few simple principles, every woman can decorate her own house. The five principles considered as a foundation are: Type, that is the sort of house or room you would like to have; background; color; scale; individuality. The houses in America today, and the rooms in them, fall into colonial, Georgian (the more formal colonial), English, English cottage, regency, French, Italian, modern, Spanish and nondescript. Even though a room is not strictly true to type there should be some guiding influence in the making of it. Backgrounds vary in different types of houses. In a colonial house, for instance, walls may be papered or painted white, ivory, gray or various traditional colors. For each type there is a different style background, which though it may be varied must have some of the characteristics of the type to which it belongs to obtain a distinctive effect. Today, there is an increasing appreciation of color and knowledge of how to use it. There is, however, one very important consideration in choosing the color for a given room, and that is its exposure. Scale is the relation of one thing to another in building, or of one article of furniture to another in a room. Before buying any piece of furniture consider whether or not it is in a scale, lightness of massiveness, that will suit the space in which it is to be used. There is nothing more important in making the home out of the house than to be able to put into it the qualities that mean livableness, restfulness and your own individuality. Order is always to be desired and "a place for everything and everything in its place." We do not want to have all our rooms, whether they are living rooms or bedrooms, of a stereotyped sort. Take a few liberties with your room, and your pictures and your ornaments, and try them here and there. In this way you will find what is best for the room in the way of comfort and charm.

During the social hour books were exchanged by the members as follows: Mrs. Clyde C. Blanchard, Mrs. W. Cecil Blanchard, Mrs. R. M. Cook, Mrs. J. Leon Dennis, Mrs. J. S. Harbuck, Mrs. W. F. Hemler, Mrs. Burl Hollis, Mrs. R. C. Kester, Mrs. G. L. Morgan, Mrs. C. J. Phelps, Mrs. J. L. Whitfield.

Betty Jo Henry Observes Birthday

Twelve candles flamed high on Betty Jo Henry's beautifully embossed birthday cake, placed in the center of the tea table arranged by the celebrant's mother, Mrs. R. B. Henry, in commemoration of her birthday anniversary.

Guests on this occasion were confined to the celebrant's classmates at the Crosley school and the festivities took place in the school cafeteria. Beautiful flowers placed in the background created an atmosphere of festivity.

A lovely bit of sentiment was the presence of the celebrant's teachers from the first grade to the fifth grade. They were Mrs. Herbert Rinehart, Mrs. J. A. Rainbolt, Mrs. Thomas Roussell, Mrs. Otto Miller, Mrs. E. E. Anders and Mrs. W. D. Clark.

A delicious confectionery course was served at flower appointed tables.

Games were introduced and gifts, large crystal jars of candy, presented to the winners.

Mrs. Henry was assisted by Mrs. King Hunt.

Bridge-Luncheon At Whitfield Home

Spring flowers created a festive atmosphere in the reception suite of Mrs. J. L. Whitfield's home when she and Mrs. Burl Hollis and Mrs. X. M. Holt entertained at bridge-luncheon. The card tables were covered with crisp linens and silver appointed for the serving of a turkey course luncheon.

Bridge was later introduced and resulted in Mrs. Luther Powell and Mrs. Ben Bicknell winning the high score trophies. Miss Billie Stroud received the consolation gift.

Enjoying the courtesies were Mmes. G. L. Morgan, Merrell Williams, W. Cecil Blanchard, H. B. Staples, Clay Olbon, Leon Dennis, Clyde Hart, F. A. Randow, C. J. Phelps, Earl Hitt, Ben Bicknell, John Martinere, J. T. Conger, J. S. Harbuck and Luther Powell of Memphis, Tenn., Misses Ann Barber of Meridian, Miss., and Billie Stroud.

Luncheon guests were Mrs. C. M. Thomas and Mrs. Oliver Lowery.

Mrs. E. Roberson is enjoying a visit from her sister, Mrs. Flem George and her brother, Mr. Joseph Clevinger of Moskogee, Okla.

Association Is Organized In Monroe

Mrs. Seenger Among Those Instrumental In Forming Local Cultural Group

[illegible] Monroe's newest organization, the Monroe Art Association, [illegible] they have a mission to [illegible] are striving to bring art [illegible] everyday life—to make people [illegible] realize that art isn't [illegible] to be mentioned reverently [illegible] it were a holy thing out[illegible] sphere of ordinary life.

[illegible] E. Seenger, who is instru[illegible] in organizing the Monroe Art [illegible], says, "We are all artists [illegible] the supreme art of living, [illegible] to our abilities. Art must [illegible] integral part of life if it is to [illegible]."

The first meeting of the Monroe Art [illegible] featured a splendid talk on "Design Is the Foundation of All Art," by Mrs. J. A. Winkler, Jr. She said in part:

"Every one loves beauty. We are born with this love within us. Our everyday lives bring to all of us many experiences in which art plays an important part.

Some people believe that art does not play any part in their lives, because they are not artistic, because they do not draw, paint, or model. It is not necessary to do any of these things in order to make the 'art experience' a part of our daily lives.

"All of us seek for ourselves what is called a fuller and richer life. We are bored by the commonplace, by dull routine. To recognize beauty wherever we may chance upon it helps us out of the commonplace. It helps us to enjoy and understand the world in which we live.

"We all like to choose our own clothing and to select and arrange the furnishings in our homes. There is something instinctive within us urging us to seek beauty in our homes and make our personal appearance attractive. It is a natural desire which frequently turns us all into artists. We can take it for granted that we shall achieve success in this respect without training. Not many of us have the genius that we can create a beautiful home or wardrobe without giving thought to design.

"At first it may seem that one is born either with good taste or without it, but this is not true. If one is willing to give some time and attention to the study of the art principles and color harmony, one can gradually develop this very desirable quality of good taste. Psychologists tell us that everyone is born with the ability to appreciate, but what each appreciates is a matter of training. After a study of art problems and after some practice in solving your own art problems in everyday life you will gradually build up standards of good taste.

"Our knowledge of art will also help us to appreciate beauty in our surroundings. We shall enjoy beautiful and well-planned cities and buildings, and shall be more eager to contribute to enterprises of civic improvements. Art reveals our likes and dislikes, as we ask its advice, and, by our choice of things with which we live, by shaping the past [illegible] the handicrafts of the world.

"To learn to appreciate art it will be necessary to know something of its foundation—which is design. Design is the foundation of all art.

"The designer, the artist, is a builder. His creation may be a painting, a poster or a piece of jewelry, but regardless of its form, if finely done, it will be built upon the same foundations, the same plan, upon which all works of art are built. This foundation, this plan, is design. If we are to appreciate the art of the past, present and future, if we are to become creators and consumers of art, our first step is to develop our feeling for design. Just as any builder must be familiar with the elements that make up his structure, so the appreciator and designer must have a thorough knowledge of design, which is the foundation of all art. For all forms of art—whether architecture, painting, sculpture, interior decoration, costume and industrial design, as well as the decorative arts—reach their finest expression when the elements of design are used in a harmonius way."

Lida Benton

A beautifully decorated birthday cake, surrounded by colorful candles, held the center of the stage at the Lida Benton P.-T. A. Founder's day program. A short talk by Mrs. R. P. Hart opened the program. She paid tribute to the founders of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers and laid the foundation for the presentation of the principal events in the 42 years the congress has been organized.

Mrs. Parker McComb and Mrs. G. C. McAuliffe, past presidents of the Lida Benton P.-T. A. lighted candles to outstanding achievements of the years between 1897 and 1939. These were quoted by a group holding placards bearing the dates mentioned. They were as follows:

1897—The first meeting was held in Washington, D. C. Mrs. Theodore W. Birney was elected president.

1900—The organization was incorporated as National Congress of Mothers under the laws of the District of Columbia.

1906—The first publication of the National Congress of Mothers Magazine, later called the Child Welfare Magazine, today the National Parent-Teacher Magazine.

1908—Name of organization changed to National Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teacher associations.

1910—Initial observance of Founder's day (designated "Child Welfare day") as proposed by Mrs. Daviv O. Mears.

Art Association Is Organized In Monroe

Mrs. H. R. Saenger Among Those Instrumental In Forming Local Cultural Group

Members of Monroe's newest organization, the Monroe Art association, feel that they have a mission to fulfill. They are striving to bring art into the everyday life—to make people generally realize that art isn't something to be mentioned reverently as though it were a holy thing outside the sphere of ordinary life.

Mrs. H. R. Saenger, who is instrumental in organizing the Monroe Art association, says, "We are all artists practicing the supreme art of living, according to our abilities. Art must be an integral part of life if it is to survive."

The first meeting of the Monroe Art association featured a splendid talk on "Design Is the Foundation of All Art." by Mrs. J. A. Winkler, Jr. She said in part:

"Every one loves beauty. We are born with this love within us. Our everyday lives bring to all of us many experiences in which art plays an important part.

Some people believe that art does not play any part in their lives, because they do not draw, paint, or model. It is not necessary to do any of these things in order to make the 'art experience' a part of our daily lives.

"All of us seek for ourselves what is called a fuller and richer life. We are bored by the commonplace, by dull routine. To recognize beauty wherever we may chance upon it helps us out of the commonplace. It helps us to enjoy and understand the world in which we live.

"We all like to choose our own clothing and to select and arrange the furnishings in our homes. There is something instinctive within us urging us to seek beauty in our homes and make our personal appearance attractive. It is a natural desire which frequently turns us all into artists. We can take it for granted that we shall achieve success in this respect without training. Not many of us have the genius that we can create a beautiful home or wardrobe without giving thought to design.

"At first it may seem that one is born either with good taste or without it, but this is not true. If one is willing to give some time and attention to the study of the art principles and color harmony, one can gradually develop this very desirable quality of good taste. Psychologists tell us that everyone is born with the ability to appreciate, but what each appreciates is a matter of training. After a study of art problems and after some practice in solving your own art problems in everyday life you will gradually build up standards of good taste.

"Our knowledge of art will also help us to appreciate beauty in our surroundings. We shall enjoy beautiful and well-planned cities and buildings, and shall be more eager to contribute to enterprises of civic improvements. Art reveals our likes and dislikes, so we can be artists, also, by our choice of things with which we live; by choosing the best from the handicrafts of the world.

"To learn to appreciate art it will be necessary to know something of its foundation—which is design. Design is the foundation of all art.

"The designer, the artist, is a builder. His creation may be a painting, a poster or a piece of jewelry, but regardless of its form, if finely done, it will be built upon the same foundations, the same plan, upon which all works of art are built. This foundation, this plan, is design. If we are to appreciate the art of the past, present and future, if we are to become creators and consumers of art, our first step is to develop our feeling for design. Just as any builder must be familiar with the elements that make up his structure, so the appreciator and designer must have a thorough knowledge of design, which is the foundation of all art. For all forms of art—whether architecture, painting, sculpture, interior decoration, costume and industrial design, as well as the decorative arts—reach their finest expression when the elements of design are used in a harmonius way."

Parent-Teacher News

"Health and Recreation" will be the subject of the district meeting of the parent-teacher associations of the Fifth district, which will be held Saturday, March 11, at the Crosey school, West Monroe.

Mrs. Paul Blanchard, Baton Rouge, state president of the Louisiana Parent-Teachers association, Mrs. W. C. Youngblood, Shreveport, state recreation chairman, Mrs. J. B. Best, state summer round-up chairman, also of Shreveport, will be guest speakers during the meeting. Mrs. Carl Couch, district director, will preside.

Important business scheduled for the meeting will be the election of officers.

The meeting will be opened at 9:30 a.m. with an invocation by Rev. Karlos Smith, of the West Monroe Methodist church and Mr. G. W. Welch, principal of Crosley school, will give the address of welcome. The response will be made by Mrs. Neal Holt of Tallulah.

Publicity scrap books will be judged at this meeting and the three best will be selected for the state convention. Conferences on different phases of parent-teacher work will be held during the day and reports will be made by the district director and the presidents of the local units.

Lida Benton

A beautifully decorated birthday cake, surrounded by colorful candles, held the center of the stage at the Lida Benton P.-T. A. Founder's day program. A short talk by Mrs. R. P. Hart opened the program. She paid tribute to the founders of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers and laid the foundation for the presentation of the principal events in the 42 years the congress has been organized.

Mrs. Parker McComb and Mrs. G. C. McAuliffe, past presidents of the Lida Benton P.-T. A. lighted candles to outstanding achievements of the years between 1897 and 1939. These were quoted by a group holding placards bearing the dates mentioned. They were as follows:

1897—The first meeting was held in Washington, D. C. Mrs. Theodore W. Birney was elected president.

1900—The organization was incorporated as National Congress of Mothers under the laws of the District of Columbia.

1906—The first publication of the National Congress of Mothers Magazine, later called the Child Welfare Magazine, today the National Parent-Teacher Magazine.

1908—Name of organization changed to National Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teacher associations.

1910—Initial observance of Founder's day (designated "Child Welfare day") as proposed by Mrs. Daviv O. Mears.

1920—Oak tree adopted as National Congress emblem.

1923—Louisiana organized.

1927—Membership passed 1,000,000 mark.

1931—Membership passed 1,500,000 mark.

1937—Membership passed 2,000,000 mark.

1939—State convention to be held in Monroe in April.

The mother singers contributed two splendid numbers after which the president, Mrs. J. H. Moore, cut the birthday cake and a social period was enjoyed.

Awards for having the most parents present were given to the first and fifth grades.

Miss Phillips Weds William Montgomery

Sterlington Girl Becomes Bride Of New Orleans Resident; Informal Reception Held

A wedding of much interest to friends throughout northeast Louisiana was that of Miss Virginia Phillips, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Phillips, of Sterlington, and Mr. William C. Montgomery of New Orleans, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Montgomery, of Saline. The ceremony was solemnized in the Sterlington Baptist church, with the Rev. Earl Guinn officiating.

Southern smilax, interwoven with narcissus, made a lovely background for the improvised altar, formed by placing floor baskets of snapdragons, gladioli and fern, with tall white tapers burning in floor candelabra on each side of the aisle, where the nuptial vows were exchanged.

Preceding the ceremony Mrs. O. K. Bailey sang "I Love You Truly," and "At Dawning." Mrs. L. H. Burns, who accompanied her at the piano, wore a dubonnet model with white camelia corsage. Mrs. Bailey's gown was of baby blue with orchid camerias.

The bride chose as her attendants Miss Margaret Montgomery, sister of the groom, and Mrs. James Halbert, sister of the bride. The groom was attended by his brother, Mr. Osburn Montgomery of Ruston, as best man and Mr. William Jordan of Mer Rouge, as groomsman.

Little Angel Phillips, dressed in rose taffeta with blue velvet trimmings, was flower girl and little Miss Margurite Bailey was lovely in a dress duplicate of the flower girl, as she lighted the candles before the ceremony. The matron of honor, Mrs. James A. Halbert, wore a charming spring model of black triple sheer with fuchsia accessories and fuchsia camelia corsage. The maid of honor, Miss Margaret Montgomery, wore a lovely two-tone crepe model with beige accessories and a white camelia corsage.

To the traditional strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March, the bride walked down the aisle on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage. She wore an advanced spring model of boy blue with fuchsia accessories and a corsage of orchids and valley lilies particularly suited to her brunette beauty.

Following the ceremony an informal reception was held in the home of the bride's parents, which was decorated with baskets of jonquils, narcissus and snapdragons. The lace covered table formed a lovely background for the punchbowl placed between tall white candles. In the receiving line were the bride's mother, dressed becomingly in a lovely blue dress with a corsage of hyacinths; the groom's mother, in an attractive spring model with a corsage of japonicas, and the bride and groom.

The bride made a lovely picture as she cut the three-tiered wedding cake, lavishly decorated with silver wedding bells. Presiding at the punch bowl in a lovely teal blue dress was Miss Margaret Moore, of Sterlington, assisted by Miss Margaret Montgomery and Mrs. J. A. Halbert.

The many wedding gifts, attesting to the popularity of the couple, were on display during the reception.

Before leaving for New Orleans, the bride changed to a stunning ashes of roses going-away suit with blue accessories. The bride and groom were accompanied to the train by their families.

Mr. and Mrs. Montgomery will live in New Orleans in the future, where the groom is connected with the Louisiana Power and Light company. Mrs. Montgomery is a graduate of Ouachita Parish High school and attended Northeast Center of L. S. U., where she majored in voice. She then attended the Baptist Bible institute in New Orleans. Mr. Montgomery is a graduate of Louisiana Polytechnic institute at Ruston.

Out-of-town guests for the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. William Montgomery, Miss Margaret Montgomery and Billy Montgomery, all of Saline; Mr. Osburn Montgomery and Mr. James Montgomery, of Louisiana Tech, at Ruston; Mr. and Mrs. James Halbert and son, and Mrs. Turpin Davidson and John Davidson, of Mer Rouge.

Club Institute Conducted At Epps

Mrs. J. Norman Coon, state chairman of club institutes, assisted by Mrs. A. D. Tisdale, Fifth district president, conducted an interesting club institute in Epps Thursday with the Epps Study club as host and the Women's Department club of Oak Grove and the Cosmopolitan club, also of Oak Grove, participating.

The meeting was opened with the assembly singing "America," followed with the club collect, which was read in unison. Mrs. W. L. Gill presided over the meeting and introduced the speakers, and then turned the meeting over to Mrs. Coon, who conducted a quiz on "What Do You Know About Your District, State and General Federation?"

The first question was, "What is the general theme for Mrs. Sadie Orr Dunbar's term of office?" Answer, "Adjusting democracy for human welfare." Second queston, "When was the state federation organized and what are the state colors?" Answer, "Organized in 1899 and the colors, blue and white." Another question was, "What is the keyword of club institutes?" This question was ably answered by Mrs. McC. Dellerhide of Oak Grove, who said, "The keyword is 'discussion' and a club institute is also a training school and a power house for two million club women."

In closing Mrs. Coon urged all the clubs to hold club institutes in the individual clubs on the departments of federation.

Mrs. J. R. White, chairman of press and publicity, was also present at this meeting and presented questions on that department, which is being stressed this year throughout the state.

Mrs. Tisdale gave a report of the state board meeting recently held in Alexandria.

Bono Nostorum Club Meets

Members of the Bono Nostorum club enjoyed their regular meeting in the home of Mrs. F. C. Sheppard of Mangham, with Mrs. B. M. Hixon, cohostess.

A delicious luncheon course was served by Mrs. Sheppard and Mrs. Hixon to their guests upon arrival. Following the luncheon, Mrs. Hixon's two accomplished sons, Benny McCain and Clarence, favored the club members with clarinette solo with piano accompaniment. During the business period an interesting institute was presided over by Mrs. W. C. Baker. The subject for discussion was a study course in "Taxation." Mrs. J. W. DeMoss, chairman of the citizens library movement, brought this subject to the attention of the club and secured memberships. She reminded the club members of the bill now before congress for federal aid to education and libraries. She offered a resolution endorsing this bill which was favorable to the club. Copies of the resolution will be sent to proper authorities in Washington and to the Louisiana library commission in Baton Rouge.

Mrs. M. K. McConnell, president-elect, read the names of those chosen to serve on standing committees during her term. Miss Virgie Evans gave interesting information on "Nature's Gifts to Canada," and Mrs. M. K. McConnell gave a paper on "Races of Old Canada."

Members present at this meeting were Mesdames M. K. McConnell, M. D. McConnell, Ed Baker, W. C. Baker, B. N. Hixon, S. M. Hixon, E. C. Harper, Lida Taylor, Mabel Nash, E. T. Lee, Kathleen Baskin, J. W. DeMoss, Misses Kate Talbert, Virgie Evans, Ethel Watson and the hostess.

Mrs. Rasbury's Pupils In Recital

Mrs. Ruth Grandstaff Rasbury presented her voice pupils in the first of a series of candlelight studio recitals.

Wearing a dinner gown of black chiffon, Mrs. Rasbury extended courtesies to the parents and friends of the pupils who were seated in the flower-adorned studio. Mrs. Rasbury was assisted by Mrs. Willis Hopkins, piano accompanist.

Mrs. Rasbury is presenting her pupils in these recitals in order to accustom them to audiences and to aid in giving a sense of assurance.

The first recital was a noteworthy one, featuring a program of wide range and charmingly diversified. Several pupils are extremely young yet possess assurance and poise, equal to that of more experienced performers.

The program follows:

Mighty Lak' A Rose—Mona Fae Hibbard.

Creole Love Song—Louise Tisdale.

Sweetest Story Ever Told—Dee Dee Nelson.

Alone—Leonard Lemle.

Shortnin' Bread—in costume, by Patricia Grandstaff.

I Hear You Calling Me—Sue McBride.

Pilgrim's Song—Don Stewart.

I Heard A Thrush At Eventide—Marietta Rasbury.

Hold Thou My Hand—G. W. Williams.

Ye Gods of Night—Mrs. H. M. James.

The recital took on a social aspect following the program and the hostess mingled with her guests.

Miss Marino Weds Woodsen F. Peacock

Claiming the interest of friends is the announcement of the marriage of Miss Josephine Mary Marino, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Felix Marino of West Monroe, and Mr. Woodsen Fletcher Peacock of Columbia, on February 21, at the St. Matthew's rectory with Father Murray officiating, in the presence of a few intimate friends and members of the family.

The bride's attendant was Miss Virginia Cascio and the bridegroom was attended by Mr. Leon Cascio.

Mr. and Mrs. Peacock are now at home to their friends in West Monroe.

Auxiliary Official Visits In Monroe

Mrs. Mildred Duggan, hospital chairman for the department of Louisiana, ladies auxiliary to Veterans of Foreign Wars, of Alexandria, was a visitor in the city Wednesday and a guest of the Hobbs auxiliary. Members who attended the business conference and luncheon were Mrs. DeVeria Blackwell, president; Mrs. Lena M. Morrow, Mrs. Sally B. Elliott, Mrs. Emma Keene, Mrs. Goldia B. Logan, Mrs. Martha W. Logan and Mrs. Aline B. Hunt.

Mrs. Duggan is doing a splendid work at the veterans hospital at Alexandria and the Hobbs auxiliary members are proud that they have been privileged to send donations that have helped to make this work possible.

The weekly benefit parties have served to increase the fund and while the members enjoy the informality of these affairs they have the satisfaction of knowing they are donating to a most worthy cause.

Mrs. Mae B. Hutchins will be hostess at the party to be given at her home on Lee avenue Monday night. The date has been changed from Tuesday night so that it might not conflict with the V. F. W. dance Tuesday night. Members are urged to note this change and to be present.

Ruston

Alpha Lambda Tau, national social fraternity at Louisiana Tech, gave its annual spring dance Saturday, March 4.

First of the spring season dances for the fraternities, the affair was dedicated to Mrs. John Paul Jones, who is celebrating her 10th anniversary as fraternity sponsor and "mother" to the boys. Mrs. Jones is also state president of the American Legion auxiliary.

The dance was open to all actives and pledges of Tech's four social fraternities. "Stray Greeks" were charged admission, in accordance with a new interfraternity ruling.

Omega Kappa fraternity announces that the following pledges have become active in the fraternity: Harrison Nugent, Homer; E. H. Rainwater, Jr., Ruston; Johnny Miller, Ruston; Lloyd Cook, Ruston; Howard Baugh, Ruston; M. V. McKenzie, Jr., Plain Dealing; Robert E. Hanna, Monroe; and Ora Merriot, Lebanon, Ind.

Louisiana Tech was the scene of a Youth Crusade college mission this week.

Dr. Paul A. Root of the faculty of Southern Methodist university, Dallas, Tex., was guest speaker.

The program for the mission included an address by Dr. Root at the regular chapel hour and an address at a joint Y. W. C. A.-Y. M. C. A. meeting in the Wigwam.

Kappa Delta sorority at Louisiana Tech announces the election of officers for the following year, they are: Lavinia Fogle, president; Emmogene Maroney, vice-president; Geraldine Kirkland, secretary; Daisy Claire Woodard, treasurer; June Mitchell, assistant treasurer and Ellen Gulley, editor.

The newly-elected officers will assume their duties next week.

Second degree was conferred upon the following Kappa Delta pledges this week: Helen Alford, Mary Blume, Frances Mincey, Marie Tousley and Dorothy Wade.

These pledges will be initiated as active members within two weeks.

Miss Phillips Weds William Montgomery

Sterlington Girl Becomes Bride Of New Orleans Resident; Informal Reception Held

A wedding of much interest to friends throughout northeast Louisiana was that of Miss Virginia Phillips, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Phillips, of Sterlington, and Mr. William C. Montgomery of New Orleans, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Montgomery, of Saline. The ceremony was solemnized in the Sterlington Baptist church, with the Rev. Earl Guinn officiating.

Southern smilax, interwoven with narcissus, made a lovely background for the improvised altar, formed by placing floor baskets of snapdragons, gladioli and fern, with tall white tapers burning in floor candelabra on each side of the aisle, where the nuptial vows were exchanged.

Preceding the ceremony Mrs. O. K. Bailey sang "I Love You Truly," and "At Dawning." Mrs. L. H. Burns, who accompanied her at the piano, wore a dubonnet model with white camelia corsage. Mrs. Bailey's gown was of baby blue with orchid camerias.

The bride chose as her attendants Miss Margaret Montgomery, sister of the groom, and Mrs. James Halbert, sister of the bride. The groom was attended by his brother, Mr. Osburn Montgomery of Ruston, as best man and Mr. William Jordan of Mer Rouge, as groomsman.

Little Angel Phillips, dressed in rose taffeta with blue velvet trimmings, was flower girl and little Miss Margurite Bailey was lovely in a dress duplicate of the flower girl, as she lighted the candles before the ceremony. The matron of honor, Mrs. James A. Halbert, wore a charming spring model of black triple sheer with fuchsia accessories and fuchsia camelia corsage. The maid of honor, Miss Margaret Montgomery, wore a lovely two-tone crepe model with beige accessories and a white camelia corsage.

To the traditional strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March, the bride walked down the aisle on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage. She wore an advanced spring model of boy blue with fuchsia accessories and a corsage of orchids and valley lilies particularly suited to her brunette beauty.

Following the ceremony an informal reception was held in the home of the bride's parents, which was decorated with baskets of jonquils, narcissus and snapdragons. The lace covered table formed a lovely background for the punchbowl placed between tall white candles. In the receiving line were the bride's mother, dressed becomingly in a lovely blue dress with a corsage of hyacinths; the groom's mother, in an attractive spring model with a corsage of japonicas, and the bride and groom.

The bride made a lovely picture as she cut the three-tiered wedding cake, lavishly decorated with silver wedding bells. Presiding at the punch bowl in a lovely teal blue dress was Miss Margaret Moore, of Sterlington, assisted by Miss Margaret Montgomery and Mrs. J. A. Halbert.

The many wedding gifts, attesting to the popularity of the couple, were on display during the reception.

Before leaving for New Orleans, the bride changed to a stunning ashes of roses going-away suit with blue accessories. The bride and groom were accompanied to the train by their families.

Mr. and Mrs. Montgomery will live in New Orleans in the future, where the groom is connected with the Louisiana Power and Light company. Mrs. Montgomery is a graduate of Ouachita Parish High school and attended Northeast Center of L. S. U., where she majored in voice. She then attended the Baptist Bible institute in New Orleans. Mr. Montgomery is a graduate of Louisiana Polytechnic institute at Ruston.

Out-of-town guests for the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. William Montgomery, Miss Margaret Montgomery and Billy Montgomery, all of Saline; Mr. Osburn Montgomery and Mr. James Montgomery, of Louisiana Tech, at Ruston; Mr. and Mrs. James Halbert and son, and Mrs. Turpin Davidson and John Davidson, of Mer Rouge.

Club Institute Conducted At Epps

Mrs. J. Norman Coon, state chairman of club institutes, assisted by Mrs. A. D. Tisdale, Fifth district president, conducted an interesting club institute in Epps Thursday with the Epps Study club as host and the Women's Department club of Oak Grove and the Cosmopolitan club, also of Oak Grove, participating.

The meeting was opened with the assembly singing "America," followed with the club collect, which was read in unison. Mrs. W. L. Gill presided over the meeting and introduced the speakers, and then turned the meeting over to Mrs. Coon, who conducted a quiz on "What Do You Know About Your District, State and General Federation?"

The first question was, "What is the general theme for Mrs. Sadie Orr Dunbar's term of office?" Answer, "Adjusting democracy for human welfare." Second queston, "When was the state federation organized and what are the state colors?" Answer, "Organized in 1899 and the colors, blue and white." Another question was, "What is the keyword of club institutes?" This question was ably answered by Mrs. McG. Dollarhide of Oak Grove, who said, "The keyword is 'discussion' and a club institute is also a training school and a power house for two million club women."

In closing Mrs. Coon urged all the clubs to hold club institutes in the individual clubs on the departments of federation.

Mrs. J. R. White, chairman of press and publicity, was also present at this meeting and presented questions on that department, which is being stressed this year throughout the state.

Mrs. Tisdale gave a report of the state board meeting recently held in Alexandria.

Bono Nostorum Club Meets

Members of the Bono Nostorum club enjoyed their regular meeting in the home of Mrs. F. C. Sheppard of Mangham, with Mrs. B. M. Hixon, cohostess.

A delicious luncheon course was served by Mrs. Sheppard and Mrs. Hixon to their guests upon arrival. Following the luncheon, Mrs. Hixon's two accomplished sons, Benny McCain and Clarence, favored the club members with clarinette solo with piano accompaniment. During the business period an interesting institute was presided over by Mrs. W. C. Baker. The subject for discussion was a study course in "Taxation." Mrs. J. W. DeMoss, chairman of the citizens library movement, brought this subject to the attention of the club and secured memberships. She reminded the club members of the bill now before congress for federal aid to education and libraries. She offered a resolution endorsing this bill which was favorable to the club. Copies of the resolution will be sent to proper authorities in Washington and to the Louisiana library commission in Baton Rouge.

Mrs. M. K. McConnell, president-elect, read the names of those chosen to serve on standing committees during her term. Miss Virgie Evans gave interesting information on "Nature's Gifts to Canada," and Mrs. M. K. McConnell gave a paper on "Races of Old Canada."

Members present at this meeting were Mesdames M. K. McConnell, M. D. McConnell, Ed Baker, W. C. Baker, B. N. Hixon, S. M. Hixon, E. C. Harper, Lida Taylor, Mabel Nash, E. T. Lee, Kathleen Baskin, J. W. DeMoss, Misses Kate Talbert, Virgie Evans, Ethel Watson and the hostess.

Mrs. Rasbury's Pupils In Recital

Mrs. Ruth Grandstaff Rasbury presented her voice pupils in the first of a series of candlelight studio recitals.

Wearing a dinner gown of black chiffon, Mrs. Rasbury extended courtesies to the parents and friends of the pupils who were seated in the flower-adorned studio. Mrs. Rasbury was assisted by Mrs. Willis Hopkins, piano accompanist.

Mrs. Rasbury is presenting her pupils in these recitals in order to accustom them to audiences and to aid in giving a sense of assurance.

The first recital was a noteworthy one, featuring a program of wide range and charmingly diversified. Several pupils are extremely young yet possess assurance and poise, equal to that of more experienced performers.

The program follows:

Mighty Lak' A Rose—Mona Fae Hibbard.

Creole Love Song—Louise Tisdale.

Sweetest Story Ever Told—Dee Dee Nelson.

Alone—Leonard Lemle.

Shortnin' Bread—in costume, by Patricia Grandstaff.

I Hear You Calling Me—Sue McBride.

Pilgrim's Song—Don Stewart.

I Heard A Thrush At Eventide—Marietta Rasbury.

Hold Thou My Hand—G. W. Williams.

Ye Gods of Night—Mrs. H. M. James.

The recital took on a social aspect following the program and the hostess mingled with her guests.

Auxiliary Official Visits In Monroe

Mrs. Mildred Duggan, hospital chairman for the department of Louisiana, ladies auxiliary to Veterans of Foreign Wars, of Alexandria, was a visitor in the city Wednesday and a guest of the Hobbs auxiliary. Members who attended the business conference and luncheon were Mrs. DeVeria Blackwell, president; Mrs. Lena M. Morrow, Mrs. Sally B. Elliott, Mrs. Emma Keene, Mrs. Goldia B. Logan, Mrs. Martha W. Logan and Mrs. Aline B. Hunt.

Mrs. Duggan is doing a splendid work at the veterans hospital at Alexandria and the Hobbs auxiliary members are proud that they have been privileged to send donations that have helped to make this work possible.

The weekly benefit parties have served to increase the fund and while the members enjoy the informality of these affairs they have the satisfaction of knowing they are donating to a most worthy cause.

Mrs. Mae B. Hutchins will be hostess at the party to be given at her home on Lee avenue Monday night. The date has been changed from Tuesday night so that it might not conflict with the V. F. W. dance Tuesday night. Members are urged to note this change and to be present.

Ruston

Alpha Lambda Tau, national social fraternity at Louisiana Tech, gave its annual spring dance Saturday, March 4.

First of the spring season dances for the fraternities, the affair was dedicated to Mrs. John Paul Jones, who is celebrating her 10th anniversary as fraternity sponsor and "mother" to the boys. Mrs. Jones is also state president of the American Legion auxiliary.

The dance was open to all actives and pledges of Tech's four social fraternities. "Stray Greeks" were charged admission, in accordance with a new interfraternity ruling.

Omega Kappa fraternity announces that the following pledges have become active in the fraternity: Harrison Nugent, Homer; B. H. Rainwater, Jr., Ruston; Johnny Miller, Ruston; Lloyd Cook, Ruston; Howard Baugh, Ruston; M. V. McKenzie, Jr., Plain Dealing; Robert E. Hanna, Monroe; and Ora Merriot, Lebanon, Ind.

Louisiana Tech was the scene of a Youth Crusade college mission this week.

Dr. Paul A. Root of the faculty of Southern Methodist university, Dallas, Tex., was guest speaker.

The program for the mission included an address by Dr. Root at the regular chapel hour and an address at a joint Y. W. C. A.-Y. M. C. A. meeting in the Wigwam.

Kappa Delta sorority at Louisiana Tech announces the election of officers for the following year, they are: Lavinia Fogle, president; Emmogene Maroney, vice-president; Geraldine Kirkland, secretary; Daisy Claire Woodard, treasurer; June Mitchell, assistant treasurer and Ellen Gulley, editor.

The newly-elected officers will assume their duties next week.

Second degree was conferred upon the following Kappa Delta pledges this week: Helen Alford, Mary Blume, Frances Mincey, Marie Tousley and Dorothy Wade.

These pledges will be initiated as active members within two weeks.

'Trade Winds' Opens Engagement At Paramount Today

...an Bennett Is Chased By ...redric March

...anding Cast Featured In Thrilling New Around-The-World Film

No dramatic picture ever to reach the screen has equalled in the variety of its far-flung scenic backgrounds Walter Wanger's "Trade Winds," which comes to the Paramount theater today through United Artists release, with Fredric March and Joan Bennett in the starring roles.

This thrilling and yet lighthearted screenplay tells the story of a detective chase that leads half way around the world, and authentic scenes are shown in the seven different countries in which portions of the action take place. These were filmed by Director Tay Garnett, who made a 40,000-mile trip aboard his yacht "Athene" for the purpose of insuring a truly correct background for the story.

Beginning in San Francisco, when Miss Bennett flees after having apparently killed a man, the action shifts to Honolulu, Hawaii, where she pauses long enough to buy a fake passport and have her hair dyed black. With Detectives March and Ralph Belamy always in close pursuit, Miss Bennett next escapes to Kobe, Japan, and shortly afterward proceeds to Shanghai, China, later to go from there to Saigon, Indo-China. Here Ann Sothern, March's secretary in his San Francisco office, re-enters the story and adds to the complications.

As the flight of the fugitive is resumed, the story moves to Singapore, Malaya, and from there to Colombo, Ceylon. With the excitement continually increasing, the next jump is to Bombay, India, where March spirits his quarry away from another detective working under orders from the San Francisco police. After an action-filled sequence in the Laccadive Islands, off the coast of India, the story shifts back to San Francisco, where a startling climax brings the picture to a close. In each of the places visited, there are many scenes in well known, interesting and picturesquely colorful localities.

'Angels With Dirty Faces' At Capitol

Film Hit Starring Pat O'Brien And James Cagney Returns Here

A PICTURE destined to stir and whip cinema-goers with its powerful reality as have few films before is "Angels With Dirty Faces," the Warner Bros. melodrama starring James Cagney and Pat O'Brien, which opens at the Capitol theater today.

No ordinary filmfare, according to those who have seen previews of the picture, is this gripping story of two boys from the slums, who, through a strange quirk of fate, grow up at opposite ends of the social order to a conclusion as thrilling and human as ever produced for the screen.

The great cast assembled to play the roles in the film show at once the care which went into the production. Besides Cagney and O'Brien, the six "Dead End" kids play dirty-faced angels of the slums as only they can. Humphrey Bogart and George Bancroft, take roles as crooked lawyer and politician, respectively, while Ann Sheridan provides the love interest with more than ordinary appeal.

Scene after scene of "Angels With Dirty Faces" are of the ilk that stamp themselves unforgettably on the mind —and will provide table talk for Monroe for weeks to come. The climatic scene which shows Cagney walking "the last mile" is probably one of the greatest of all time in motion picture history. The ending itself, which, for obvious reasons, should remain undisclosed, takes its place with such powerhouses as those of "Public Enemy," "I Am a Fugitive," and "They Won't Forget."

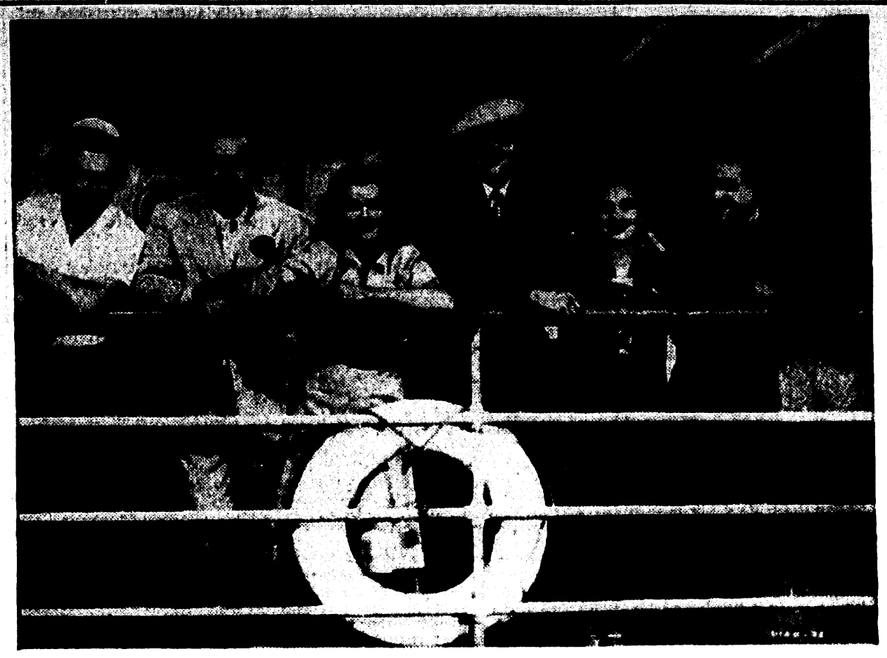

James Cagney's role is made-to-order for him. A breezy, tough, cocky ruffian who grows up to be a big-shot gangster is Cagney's forte, and that the role will bring him again to the top spot in male cinema ranks goes without saying.

Pat O'Brien as the soft-spoken yet two-fisted priest, gives an amazing performance, restrained yet powerful enough to balance the strong characterization by Cagney.

There are 64 streets, squares, etc., in London named "Albert," in honor of Queen Victoria's husband.

Ann Sheridan and James Cagney get the blessing of "Father" Pat O'Brien in a scene from the powerful drama "Angels With Dirty Faces," playing today and Monday at the Capitol theater. The "Dead End" Kids are also featured.

Kay Francis and Ian Hunter star in "Comet Over Broadway," Warner Bros. drama based on the Faith Baldwin story, which plays Wednesday at the Paramount theater. John Litel and Donald Crisp are in support.

Hope Hampton, Randolph Scott and Glenda Farrell, who are appearing in the romantic comedy, "The Road to Reno," play Tuesday at the Capitol theater.

Gala festivities mark the start of the St. Louis Midland's first train from St. Louis to Sedalia. Jesse and Frank James stage a little celebration of their own by holding up the train in one of the most sensational robberies in the history of banditry.

To the world, Jesse James was an outlaw, a killer, a wolf. But to the simple folk who knew him, he was the victim of injustice. "Jesse James," starring Tyrone Power in the leading role, with Nancy Kelly, Henry Fonda and Randolph Scott, opens Thursday at the Paramount theater for a three-day engagement.

"The Great Waltz," with Luise Rainer, Fernand Gravet, Miliza Korjus, Hugh Herbert and Lionel Atwill, returns to the Capitol theater for two days starting Wednesday.

HISTORIC PARKWAY GROUP WILL MEET

NATCHITOCHES, La., March 4.—(Special)—The third meeting of the Natchez-Natchitoches-San Antonio Trace Parkway association will be held in the Natchitoches parish courthouse on March 16, officials of the organization announced here today.

According to the constitution and by-laws adopted at the second meeting of the association in San Augustin, Tex., this week, the purpose of the movement is to support house bill No. 916 now pending in congress calling for an appropriation of $100,000 for the survey of the historic route from Natchez, Miss., to Mexico City.

Representatives from cities in Louisiana and Texas through which the trace will pass are expected at the meeting here this month, when details of organizing committees in the several cities will be completed. Cities invited to send representatives to the meeting include Ferriday, Jonesville, Jena, Winnfield, Colfax, Natchitoches, Pendleton, Tex., Melrose, Tex., Crockett, Tex., Beaumont, Tex., Nacogdoches, Tex., and San Augustine, Tex., and San Antonio, Tex.

Judge R. N. Stribling of San Augustin, Tex., is president of the association, with Mrs. W. M. Knott of Many and Max Mallory of Natchitoches, first vice-presidents; Miss Carmen Breazeale of Natchitoches, chairman of publicity; and Joe Mock of Nacogdoches, Tex., secretary-treasurer.

PLANS FOR EDUCATION MEETING MADE AT TECH

RUSTON, La., March 4.—(Special)—Invitations to attend the fifth annual education conference at Louisiana Tech, which will begin at 9:30 a.m. Saturday, March 11, have just been mailed by Dr. Gustaf Freden, dean of the school of education.

The keynote of the conference will be "Religion Looks at Education." A panel discussion, led by H. L. Campbell, Ruston, superintendent of Lincoln parish schools, will be participated in by Dr. F. K. Hirsch, Shreveport; the Rev. Harold A. Gaudin, New Orleans, president of Loyola university, and the Rev. Guy M. Hicks, Ruston, pastor of the Trinity Methodist church.

A luncheon will be served at noon in the dining hall at Tech to educators and clergymen of Louisiana, who will be the guests of the college Saturday.

British farmers are freezing their meat and selling it as foreign in order to get better prices, it was reported to the Lincolnshire chamber of agriculture.

In India, faithful Mohammedans pay $5 a bottle for bath water from the daily bath of their spiritual head, Aga Khan, believing it to have healing powers.

United States production of oleomargarine in 1938 was estimated to be in excess of 400,000,000 pounds, the largest ever reported.

'Trade Winds' Opens Engagement At Paramount Today

Joan Bennett Is Chased By Fredric March

Outstanding Cast Featured In Thrilling New Around-The-World Film

NO dramatic picture ever to reach the screen has equalled in the variety of its far-flung scenic backgrounds Walter Wanger's "Trade Winds," which comes to the Paramount theater today through United Artists release, with Fredric March and Joan Bennett in the starring roles.

This thrilling and yet lighthearted screenplay tells the story of a detective chase that leads half way around the world, and authentic scenes are shown in the seven different countries in which portions of the action take place. These were filmed by Director Tay Garnett, who made a 40,000-mile trip aboard his yacht "Athene" for the purpose of insuring a truly correct background for the story.

Beginning in San Francisco, when Miss Bennett flees after having apparently killed a man, the action shifts to Honolulu, Hawaii, where she pauses long enough to buy a fake passport and have her hair dyed black. With Detectives March and Ralph Belamy always in close pursuit, Miss Bennett next escapes to Kobe, Japan, and shortly afterward proceeds to Shanghai, China, later to go from there to Saigon, Indo-China. Here Ann Sothern, March's secretary in his San Francisco office, re-enters the story and adds to the complications.

As the flight of the fugitive is resumed, the story moves to Singapore, Malaya, and from there to Colombo, Ceylon. With the excitement continually increasing, the next jump is to Bombay, India, where March spirits his quarry away from another detective working under orders from the San Francisco police. After an action-filled sequence in the Laccadive Islands, off the coast of India, the story shifts back to San Francisco, where a startling climax brings the picture to a close. In each of the places visited, there are many scenes in well known, interesting and picturesquely colorful localities.

Ann Sheridan and James Cagney get the blessing of "Father" Pat O'Brien in a scene from the powerful drama "Angels With Dirty Faces," playing today and Monday at the Capitol theater. The "Dead End" Kids are also featured.

Kay Francis and Ian Hunter star in "Comet Over Broadway," Warner Bros. drama based on the Faith Baldwin story, which plays Wednesday at the Paramount theater. John Litel and Donald Crisp are in support.

Hope Hampton, Randolph Scott and Glenda Farrell, who are appearing in the romantic comedy, "The Road to Reno," play Tuesday at the Capitol theater.

Gala festivities mark the start of the St. Louis Midland's first train from St. Louis to Sedalia. Jesse and Frank James stage a little celebration of their own by holding up the train in one of the most sensational robberies in the history of banditry.

To the world, Jesse James was an outlaw, a killer, a wolf. But to the simple folk who knew him, he was the victim of injustice. "Jesse James," starring Tyrone Power in the leading role, with Nancy Kelly, Henry Fonda and Randolph Scott, opens Thursday at the Paramount theater for a three-day engagement.

"The Great Waltz," with Luise Rainer, Fernand Gravet, Miliza Korjus, Hugh Herbert and Lionel Atwill, returns to the Capitol theater for two days starting Wednesday.

British farmers are freezing their meat and selling it as foreign in order to get better prices, it was reported to the Lincolnshire chamber of agriculture.

In India, faithful Mohammedans pay $5 a bottle for bath water from the daily bath of their spiritual head, Aga Khan, believing it to have healing powers.

'Angels With Dirty Faces' At Capitol

Film Hit Starring Pat O'Brien And James Cagney Returns Here

A PICTURE destined to stir and whip cinema-goers with its powerful reality as have few films before is "Angels With Dirty Faces," the Warner Bros. melodrama starring James Cagney and Pat O'Brien, which opens at the Capitol theater today.

No ordinary filmfare, according to those who have seen previews of the picture, is this gripping story of two boys from the slums, who, through a strange quirk of fate, grow up at opposite ends of the social order to a conclusion as thrilling and human as ever produced for the screen.

The great cast assembled to play the roles in the film show at once the care which went into the production. Besides Cagney and O'Brien, the six "Dead End" kids play dirty-faced angels of the slums as only they can. Humphrey Bogart and George Bancroft, take roles as crooked lawyer and politician, respectively, while Ann Sheridan provides the love interest with more than ordinary appeal.

Scene after scene of "Angels With Dirty Faces" are of the ilk that stamp themselves unforgettably on the mind—and will provide table talk for Monroe for weeks to come. The climatic scene which shows Cagney walking "the last mile" is probably one of the greatest of all time in motion picture history. The ending itself, which, for obvious reasons, should remain undisclosed, takes its place with such powerhouses as those of "Public Enemy," "I Am a Fugitive," and "They Won't Forget."

James Cagney's role is made-to-order for him. A breezy, tough, cocky ruffian who grows up to be a big-shot gangster is Cagney's forte, and that the role will bring him again to the top spot in male cinema ranks goes without saying.

Pat O'Brien as the soft-spoken yet two-fisted priest, gives an amazing performance, restrained yet powerful enough to balance the strong characterization by Cagney.

There are 64 streets, squares, etc., in London named "Albert," in honor of Queen Victoria's husband.

ASSEMBLY OF GOD
West Monroe
E. L. Tanner, Pastor

The pastor will occupy the pulpit at both services today 11 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. Sunday school will meet in all departments at 9:45 a.m. D. O. McDaniel is superintendent and extends a cordial welcome to every one to meet with us who are not attending Sunday school at some other church. The church needs you and you need the church. Why not join with us in all these services today and help carry on the great work of God. Christ Ambassador class meets at 6:15 p.m. Services each Tuesday and Thursday nights.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH
St. John And Grammont Streets
L. T. Hastings, Pastor
D. C. Black, Pastor's Associate

The pastor will occupy his pulpit both hours Sunday and the messages will broadcast over KMLB. The morning message will be one of wide interest, since there are so many who are troubled over the question, "The Holy Spirit in the Believer's Life." The subject will be treated from four standpoints: Receiving the Holy Spirit, The Baptism of the Holy Spirit, The Filling with the Holy Spirit, and Walking in the Spirit.

At the evening hour the subject will be "What Will You Do at the End?" The Baptist Training union and the Baptist Brotherhood me at 6:15, and the ordinance of baptism will be administered at the close of the evening service.

Monday night at 7:30, in the auditorium, the second session of Youth Forum wil be held for all young people from the age of 14 to 25. The subject will be "Courtship: Is It a Sacrament or a Sacrilege?" Admission by ticket only, but the tickets are free. If you do not get one before coming to church, some one will be outside the door to give every one a ticket. Come and bring your friends.

CENTRAL BAPTIST CHURCH
3100 Lee Avenue
D. D. Cantrell, Pastor
Dale Cobb, Associate

Last Sunday was our record breaker in Sunday school attendance. We not only had a great number in attendance but the finest spirit of cooperation and fellowship, especially was this true in the men's Bible class. We especially urge you to attend today at 9:45 a.m. If you live in this district, the blessing will be mutual. The Baptist Training union is going forward we have a place for all ages ranging from the beginners including adults. You are missing a treat if you do not be on time for the opening 6:30 p.m.

The pastor's subject for the morning hour is "The New Challenge for the New Day." The evening message, "God Planned for His People Something Better." Since God has given to the people of this world the choicest of His blessings, He also desires to have us to select not the worst out of the world, but the better.

YOU AND TODAY

"With every rising of the sun,
Think of your life as just begun.
The past has shriveled, and buried deep
All yesterdays, there let them sleep.

"Nor seek to summon back one ghost
Of that innumerable host
Concern yourself with but today—
Woo it, and teach it to obey.

"You and today! A world sublime,
And the great pregnant hour of time.
With God Himself to hurl the twain,
Go forth, I say, attain, attain!"
—Selected.

Today is our day, today is the only day we shall ever have; let us heed the admonition which is given in Ephesians 5:16 also Hebrews 10:23-25. If so we will have a greater reason for rejoicing upon this Lord's day. Will you answer this summons now?

NEED MONEY? Come Get It on Your Car

If you would like to borrow some money on your car with as long as 18 months to pay it back and nothing due until April 15, just drive to 500 Walnut Street and let us see the car. YOU GET THE MONEY WHILE YOU ARE HERE.

You can live anywhere. Your own signature is enough. You keep the car. If it is not paid for, but is worth more than you owe, we will loan you more money, or reduce your payments, or both, and settle with whoever you owe. We've been helping car owners for 17 years.

J. P. Lowrey, Pastor

Bible study, 9:45 a.m.

Preaching 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. Morning theme: "Apostasy." Evening subject: "Work of Holy Spirit." Ladies' Bible class, Tuesday, 3 p.m. Prayer and song service, Wednesday, 7:30 p.m. Come and let us reason together.

GRACE CHURCH
Fourth And Glenmar Streets
Edward Farren Hayward, Rector

Services for the second Sunday in Lent are as follows: The Holy Eucharist at 7:30 a.m. Church school at 9:30 a.m. Choral celebration of the Eucharist and sermon at 10:45 a.m. Evensong and address on prayer book at 7:30 p.m. The rector will be in Rayville and hold service in St. David's at 4 p.m. Whoever you are, or whatever your experience may be, the Episcopal church is interested in you. All over the world it is striving to represent Jesus Christ and to carry His message and His life to all people.

We invite you to join with us during this Lent in following and participating in our services. If you are not a member of the church, you may call upon her for help in any need. If you are an irregular communicant use this Lent to rededicate yourself to our Lord and His service. Don't go on losing opportunities. Share in the redemption of the world. It is a great adventure, and Christ wants you.

The church is open daily from 7:30 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. Come in, rest, pray, give thanks, meditate.

FIRST METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SOUTH
'The Church With The Lighted Steeple'
Jackson At Wood Street

This being the first Sunday of the month the sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be administered. The pastor has chosen for the theme of the communion meditation "Sharing the Wealth."

All the adult classes of the Sunday school will meet in the auditorium at 10 o'clock to hear an address by the pastor on the program of evangelism.

Each Sunday from 6 until 7:30 p.m. a program, consisting of a social hour followed by a worship period, is held for the young people. These programs, held in the homes, are proving very successful. All the young people of the church are cordially invited.

The students of Centenary college of Shreveport will present "Kollege Kapers" at their sixth annual appearance, on March 15 at 8 o'clock at the Ouachita Parish High school auditorium. This student variety show is sponsored by the night circles of the Woman's Missionary society. Tickets are now on sale.

The Woman's Missionary society will meet Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock for the monthly business meeting.

The local board of Christian Education will meet in the church office Wednesday night at 7:30.

The third of a series of classes in evangelism will be held at the church Thursday at 7:30.

FIRST METHODIST CHURCH
West Monroe

There is today a widespread idea of the value of the church to our present civilization. There are millions who say the church has outlived its usefulness in its contribution to the civilizations of the earth, and yet today there are millions turning toward its doors and in times of great sorrow men almost universally think first of the ministers and of the church. We owe the church our support in attendance and in the times when we are not making demands upon it. Do we have any right to ask the church to come to us in our times of sorrow, when we have treated the church with absolute indifference when we did not need it? If you enjoy gospel preaching and soul-stirring sermons, attend our church and become a part of a great congregation at every service. Sunday school at 9:45 a.m., R. M. McClendon, superintendent, who will be waiting for you to attend and will find a class for every member of the family. Music under the direction of G. C. Williams, assisted by Miss Madia McClendon and a fine choir. You will always find a welcome at our church.

"The Growing Church in a Growing Community."

GORDON AVENUE METHODIST
J. M. Alford, Pastor

The communion of the Lord's supper will be observed at 11 a.m. today. The pastor will be in charge of the service and will use as the subject, "The Bread of Life." We urge all our members and invite all others who will do so to come and honor our Lord and Saviour who suffered and died for us. This is a precious privilege and a wonderful means of grace. It means repentance and forgiveness of sins, and the beginning anew the life of righteousness.

The Sunday school will open at 9:45 a.m. William Wood, a prominent layman of the First Methodist church, will lecture to both the women and the men's Bible classes of the adult department. The two leagues will meet at 6:45 p.m. The Women's Missionary society will assemble at the church Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, with Mrs. C. L. Taylor, president, in charge. The prayer meeting was led last Wednesday evening by Stark Lambert and a good congregation came out in a cold rain. Our presiding elder, the Rev. W. L. Doss, D. D., was present. The meeting next week will be conducted by R. L. Hales, president of the Wesley brotherhood.

The pastor's subject at the evening worship service will be a continuation of last Sunday's talk on "The Filling Station." Special songs in our new "Cokesbury Worship Hymnal" will be used at both services today.

We have a hundred new books, and all are invited to come and join with us in worship and singing hymns of praise. We have regular choir practice every Friday evening in the Sunday school annex. Mrs. Walter Perkins and Mrs. Henry Deal rendered a beautiful duet at last Sunday evening's service. Other special selections will feature the services today.

METHODIST PROTESTANT CHURCH
Stone Avenue And South Third St.
I. L. Yeager, Pastor

The story is told of a sailor on a war ship who crept behind one of the big guns every night and prayed. For a long time he was alone. At last another sailor joined him. Many nights they met together and prayed behind the big gun. One of their mates, out of a number who had seen and ridiculed them—went and told the commander, thinking he might stop the daily prayer meeting. But the commander ordered a place curtained off for his praying sailors, and said that no one must molest them. One by one their comrades came to them, to be admitted into the little prayer tent, until 32 converted men gathered there daily, to read God's Word and worship Him.

"Not by might, nor by power, but by My spirit, saith the Lord of hosts." Zech. 4:6.

Sunday school at 9:45 a.m. Morning worship at 11 o'clock. Christian Endeavor at 6:45 p.m. Evangelistic service 7:30 p.m. Circle meetings Tuesday afternoon at 2:30. Song service Tuesday evening at 7:30. Midweek prayer service 7:30 Thursday evening.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH
Grammont At Catalpa
Ernest Holloway, Pastor

The Rev. Frank Hill Caldwell D. D. will begin a series of services this Sabbath. He is president of Louisville Theological seminary and considered among the leaders of our ministry. He comes in the interest of spirituality and for the glory of Jesus Christ. Will you hear him? He will speak today at 11 o'clock and 7:30. During the week his messages will be given at 10 and 7:30. He has responded to the overture of the session. The people of our faith are urged to hear him. A hearty invitation is extended all the people of the community to worship with us.

Our Sabbath school attendance is good. It is far from the goal. If you will attend, you will not only further the cause of Bible study but you will encourage some one else to enroll.

The door of our church is open to any one who accepts the Christ and promises to cooperate with us to the promotion of H. kingdom.

A sincere greeting awaits you.

CHURCH OF THE NAZARENE
Thomas At Richmond Streets
G. M. And Ina Lee Akin, Pastors

You are invited to worship at the Church of the Nazarene this Lord's day. Worship begins at 9:45 a.m., with the Sunday school in session, S. P. Quigley, superintendent. The Lord's supper shall be observed at the 11 o'clock preaching service. The pastor will preach an evangelistic sermon at the evening meeting. The young people will meet at 6:30 p.m. Leaders, O. L. Hoskins, Mrs. Ruth Hoskins, Miss Marie Venable. Week-day services: Monthly board meeting Monday at 7:30 p.m. The W. F. M. S. meets Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock, Ina Lee Akin, president. Prayer meeting Wednesday at 7:30 p.m.

TRINITY LUTHERAN CHURCH
Harrison And Darbonne Streets
Sherrouse Addition
Vernon C. Grosse, Pastor

Sunday school meets at 9:30 a.m. Bible class at 10 a.m. Church service at 10:45 a.m. Sanctify the Lord's day by hearing the preaching of His word. We extend a cordial invitation to everyone to come and worship with us.

Beautiful Store Fronts Installed By Twin City Co.

The best method of modernizing an old building is to install a structural glass front, according to officials of Twin City Glass company, Inc., 312 South Grand street.

The most recent front of this kind installed by the firm is that on the Home Furniture company building at DeSiard and North Fifth street. The black structural glass front greatly enhances the appearance of this building.

But store fronts is but one of the phases of Twin City Glass company's activities. It resilvers old mirrors and makes new ones. It frames pictures. It installs auto glass and window glass. And it makes glass tops for desks and other pieces of furniture.

Twin City Glass company has one of the best equipped mirror rooms in the state, with an experienced mirror man, Curtis J. Smith, a member of the firm, in charge.

Twin City Glass company is in a position to supply structural glass store fronts in any colors or color combinations. Structural glass is also unsurpassed for brightening up bathrooms and kitchens.

Things Worth Knowing

INTERNATIONAL WITH PANEL-STAKE BODY

This is one of the numerous trucks made by International to fill every hauling need. Like all other International trucks, this panel-stake model is all truck, built to stand the exacting demands of modern highway transportation. This model, like all others, is powered with a motor truck motor, a motor especially built to provide the power that trucks require. International trucks are handled here by International Harvester company, 720 DeSiard street. The telephone number of the establishment is 228.

We-Too Stresses Fine Hamburgers

If you haven't tried a We-Too hamburger, you've missed something. It's more than a hamburger. It's a hamburger sandwich—all dressed up with lettuce, tomato and mayonnaise. The price is only 10 cents.

We-Too hamburgers are made by We-Too Sandwich Shop, 1602 DeSiard street, the home of the best barbecue in Monroe. Another specialty of this establishment is a minced barbecue sandwich, which, together with a portion of potato salad, is priced at 15 cents.

We-Too Sandwich Shop also serves every other kind of sandwich and sells its delicious barbecue by the pound at the following prices: porkribs, 45 cents; beef ribs, 45 cents; sliced beef or veal, 50 cents; sliced pork ham, 65 cents.

Two other specialties of the sandwich shop are potato salad and barbecued beans. The salad is 25 cents a pound and the beans 30 cents a pound. Individual orders of the beans, steaming hot in clay pots, are 15 cents.

We-Too Sandwich Shop, which has the coldest drinks in town, gives unexcelled curb service. There is plenty of space around the place for motorists to park. However, for those who do not care to eat in their cars, the establishment has tables and booths in addition to a counter.

Ring-Free Oil Proves Claim

Time, the national news magazine, for the protection of both its advertisers and readers, questions what it considers extravagant claims in advertisements submitted for publication. This policy is dramatically told in an advertisement of the MacMillan Petroleum corporation on pages 58 and 59 of the March 6 issue of Time.

Time questioned this phrase in a MacMillan ad: "plus the rare ability to remove carbon formed by fuels and other oils." The publication's censorship committee thought the claim went beyond fact. For Time's especial benefit, MacMillan Petroleum corporation gave a demonstration. It proved that the phrase was virtually an understatement.

A coupon in connection with the advertisement in the March 6 issue of Time makes the same demonstration available to you. It not only shows how MacMillan Ring-Free oil possesses to the "rare ability to remove carbon formed by fuels and other oils" in internal combustion motors, but how Ring-Free oil lowers maintenance costs by saving fuel, wear and repair in any make of Diesel, gasoline or natural gas engine.

This coupon, which entails no obligation, will receive prompt attention if mailed direct to Hale and McNeil, Postoffice Box 152, Monroe, La. Wholesale distributors of MacMillan Ring-Free motor oils and greases, Hale and McNeil operate at 213 Olive street. Their telephone number is 988.

You, Too, Can Own Your Own Home

Under the liberal terms and low rate of interest offered by the People's Homestead and Savings association, you, too, can have a home of your own. Let Jonas Selig and Morton Myatt explain to you how you can acquire one without straining yourself financially. They are in charge of sales of all properties of the association.

Remember, purchasing a home is like putting money in the bank. A home is an investment, an asset. Mr. Selig and Mr. Myatt, who maintain an office at the People's Homestead, corner of DeSiard and Catalpa streets have listed homes varying in cost from $1,000 to $12,500. That's a wide range and it ought to include the one you've been looking for.

Here are a few of the residences listed by Mr. Selig and Mr. Myatt; a six-room brick home at 1300 Park avenue; a six-room home at 1305 Emmerson avenue; a six-room home at 1019 North Sixth street; a six-room home at 105 Carolina street; a five-room home at 2909 South Grand street; a six-room home at 1802 South Grand street.

It probably will be years before the values offered by the People's Homestead through Mr. Selig and Mr. Myatt will be available again. So prospective home owners shouldn't delay. They should take advantage of these values immediately.

The two men's office telephone number is 4900. Mr. Selig's home phone is 978; Mr. Myatt's 3382.

Twin City Cars At New Location

You no longer have to go out of your way to see the splendid used automobiles offered by Twin City Motor company, 1700 South Grand street, local Oldsmobile dealer. Its used car lot is now located on the southwestern corner of Washington and North Second streets.

Each used car placed on sale by Twin City Motor company has been thoroughly reconditioned by competent mechanics in the firm's modernly equipped service department. And it carries a written guarantee.

Particular attention is devoted to the appearance of used cars by Twin City Motor company. Their looks are equalled only by their performances.

You are virtually certain to find the used car you've been looking for on the Twin City Motor company lot. Be sure to visit it. It's located only two blocks from the heart of the shopping district of Monroe.

Mel-O-Toast Loaf Favored By Public

Mel-O-Toast is a loaf that serves loafs. It is busy all the time holding old friends and making new ones. That's because Mel-O-Toast bread is bread of constant high quality.

The best of everything goes into Mel-O-Toast bread, yet it costs no more than ordinary bread. And it is always oven fresh at your favorite food store.

Besides highest quality ingredients, the best of baking training and experience goes into each loaf of Mel-O-Toast. Moreover, the dough is prepared and baked with modern equipment in a sanitary plant.

Mel-O-Toast is prepared and baked with scientific exactness in accordance with a copyrighted formula. It varies neither in quantity or quality. It is as good today as it was yesterday and will be tomorrow.

When you want bread at its best, specify Mel-O-Toast, a product of City Bakery, 320 North Fourth street.

St. John And Grammont Streets
L. T. Hastings, Pastor
D. C. Black, Pastor's Associate

The pastor will occupy his pulpit both hours Sunday and the messages will broadcast over KMLB. The morning message will be one of wide interest, since there are so many who are troubled over the question, "The Holy Spirit in the Believer's Life." The subject will be treated from four standpoints: Receiving the Holy Spirit, The Baptism of the Holy Spirit, The Filling with the Holy Spirit, and Walking in the Spirit.

At the evening hour the subject will be "What Will You Do at the End?" The Baptist Training union and the Baptist Brotherhood me at 6:15, and the ordinance of baptism will be administered at the close of the evening service.

Monday night at 7:30, in the auditorium, the second session of Youth Forum wil be held for all young people from the age of 14 to 25. The subject will be "Courtship: Is It a Sacrament or a Sacrilege?" Admission by ticket only, but the tickets are free. If you do not get one before coming to church, some one will be outside the door to give every one a ticket. Come and bring your friends.

CENTRAL BAPTIST CHURCH
3400 Lee Avenue
D. D. Cantrell, Pastor
Dale Cobb, Associate

Last Sunday was our record breaker in Sunday school attendance. We not only had a great number in attendance but the finest spirit of cooperation and fellowship, especially was this true in the men's Bible class. We especially urge you to attend today at 9:45 a.m. If you live in this district, the blessing will be mutual. The Baptist Training union is going forward, we have a place for all ages ranging from the beginners including adults. You are missing a treat if you do not be on time for the opening 6:30 p.m.

The pastor's subject for the morning hour is "The New Challenge for the New Day." The evening message, "God Planned for His People Something Better." Since God has given to the people of this world the choicest of His blessings, He also desires to have us to select not the worst out of the world, but the better.

YOU AND TODAY

"With every rising of the sun,
Think of your life as just begun.
The past has shriveled, and buried deep
All yesterdays; there let them sleep.

"Nor seek to summon back one ghost
Of that innumerable host.
Concern yourself with but today—
Woo it, and teach it to obey.

"You and today! A world sublime,
And the great pregnant hour of time,
With God Himself to bind the twain,
Go forth, I say, attain, attain!"
—Selected.

Today is our day, today is the only day we shall ever have; let us heed the admonition which is given in Ephasians 5:16, also Hebrews 10:23-25. If so we will have a greater reason for rejoicing upon this Lord's day. Will you answer this summons now?

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH
West Monroe

Preaching services will be held Sunday at 10:50 a.m. and at 7:30 p.m. Rev. Glen Lee Greene, pastor of the Baptist church in Pollock, will preach at both services.

Other services will be held at the usual hours on Sunda, and throughout the week.

GRACE CHURCH
Fourth And Glenmar Streets
Edward Farren Hayward, Rector

Services for the second Sunday in Lent are as follows: The Holy Eucharist at 7:30 a.m. Church school at 9:30 a.m. Choral celebration of the Eucharist and sermon at 10:45 a.m. Evensong and address on prayer book at 7:30 p.m. The rector will be in Rayville and hold service in St. David's at 4 p.m. Whoever you are, or whatever your experience may be, the Episcopal church is interested in you. All over the world it is striving to represent Jesus Christ and to carry His message and His life to all people.

We invite you to join with us during this Lent in following and participating in our services. If you are not a member of the church, you may call upon her for help in any need. If you are an irregular communicant, use this Lent to rededicate yourself to our Lord and His service. Don't go on losing opportunities. Share in the redemption of the world. It is a great adventure, and Christ wants you.

The church is open daily from 7:30 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. Come in, rest, pray, give thanks, meditate.

FIRST METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SOUTH
"The Church With The Lighted Steeple"
Jackson At Wood Street

This being the first Sunday of the month the sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be administered. The pastor has chosen for the theme of the communion meditation "Sharing the Wealth."

All the adult classes of the Sunday school will meet in the auditorium at 10 o'clock to hear an address by the pastor on the program of evangelism.

Each Sunday from 6 until 7:30 p.m. a program, consisting of a social hour followed by a worship period, is held for the young people. These programs, held in the annex, are proving very successful. All the young people of the church are cordially invited.

The students of Centenary college of Shreveport will present "Kollege Kapers" at their sixth annual appearance, on March 15 at 8 o'clock at the Ouachita Parish High school auditorium. This student variety show is sponsored by the night circles of the Woman's Missionary society. Tickets are now on sale.

The Woman's Missionary society will meet Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock for the monthly business meeting.

The local board of Christian Education will meet in the church office Wednesday night at 7:30.

The third of a series of classes in evangelism will be held at the church Thursday at 7:30.

West Monroe

There is today a widespread idea of the value of the church to our present civilization. There are millions who say the church has outlived its usefulness in its contribution to the civilizations of the earth, and yet today there are millions turning toward its doors and in times of great sorrow men almost universally think first of the ministers and of the church. We owe the church our support in attendance and in the times when we are not making demands upon it. Do we have any right to ask the church to come to us in our times of sorrow, when we have treated the church with absolute indifference when we did not need it? If you enjoy gospel preaching and soul-stirring sermons, attend our church and become a part of a great congregation at every service. Sunday school at 9:45 a.m., R. M. McClendon, superintendent, who will be waiting for you to attend and will find a class for every member of the family. Music under the direction of G. C. Williams, assisted by Miss Madia McClendon and a fine choir. You will always find a welcome at our church.

"The Growing Church in a Growing Community."

GORDON AVENUE METHODIST
J. M. Alford, Pastor

The communion of the Lord's supper will be observed at 11 a.m. today. The pastor will be in charge of the service and will use as the subject, "The Bread of Life." We urge all our members and invite all others who will do so to come and honor our Lord and Saviour who suffered and died for us. This is a precious privilege and a wonderful means of grace. It means repentance and forgiveness of sins, and the beginning anew the life of righteousness.

The Sunday school will open at 9:45 a.m. William Wood, a prominent layman of the First Methodist church, will lecture to both the women and the men's Bible classes of the adult department. The two leagues will meet at 6:45 p.m. The Women's Missionary society will assemble at the church Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, with Mrs. C. L. Taylor, president, in charge. The prayer meeting was led last Wednesday evening by Stark Lambert and a good congregation came out in a cold rain. Our presiding elder, the Rev. W. L. Doss, D. D., was present. The meeting next week will be conducted by R. L. Hales, president of the Wesley brotherhood.

The pastor's subject at the evening worship service will be a continuation of last Sunday's talk on "The Filling Station." Special songs in our new "Cokesbury Worship Hymnal" will be used at both services today.

We have a hundred new books, and all are invited to come and join with us in worship and singing hymns of praise. We have regular choir practice every Friday evening in the Sunday school annex. Mrs. Walter Perkins and Mrs. Henry Deal rendered a beautiful duet at last Sunday evening's service. Other special selections will feature the services today.

METHODIST PROTESTANT CHURCH
Stone Avenue And South Third St.
I. L. Yeager, Pastor

The story is told of a sailor on a war ship who crept behind one of the big guns every night and prayed. For a long time he was alone. At last another sailor joined him. Many nights they met together and prayed behind the big gun. One of their mates—out of a number who had seen and ridiculed them—went and told the commander, thinking he might stop the daily prayer meeting. But the commander ordered a place curtained off for his praying sailors, and said that no one must molest them. One by one their comrades came to them, to be admitted into the little prayer tent, until 32 converted men gathered there daily, to read God's Word and worship Him.

"Not by might, nor by power, but by My spirit, saith the Lord of hosts." —Zech. 4:6.

Sunday school at 9:45 a.m. Morning worship at 11 o'clock. Christian Endeavor at 6:45 p.m. Evangelistic service 7:30 p.m. Circle meetings Tuesday afternoon at 2:30. Song service Tuesday evening at 7:30. Midweek prayer service 7:30 Thursday evening.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH
Grammont At Catalpa
Ernest Holloway, Pastor

The Rev. Frank Hill Caldwell D. D. will begin a series of services this Sabbath. He is president of Louisville Theological seminary and considered among the leaders of our ministry. He comes in the interest of spirituality and for the glory of Jesus Christ. Will you hear him? He will speak today at 11 o'clock and 7:30. During the week his messages will be given at 10 and 7:30. He has responded to the overture of the session. The people of our faith are urged to hear him. A hearty invitation is extended all the people of the community to worship with us.

Our Sabbath school attendance is good. It is far from the goal. If you will attend, you will not only further the cause of Bible study but you will encourage some one else to enroll.

The door of our church is open to any one who accepts the Christ and promises to cooperate with us to the promotion of His kingdom.

A sincere greeting awaits you.

Beautiful Store Fronts Installed By Twin City Co.

The best method of modernizing an old building is to install a structural glass front, according to officials of Twin City Glass company, Inc., 312 South Grand street.

The most recent front of this kind installed by the firm is that on the Home Furniture company building at DeSiard and North Fifth street. The black structural glass front greatly enhances the appearance of this building.

But store fronts is but one of the phases of Twin City Glass company's activities. It resilvers old mirrors and makes new ones. It frames pictures. It installs auto glass and window glass. And it makes glass tops for desks and other pieces of furniture.

Twin City Glass company has one of the best equipped mirror rooms in the state, with an experienced mirror man, Curtis J. Smith, a member of the firm, in charge.

Twin City Glass company is in a position to supply structural glass store fronts in any colors or color combinations. Structural glass is also unsurpassed for brightening up bathrooms and kitchens.

Things Worth Knowing

INTERNATIONAL WITH PANEL-STAKE BODY

This is one of the numerous trucks made by International to fill every hauling need. Like all other International trucks, this panel-stake model is all truck, built to stand the exacting demands of modern highway transportation. This model, like all others, is powered with a motor truck motor, a motor especially built to provide the power that trucks require. International trucks are handled here by International Harvester company, 720 DeSiard street. The telephone number of the establishment is 228.

We-Too Stresses Fine Hamburgers

If you haven't tried a We-Too hamburger, you've missed something. It's more than a hamburger. It's a hamburger sandwich—all dressed up with lettuce, tomato and mayonnaise. The price is only 10 cents.

We-Too hamburgers are made by We-Too Sandwich Shop, 1602 DeSiard street, the home of the best barbecue in Monroe. Another specialty of this establishment is a minced barbecue sandwich, which, together with a portion of potato salad, is priced at 15 cents.

We-Too Sandwich Shop also serves every other kind of sandwich and sells its delicious barbecue by the pound at the following prices: porkribs, 45 cents; beef ribs, 45 cents; sliced beef or veal, 50 cents; sliced pork ham, 65 cents.

Two other specialties of the sandwich shop are potato salad and barbecued beans. The salad is 25 cents a pound and the beans 30 cents a pound. Individual orders of the beans, steaming hot in clay pots, are 15 cents.

We-Too Sandwich Shop, which has the coldest drinks in town, gives unexcelled curb service. There is plenty of space around the place for motorists to park. However, for those who do not care to eat in their cars, the establishment has tables and booths in addition to a counter.

Ring-Free Oil Proves Claim

Time, the national news magazine, for the protection of both its advertisers and readers, questions what it considers extravagant claims in advertisements submitted for publication. This policy is dramatically told in an advertisement of the MacMillan Petroleum corporation on pages 58 and 59 of the March 6 issue of Time.

Time questioned this phrase in a MacMillan ad: "plus the rare ability to remove carbon formed by fuels and other oils." The publication's censorship committee thought the claim went beyond fact. For Time's especial benefit, MacMillan Petroleum corporation gave a demonstration. It proved that the phrase was virtually an understatement.

A coupon in connection with the advertisement in the March 6 issue of Time makes the same demonstration available to you. It not only shows how MacMillan Ring-Free oil possesses to the "rare ability to remove carbon formed by fuels and other oils" in internal combustion motors, but how Ring-Free oil lowers maintenance costs by saving fuel, wear and repair in any make of Diesel, gasoline or natural gas engine.

This coupon, which entails no obligation, will receive prompt attention if mailed direct to Hale and McNeil, Postoffice Box 152, Monroe, La. Wholesale distributors of MacMillan Ring-Free motor oils and greases, Hale and McNeil operate at 213 Olive street. Their telephone number is 988.

You, Too, Can Own Your Own Home

Under the liberal terms and low rate of interest offered by the People's Homestead and Savings association, you, too, can have a home of your own. Let Jonas Selig and Morton Myatt explain to you how you can acquire one without straining yourself financially. They are in charge of sales of all properties of the association.

Remember, purchasing a home is like putting money in the bank. A home is an investment, an asset. Mr. Selig and Mr. Myatt, who maintain an office at the People's Homestead, corner of DeSiard and Catalpa streets have listed homes varying in cost from $1,000 to $12,500. That's a wide range and it ought to include the one you've been looking for.

Here are a few of the residences listed by Mr. Selig and Mr. Myatt; a six-room brick home at 1300 Park avenue; a six-room home at 1305 Emmerson avenue; a six-room home at 1019 North Sixth street; a six-room home at 105 Carolina street; a five-room home at 2909 South Grand street; a six-room home at 1802 South Grand street.

It probably will be years before the values offered by the People's Homestead through Mr. Selig and Mr. Myatt will be available again. So prospective home owners shouldn't delay. They should take advantage of these values immediately.

The two men's office telephone number is 4900. Mr. Selig's home phone is 978; Mr. Myatt's 3382.

BULLDOGS AND GENTS TO BATTLE HERE FRIDAY

Neville High Battlers Win Farmerville Tournament

Sports Chatter

By GEORGE V. LOFTON

EXHIBITIONS

Baseball fans hereabouts will have plenty of the pre-season variety. An attractive schedule of exhibition games has been arranged for north Louisiana addicts as the direct result of the selection of Monroe as the training base of Nashville's Volunteers.

Incidentally, the advance guard of the Vols, headed by your old friend Larry Gilbert, who left the Pelicans last winter to become manager and part owner of the Tennessee club, will check in this morning. Spring training officially opens at Casino park Monday.

Getting back to the exhibitions, the highlight, of course, will be the game here between the Cleveland Indians and William Terry's New York Giants on April 10. That attraction was rained out last year but perhaps the weather man will give us a break this time. Undoubtedly the exhibition will be the magnet that will draw the biggest crowd of the spring schedule to Casino park.

Nashville and the Shreveport Sports will provide plenty of entertainment for fans of this section. The first exhibition booked between the Vols and Walter Morris' Sports will be played in Shreveport on March 18. Another game will follow on the 19th and then on the 21st the two clubs meet in Monroe. On March 22 the Vols and the Sports move to Natchez for a game.

Cleveland's B team comes here for a two-game series with Nashville on March 25 and 26 and on the 28th the Vols and the Sports renew their rivalry at Hodge. George Brannon's Jackson Senators of the Southeastern league invade Casino park for a contest with the Vols on March 30.

The first tilt between Nashville and the Monroe club will be played here on April 1, to be followed by the second and final of the series on the 2nd. The Vols break camp on the 4th and play at Jackson, Montgomery and Anniston before heading for home for their first exhibition game in Sulphur Dell on April 9 with the Phillies.

The Monroe club has one other important engagement. The Sox meet the Philadelphia Athletics' A squad at Casino park on April 5, and then comes the "big game" on the 10th.

Manager Doug Taitt is angling for several additional exhibition games for his White Sox, principally with teams of the Cotton States, East Texas, Southeastern and Evangeline leagues, and it is probable that a number of games will be added to the original list of pre-season contests.

Nashville's training here will give fans of north Louisiana a taste of their favorite sport much sooner than usual. It's a fine break, and if the weather man will be kind to the boys, we can expect a repetition next year and for other years to come.

FRIDAY'S MATCH

College boxing returns to Monroe next Friday night when Louisiana Tech's Bulldogs battle the Centenary Gentlemen at the Neville High school arena. It will be the fifth meeting of the season between the ancient rivals, each team having won two decisions, and there's quite a bit of excitement prevailing at Ruston and at Shreveport. Undoubtedly large delegations will travel here to witness the "rubber" match, which should provide plenty of action.

Since Northeast Center's leather slingers packed away their boxing gloves a year ago, Monroe hasn't played host to a college boxing match. The Indians did not take up boxing again this season. The high school lads have been providing some excellent sport this winter but there are many who regret the absence of college boxing.

Those fans, and many others, will be given the opportunity they've wanted when the Gents and the Canines clash Friday night.

Incidentally, Eddie McLane, Tech's athletic director, will be on hand for the scraps. As far as we know, it

SOX CONTRACTS ACCEPTED BY ALL BUT ONE PLAYER

Third Baseman Pruitt Reported Likely To Play Semi-Pro Ball This Season

With one exception, all player contracts offered by officials of the Monroe White Sox, defending Cotton States league champions, have been returned signed, and the veterans of the 1938 team are expected to begin drifting back into Monroe in the next few days for spring training, which begins March 15.

The holdout is Guy "Red" Pruitt, third baseman, and, according to rumors, Pruitt will not be back with the White Sox this year.

The third baseman, unlike the holdouts who become troublesome by wanting bigger checks, has decided to retire from professional ball, it was reported. Information here is to the effect that Pruitt will play semi-pro ball with the Crossett, Ark., club of the Ouachita Valley league this year.

However, those already having their names on the dotted line are John Yelovic, Tex Nugent, Frank Narbut, "Red" Andrews and Floyd W. Speer, pitchers; Frank Hackney, second baseman; Hank Taylor, catcher; and Johnny Conway, shortstop. Manager Doug Taitt will be back at his outfield post.

Other members of the 1938 title team, Beauford Rhea, Pete Medak, Bobby Schang, Glenn Murray and Tom Perry, will be playing in other fields this season, having been sold or recalled by clubs that optioned them to the Sox.

The Sox's pitchers and catchers begin work on March 15 and other members of the club will go into action on March 20.

Several new prospects will be given tryouts with Monroe this year, and the Sox are also expecting to receive help from the Nashville Volunteers, who begin training here tomorrow.

The Vols will also have a big roster of rookies on hand and many of them will not be ripe to enter play in the faster Southern association. However, several of these prospects may be just what the White Sox are looking for and it is likely that such players can be kept here.

The locals' first exhibition games will be played April 1 and 2 against the Volunteers.

The Cotton States' official schedule, which was adopted by the league's directors at a meeting held here last Sunday, is being announced in full in this issue of the Morning World.

WESTERN KENTUCKY WINS S. I. A. A. TITLE

BOWLING GREEN, Ky., March 4.—(AP)—Western Kentucky Teachers' college, a power in two basketball conferences in recent years, made another conquest tonight by capturing the 16th annual southern intercollegiate athletic association tournament championship.

Rolling over the Jacksonville (Ala.) Teachers in the final game, 56 to 43, the Hilltoppers won their third successive victory in the S. I. A. A. meet and their fourth in six years.

En route to the finals, the Hilltoppers drubbed Presbyterian (South Carolina) college, 51 to 27, in their first game and defeated Louisiana Normal, 44 to 33, in the semi-finals this afternoon.

The Jacksonville team was regarded as the tournament's "dark horse." The Alabama quintet upset form charts by downing, in order, the Delta State Teachers of Cleveland, Miss., 25 to 23; Georgetown (Kentucky) college, 37 to 29, and Morehead (Kentucky) Teachers, 53 to 38.

Wildcats Become Conference Champs By Beating Tennessee, 46-38

By Kenneth Gregory

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., March 4.—(AP)—Kentucky's blue-clad Wildcats became basketball champions of the Southeastern conference tonight with an attack that routed the host quintet, Tennessee's Volunteers, 46 to 38.

Taking the lead shortly after the opening whistle and never relinquishing the advantage despite game efforts by the Tennessee cagers, Kentucky finished under wraps to win its third conference crown since the conference was organized in 1933.

Captain Bernie Opper, one of the greatest guards ever to perform in southern basketball, and an almost unanimous choice for the all-tournament team, sparked the Wildcats with spectacular guarding and sensational shooting and led the individual scoring with 13 points.

For nearly 15 minutes the Tennessee cagers were taking things pretty much in their hands, but the Kentuckians settled down just before the half to count 13 points while keeping the Vols

Cunningham Brings Spectators From Seats In Capturing 2-Mile Race

NEW YORK, March 4.—(AP) Glenn Cunningham, the greatest miler of them all, brought 14,000 Madison Square Garden customers out of their seats tonight as he let loose with a sensational sprint for the last lap and a quarter to beat Don Lash by a stride in a special two-mile race in 9 minutes 11.6 seconds.

Gregory Rice of Notre Dame was third and Tommy Deckard of Bloomington, Ind., fourth and last in the hand-picked field. Lash was timed in 9:12.2 and Rice, a stride behind him, in 9:12.4.

While Cunningham's time was far off Lash's world indoor record of 8:58, the manner in which Cunningham won more than made up for that in the minds of the spectators.

NEW YORK, March 4.—(AP) Manhattan college, scoring in only one field event but placing men in six of the eight races, captured the team title in the 18th annual Intercollegiate A. A. A. A. indoor championships tonight with 36 points before a crowd of 14,000 in Madison Square Garden.

Led by two defending individual titleholders, the boys in Kelly-green made their anticipated triumph an unusually one-sided one. Second place in the final point tabulation went to New York university, with 20, while Fordham followed, with 15, to give Metropolitan colleges a one-two-three sweep.

Next in line came Princeton with 14 3-4, followed by Yale, 12 1-5; Rhode Island State, 11 1-5; Penn State 10 2-5; Dartmouth, 10 1-5, and Columbia, which had won the title the last two years, 10.

MONTE STRATTON TRIES NEW LEG

GREENVILLE, Tex., March 4.—(AP) Monte Stratton, former ace hurler for the Chicago White Sox, donned a new artificial limb for the first time today and pitched a few balls for a group of boy admirers at his home here.

Stratton lost his right leg as a result of a hunting accident.

"It feels fine and I am getting along well with it," he said after a walk with Mrs. Stratton and their boy, Monte, Jr.

Stratton will leave here April 5 for Chicago where the White Sox will play a benefit game for him April 17. He will coach first base for the team this season.

SHANKS NAMED COACH AND SCOUT FOR PELS

NEW ORLEANS, March 4.—(AP)—Roger Peckinpaugh, manager of the New Orleans Pelicans, Southern association, today announced the signing of Howard Shanks, former major leaguer, as coach and scout for the New Orleans team.

Peckinpaugh also announced unconditional release for Cleo Carlyle, veteran outfielder with the Pelicans last season.

VOLS TO START SPRING TRAINING HERE TOMORROW

Nashville Ball Players Will Begin Arriving In Monroe Today

The Nashville Volunteers, of the Southern association, will begin arriving here today for the opening of their spring training camp tomorrow at Casino park, home of the Monroe White Sox.

The Vols, to begin arriving here from various points over the country, will meet Larry Gilbert, the former New Orleans Pelicans' manager, for the first time here as their pilot.

Gilbert, the Vols' new manager, is expected here this morning along with three or four Nashville sports writers and a radio sports announcer. Rookies to get tryouts with the Tennesseans will also be on hand.

Although the Volunteers' training camp officially opens tomorrow at noon, several of the club's outstanding players are not expected to be on hand at the time. According to reports, however, the club should have its entire roster of training camp workers on hand by March 15.

The team with which Manager Gilbert hopes to win the Southern association pennant will train with a large squad of rookies.

White Sox officials have completed some good work toward improving the playing field and grandstand at Casino park and the Vols will have their own club room, which has been constructed under the left wing of the grandstand. The club rooms, including that of the White Sox under the right wing, have been made comfortable and the players this year will have few if any inconveniences.

The infield, too, has been raised considerably to facilitate drainage. The rains that caused postponement of many games last year here because the field did not drain properly will have trouble stopping play this season except of course by showering the field during game time.

The Vols plan to begin work each day shortly after noon and drill for about two hours.

COLLEGE BOXERS WILL DECIDE TIE AT NEVILLE GYM

Complete Eight-Bout Card To Be Presented By Tech And Centenary

RUSTON, La., March 4.—(Special)—Louisiana Tech and Centenary college boxers are booked for their fifth engagement of the season, to be staged at Monroe on Friday, March 10, Tech's match-maker, Eddie McLane, has announced.

An aim of the "fifth fights" between the two rival colleges is to settle supremacy, since a two-to-two deadlock resulted from the four previous contests fought by the Gents and the Bulldogs.

Arrangements for the post-season program in Monroe were made largely by George V. Lofton, managing editor of the Monroe Morning World and News-Star, McLane said. The bouts will be staged in the Neville High school auditorium, starting at 8 p.m. Friday. Ringside seats on the auditorium stage will sell for $1.10. Seats in the auditorium are priced at 85 cents for adults and 40 cents for students.

Percy Brown, Neville coach, will be the referee. The three judges will probably be picked from Dr. William Bendel, Dr. Joe Brown, Herbert Fink or Tignor Conger, all of Monroe, it was announced.

A complete eight-bout program, without any forfeits, has been promised for the Monroe card.

The Techmen, winding up their regular schedule last Monday night in Ruston, lost to the Loyola ruttmen, 5's to 4's. With a rest of several days before the Monroe contests, the Bulldogs are expected to be in top condition by Friday night.

In their opener of the season, the Techsters defeated Centenary, 5-3, at Ruston. On January 21 in Shreveport, the Gents scored a victory of 4½ to 3½ over the Bulldogs. Tech again trounced the Gents in Ruston on February 10 by a score of 5-3. A week later, Centenary triumphed over Tech, 5-3, to tie the season's record.

Three thousand disabled soldiers of the World war still are being treated in British hospitals. Great Britain supplies about 4,000 artificial limbs to war pensioners in a single year.

Hall of Fame

The Hall of Fame! The name has a magic sound. The Baseball Hall of Fame stands at Cooperstown, New York, where baseball was born, and designated by bronze plaques are those great men of the national game whose deeds will live forever in baseball memories. In this series, the story of what earned the great players their places in this Hall of Fame is told. As one of the features of Baseball's Centennial program this year, their plaques will be unveiled.

TERROR OF THE PATHS

Tyrus Raymond Cobb, the Georgia Peach, goes down into baseball history as the flashiest and most daring

TYRUS RAYMOND COBB

player who ever wore spikes. For 22 thrill-filled years he played with the Detroit Tigers, leading the American league in batting for a dozen of those, becoming a legendary Colossus of the diamond by his dashing skill on the base paths. In the outfield, he was one of the best men who ever robbed a batter of an extra base hit by pulling down a hard-hit liner with a running catch.

Ty and Babe Ruth hold more records than any players in the game. Cobb finished up his major league playing career with Connie Mack's Athletics after he had been on the roster of the Detroit Tigers for twenty-two years.

He was a self made ball player. Born in Royston, Ga., Ty's only natural attribute was speed and craft. He was not a natural hitter, so he studied batting as a science. And being cagey, Cobb decided to capitalize his speed—as a base runner. He perfected the fallaway slide in a homemade sandpit, and when he came to Detroit after a brief career in the minors the game's experts knew at once that here was a sensation. He was bought by the Tigers for $700 in 1905 and the following year he walloped the ball for an average of .322, the first of 21 consecutive seasons as a better than .300 hitter.

Cobb had the reputation of a fiery temper, but many of the incidents traced to this—such as his feuds with rival players—could undoubtedly be laid to showmanship. Cobb loved the game; hated to lose and this caused him to get into scores of amazing scrapes. He batted left-handed, streaked for first and was noted for stretching hits. Once on base, he was poison to his opponents. He leads both leagues on the record books in extra base hits, in total bases and in stolen bases.

One of the most phenomenal and long remembered feats of Cobb's was stealing home in a World's Series game. That was on October 9, 1909, when Detroit defeated Pittsburgh 7-2. And only Cobb could score from second on an infield hit.

Cobb retired from the game, and now in his fifties, enjoys life at his Atherton, Calif., home. But the legend of Cobb always will live on in baseball.

EXHIBITIONS

Baseball fans hereabouts will have plenty of the pre-season variety. An attractive schedule of exhibition games has been arranged for north Louisiana addicts as the direct result of the selection of Monroe as the training base of Nashville's Volunteers.

Incidentally, the advance guard of the Vols, headed by your old friend Larry Gilbert, who left the Pelicans last winter to become manager and part owner of the Tennessee club, will check in this morning. Spring training officially opens at Casino park Monday.

Getting back to the exhibitions, the highlight, of course, will be the game here between the Cleveland Indians and William Terry's New York Giants on April 10. That attraction was rained out last year but perhaps the weather man will give us a break this time. Undoubtedly the exhibition will be the magnet that will draw the biggest crowd of the spring schedule to Casino park.

Nashville and the Shreveport Sports will provide plenty of entertainment for fans of this section. The first exhibition booked between the Vols and Walter Morris' Sports will be played in Shreveport on March 18. Another game will follow on the 19th and then on the 21st the two clubs meet in Monroe. On March 22 the Vols and the Sports move to Natchez for a game.

Cleveland's B team comes here for a two-game series with Nashville on March 25 and 26 and on the 28th the Vols and the Sports renew their rivalry at Hodge. George Brannon's Jackson Senators of the Southeastern league invade Casino park for a contest with the Vols on March 30.

The first tilt between Nashville and the Monroe club will be played here on April 1, to be followed by the second and final of the series on the 2nd. The Vols break camp on the 4th and play at Jackson, Montgomery and Anniston before heading for home for their first exhibition game in Sulphur Dell on April 9 with the Phillies.

The Monroe club has one other important engagement. The Sox meet the Philadelphia Athletics' A squad at Casino park on April 5, and then comes the "big game" on the 10th.

Manager Doug Taitt is angling for several additional exhibition games for his White Sox, principally with teams of the Cotton States, East Texas, Southeastern and Evangeline leagues, and it is probable that a number of games will be added to the original list of pre-season contests.

Nashville's training here will give fans of north Louisiana a taste of their favorite sport much sooner than usual. It's a fine break, and if the weather man will be kind to the boys, we can expect a repetition next year and for other years to come.

FRIDAY'S MATCH

College boxing returns to Monroe next Friday night when Louisiana Tech's Bulldogs battle the Centenary Gentlemen at the Neville High school arena. It will be the fifth meeting of the season between the ancient rivals, each team having won two decisions, and there's quite a bit of excitement prevailing at Ruston and at Shreveport. Undoubtedly large delegations will travel here to witness the "rubber" match, which should provide plenty of action.

Since Northeast Center's leather slingers packed away their boxing gloves a year ago, Monroe hasn't played host to a college boxing match. The Indians did not take up boxing again this season. The high school lads have been providing some excellent sport this winter but there are many who regret the absence of college boxing.

Those fans, and many others, will be given the opportunity they've wanted when the Gents and the Canines clash Friday night.

Incidentally, Eddie McLane, Tech's athletic director, will be on hand for the scraps. As far as we know, it

Although the Volunteers' training camp officially opens tomorrow at noon, several of the club's outstanding players are not expected to be on hand at the time. According to reports, however, the club should have its entire roster of training camp workers on hand by March 15.

The team with which Manager Gilbert hopes to win the Southern association pennant will train with a large squad of rookies.

White Sox officials have completed some good work toward improving the playing field and grandstand at Casino park and the Vols will have their own club room, which has been constructed under the left wing of the grandstand. The club rooms, including that of the White Sox under the right wing, have been made comfortable and the players this year will have few if any inconveniences.

The infield, too, has been raised considerably to facilitate drainage. The rains that caused postponement of many games last year here because the field did not drain properly will have trouble stopping play this season except of course by showering the field during game time.

The Vols plan to begin work each day shortly after noon and drill for about two hours.

COLLEGE BOXERS WILL DECIDE TIE AT NEVILLE GYM

Complete Eight-Bout Card To Be Presented By Tech And Centenary

RUSTON, La., March 4.—(Special)—Louisiana Tech and Centenary college boxers are booked for their fifth engagement of the season, to be staged at Monroe on Friday, March 10, Tech's match-maker, Eddie McLane, has announced.

An aim of the "fifth fights" between the two rival colleges is to settle supremacy, since a two-to-two deadlock resulted from the four previous contests fought by the Gents and the Bulldogs.

Arrangements for the post-season program in Monroe were made largely by George V. Lofton, managing editor of the Monroe Morning World and News-Star, McLane said. The bouts will be staged in the Neville High school auditorium, starting at 8 p.m. Friday. Ringside seats on the auditorium stage will sell for $1.10. Seats in the auditorium are priced at 85 cents for adults and 40 cents for students.

Percy Brown, Neville coach, will be the referee. The three judges will probably be picked from Dr. William Bendel, Dr. Joe Brown, Herbert Fink or Tignor Conger, all of Monroe, it was announced.

A complete eight-bout program, without any forfeits, has been promised for the Monroe card.

The Techmen, winding up their regular schedule last Monday night in Ruston, lost to the Loyola nuttmen, 5½ to 4½. With a rest of several days before the Monroe contests, the Bulldogs are expected to be in top condition by Friday night.

In their opener of the season, the Techsters defeated Centenary, 5-3, at Ruston. On January 27 in Shreveport, the Gents scored a victory of 4½ to 3½ over the Bulldogs. Tech again trounced the Gents in Ruston on February 10 by a score of 5-3. A week later, Centenary triumphed over Tech, 5-3, to tie the season's record.

Hall of Fame

The Hall of Fame! The name has a magic sound. The Baseball Hall of Fame stands at Cooperstown, New York, where baseball was born, and designated by bronze plaques are those great men of the national game whose deeds will live forever in baseball memories. In this series, the story of what earned the great players their places in this Hall of Fame is told. As one of the features of Baseball's Centennial program this year, their plaques will be unveiled.

TERROR OF THE PATHS

Tyrus Raymond Cobb, the Georgia Peach, goes down into baseball history as the flashiest and most daring

player who ever wore spikes. For 22 thrill-filled years he played with the Detroit Tigers, leading the American league in batting for a dozen of those, becoming a legendary Colossus of the diamond by his dashing skill on the base paths. In the outfield, he was one of the best men who ever robbed a batter of an extra base hit by pulling down a hard-hit liner with a running catch.

Ty and Babe Ruth hold more records than any players in the game. Cobb finished up his major league playing career with Connie Mack's Athletics after he had been on the roster of the Detroit Tigers for twenty-two years.

He was a self made ball player. Born in Royston, Ga., Ty's only natural attribute was speed and craft. He was not a natural hitter, so he studied batting as a science. And being cagey, Cobb decided to capitalize his speed—as a base runner. He perfected the fallaway slide in a homemade sandpit, and when he came to Detroit after a brief career in the minors the game's experts knew at once that here was a sensation. He was bought by the Tigers for $700 in 1905 and the following year he walloped the ball for an average of .322, the first of 21 consecutive seasons as a better than .300 hitter.

Cobb had the reputation of a fiery temper, but many of the incidents traced to this—such as his feuds with rival players—could undoubtedly be laid to showmanship. Cobb loved the game; hated to lose and this caused him to get into scores of amazing scrapes. He batted left-handed, streaked for first and was noted for stretching hits. Once on base, he was poison to his opponents. He leads both leagues on the record books in extra base hits, in total bases and in stolen bases.

One of the most phenomenal and long remembered feats of Cobb's was stealing home in a World's Series game. That was on October 9, 1909, when Detroit defeated Pittsburgh 7-2. And only Cobb could score from second on an infield hit.

Cobb retired from the game, and now in his fifties, enjoys life at his Atherton, Calif., home. But the legend of Cobb always will live on in baseball.

BULL LEA WIDENER WINNER; STAGEHAND THIRD

Kayak II Winner At Santa Anita; Whichcee Second

21,000 WITNESS RACE; SIR DAMION FINISHES SECOND

Jockey Aboard Favorite Waits Too Long To Start Moving Horse Up

By Gayle Talbot

MIAMI, Fla., March 4.—(AP)—Bull Lea, tenacious big son of Bull Dog, tore the heart from six opponents and pounded home first today in the $50,000 added Widener challenge cup at Hialeah park before 21,000 surprised spectators.

Third choice in the betting, Bull Lea jumped into the lead at the head of the stretch and bounded away to win by three good lengths over Sir Damion, which was a half length in front of Stagehand, the odds-on-favorite. Maxwell Howard's colt ran into a horse he couldn't collar in his closing rush.

Backers of Warren Wright's victorious four-year-old collected $15.20 for $2 straight mutuel tickets. $4 to place and $2.20 to show. Sir Damion, coupled with Mrs. W. Plunket Stewart's Pasteurized as an entry of Trainer George M. Odom, paid $3.20 to place and $2.20 to show. The show price on Stagehand was the same. A total of $144,349 was bet on the race, setting a record here.

The closing day of Hialeah's season saw Sir Damion, owned by Marshall Field and ridden by the sensational Don Meade, assume a lead at the gate and hold it steadily until Irving Anderson called upon Bull Lea three lengths from home.

From that moment there wasn't a doubt. Stagehand's last previous defeat, incidentally, also was administered by Bull Lea—at Narragansett park last August.

The son of Sickle, trying to add today's rich prize to his two big money victories at Santa Anita last year, waited too long. As far as the half-mile pole he was last, far back of the pace-setters. When Jimmie Stout finally did urge him coming into the stretch it was apparent he didn't have a chance.

Earl Sande, the favorite's famous trainer, conceded defeat a furlong from the finish, turning away sadly and saying, "He waited too long—too long."

The first prize was $46,450 and ran Bull Lea's total winning to $94,825. Sir Damion's second place was worth $8,000 and Stagehand's third $4,000, putting him above the $200,000 mark. The winner's time of 2:02 2-5 was three-fifths of a second off the track record for the mile and a quarter route. Bull Lea carried 119 pounds to Stagehand's top 126.

Four of the seven starters, Pasteurized, Mythical King, Francesco and Xavier, never threatened. Pasteurized was a big disappointment, fading badly after moving briefly into third place a half mile out and winding up a dismal last, eight lengths behind Xavier, which had been entered only on the off-chance the track would be muddy.

As the race turned out, there was no real reason to bewail the absence of War Admiral, withdrawn earlier this week because of a fluctuating temperature. Stagehand's admirers had been sad because the Admiral wouldn't be in there to take a licking from their horse.

ARMSTRONG WHIPS PACHO, KEEPS TITLE

HAVANA, March 4.—(AP)—Henry Armstrong, welterweight champion, successfully defended his crown against Bobby Pacho of California here tonight winning with a fourth round technical knockout in a scheduled 15 round fight. More than 10,000 saw the fight.

Pacho weighed 147 and had a 13 pound advantage.

Pacho began tiring of the fast pace early in the fourth and Armstrong backed him against the ropes and slugged him with lefts and rights to the head.

Pacho's hands fell and he slowly slid to the canvas as Hammering Henry rained blows. Referee Jim Braddock stopped the fight and dragged Pacho to his corner.

DAVIS OF TECH PLEASED WITH GRID PROSPECTS

Football Coach Says Outlook 'Good As Far As Sophomores Go'

RUSTON, La., March 4.—(Special)—Louisiana Tech's football prospects for this fall are "good as far as sophomores go."

That's about as "bold" a declaration as one can get from Head Coach Ray E. Davis, with five weeks of spring practice gone by.

The people, including the boys who are digging in for Coach Davis, say "you can depend upon what Coach Davis says." So the chief mentor wouldn't mislead the public with any championship chatter that he might have to take back in the middle of the season.

Coach Davis said, however, that he is well pleased with the prospects so far.

"The boys are all working hard," the coach emphasized, "but the squad is top-heavy with sophomores who lack experience. It's a long way from college freshman football to varsity football, and the sophomores have a lot to learn.

"Every time we go on the field this fall, we will go on with determination to win. But if the boys maintain the same spirit they have shown this spring and still lose, I'll guarantee you that it won't be any disgrace to lose."

Asked about the weakest part of the Bulldog gridiron machinery, Coach Davis thought for several seconds and replied, "Well, you've got me there. I would say there is no particular weak point but rather that the progression of the whole team has been about equal."

Spring football drills will continue until the baseball season gets under way, Coach Davis said. Probably in May the gridders will be called back in shorts for light workouts "to keep their memories refreshed."

Out of a group of about 45 candidates for the varsity squad, more than 30 are sophomores. Although Coach Davis does not cling to the "two-team" idea of football, he has lined up two elevens consistently as starters in four regulation intra-squad games this spring. In these practice contests, he has made it possible for every candidate to show his mettle under fire.

JEFF HEATH SIGNS CLEVELAND CONTRACT

NEW ORLEANS, March 4.—(AP)—Oscar Vitt, manager of the Cleveland Indians, announced tonight that Jeff Heath, last season's hard-hitting rookie outfielder, had come to terms and signed a contract.

Heath last year batted .343 to become the second ranking hitter in the American league.

Vitt did not announce the terms of the contract, but it was believed it called for a salary of about $11,000. Heath first was offered $7,500 and turned it down. He has been here several days at the Indians' spring training camp.

BASEBALL PRACTICE SCHEDULED AT TECH

RUSTON, La., March 4.—(Special)—Candidates for Louisiana Tech's 1939 varsity baseball squad are scheduled to report for practice Monday afternoon, Coach Ray Davis has announced.

Since excavating is under way for a new boys' dormitory on the old Tech baseball ground, the Ruston High school diamond will be used temporarily for workouts, it was stated. Later, the baseball field at Woodland park, about two miles southeast of Ruston, will be used for the Tech games.

A new baseball diamond will be constructed on the west part of the Tech campus, with the WPA cooperating in the project.

Among the veterans to compose the nucleus for the Bulldog nine this spring will be Joe Williams, Charlie Caston, Jimmy Sumrall, outfielders; Ray Sheppard, infielder; Harold Napper and Pat Meeks, catchers, and Lawrence (Lefty) Hinton and Clyde Stinnett, pitchers. Several promising sophomores also will be at the service of Coach Davis.

Freshman baseball aspirants will not report for practice until after spring football drills close.

CALIFORNIANS SWEEP TOURNEY

Wayne Sabin Takes Men's Indoor Title; Pauline Betz, Women's

NEW YORK, March 4.—(AP)—The Pacific coast, ruler of tennis these many years, mopped up the floor of the seventh regiment armory today in a clean sweep of singles titles in the national indoor net championships.

Wayne Sabin, bright Davis Cup prospect from Portland, Ore., took the men's crown and pretty Pauline Betz, this tourney's top "upsetter" from Los Angeles captured the women's honors. Neither ran into any considerable difficulty.

Sabin, top-seeded in the tournament, trounced the veteran Frank Bowden, of New York, 6-3, 5-7, 6-3, 6-1, leaving Bowden still the "always-a-bridesmaid-but-never-a-bride" performer of the indoor event. Big husky Bowden has been in the final of this tournament for the last three years.

Miss Betz, who accounted for top-seeded Norma Taubele and third-ranked Barbara Nelds in earlier round matches, came through with a 7-5, 4-6, 6-1 victory over Helen Bernhard of New York in a wind clash to take the women's crown.

Successful in her first try at national competition, the California 19-year-old did her best to make short work of Miss Bernhard. But the New Yorker, having been informed a lobbing game would take the edge off Miss Betz' speed, played "pitty-pat" through the first two sets.

Miss Betz, after falling into costly errors trying to speed the game up, finally reverted to the same type of play and the result was a contest with all the thrills of a race between two lame turtles.

For three sets of the men's finals, Bowden's driving smashing game and his "sly" placement shots made a hot battle of it, but Sabin came out after the intermission following the third set and took four straight games. He made only eight errors through the set, and, but for Bowden's ability to clip the corners with passing shots, would have made even more of a runaway than he did.

Miss Taubele and Grace Surber of New York annexed the women's doubles title without difficulty, beating Jean Wright and Josephine Sanfilippo of Brooklyn, 6-1, 6-2.

The men's doubles final proved an upset. A pair of veteran board-court players, Dr. Eugene McCauliff of Yonkers, N. Y., and Clifford Sutter of New York, former intercollegiate champion from Tulane, defeated Sabin and John Shostrom of Chicago, 4-6, 16-16, 6-4, 6-3.

MAIN MAN THIRD, SPECIFY FOURTH AS RECORD FALLS

Track Mark Shattered By Winner Under Fine Ride By Jockey Adams

By Robert Myers

LOS ANGELES, March 4.—(AP)—Kayak II, brilliant Argentine-bred 4-year-old and the public betting favorite, crashed through with a gallant stretch drive today to win the world's richest horse race—the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap.

Flashing the colors of Charles S. Howard, who was trying for the third time for the big purse, Kayak II overhauled the two speed burners, Major Austin C. Taylor's Whichcee and A. A. Baroni's Specify, as the field of 16 hurtled into the turn going into the home stretch, and with a burst of speed drove to the front to capture first prize of $91,100 by a length and quarter over Whichcee, and hang up a new track record.

Specify, worn out from the mad speed duel with Whichcee in the mile and one quarter grind, faded to fourth place as Louis B. Mayer's Main Man pulled up to grab the show position.

It was a brilliant renewal of the big cap, the fifth held, and the roar of a record crowd of 65,000 people, who plunged in $376,685 on the outcome, echoed back from the hazy blue Sierra Madre mountains.

Jockey Johnny Adams rode this Howard colt with rare ability and did it just as Stagehand triumphed over the lame Howard star, Seabiscuit, a year ago. He came from behind and the time was 2:01 2-5, bettering the time of Stagehand's track record of 2:01 3-5.

All betting records at Santa Anita park were broken for the day when a total of $1,701,760 was wagered through the pari-mutuel machines for the eight-race program. The previous high mark, set on handicap day in 1938, was $1,635,069.

Kayak II, son of Congreve and purchased by Howard a year or so ago for some $7,000 in Buenos Aires, was coupled with his South American running mate, Sorteado, in the betting, and paid $8 to win, $4.40 to place and $4 to show.

Whichcee, which tried and failed to get in the money of the $100,000 race last year, collected $20,000 second prize money and paid off at $6.20 and $4.80. Main Man, rated bare outsider chance, paid $9.60. He was paired with Quick Devil.

The sun still was high when the 16 thoroughbreds paraded to the post and long lines of the huge crowd fought to get their bets down. Heelfly, A. G. Vanderbilt's entry, unseated Jockey Harry Richards to hold up the start, and then Specify, with Charlie Corbett in the irons, proved so fractious he was taken from the No. 4 position, next to Heelfly and started from outside the gate.

The Baroni candiate, Whichcee, Thanksgiving and Main Man were leading the rush down past the grandstand the first time, and then as the field rounded the first turn and on in to the back stretch, Jockey Basil James kept Whichcee in the heated battle with Specify, but slightly under restraint. Main Man never was far off the pace, and Cravat, a 6-1 shot in the betting as second choice to Kayak II was outrun during the early stages and could not catch up with the flying leaders.

At the three quarters it was Whichcee, Specify and Main Man, with Kayak II behind. Specify faded on the drive to the wire, and the Argentine flash roared up on the outside to outdistance the still speedy Whichcee.

The other leading candidates in this supposedly wide open race—wide open until Kayak II began to close it up with that charge down the stretch—never were serious challengers. The entry of Neil MaCarthy's Today and Nelson Howard's Gosum, which closed at about 9-2, and Thanksgiving, Jacola, Heelfly and Congressman, to name the leaders, couldn't keep up with this burning track record pace.

Finishing behind Kayak II, Whichcee, Main Man and Specify, in order, were Today, Jacola, Cravat, Gosum, War Minstrel, Heelfly, Quick Devil, Frexo, Congressman, Thanksgiving, Sorteado and Melodist.

Trainer Tom Smith, who twice sent Seabiscuit into the Santa Anita and twice saw him beaten out by a nose, received a present of $10,000 tendered by the Los Angeles Turf club for the winning trainer.

Main Man's third place was worth $10,000 to his wealthy movie mogul owner, and Baroni, who won over $100,000 with his Top Row in the 1936 handicap, received $5,000 for fourth place.

Weather conditions were perfect and the crowd was the biggest in Santa Anita's history, but the betting handle for the feature race fell short of the $406,944 set last year.

Eighteen horses were entered for the handicap, but Olimpo and Amor Brujo were declared out before post time. Instead they ran in the fourth race, the Hurlingham Handicap at a mile and one sixteenth and Olimpo, owned by Bing Crosby and Lin Howard, the son of C. S. Howard, romped in first. Amor Brujo ran out of the money.

MARSHALL-MONTGOMERY BATTLE IS POSTPONED

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 4.—(AP)—Promoter Milo Solomito announced today he had postponed a heavyweight bout between Jack Marshall of Dallas and Lloyd Montgomery of Bauxite, Ark., from March 9 to March 31.

Solomito said Montgomery's manager had asked for the delay because the Arkansan had an injured hand.

In their first meeting at Jackson, Miss., Marshall decisioned Montgomery.

Workouts In Preparation For Defense Of S. I. A. A. Title Launched

NATCHITOCHES, La., March 4.—(Special)—Switching from spring football training regalia to track togs this week, Louisiana State Normal college athletes began a series of workouts for the 1939 season on the cinder path and field in defense of their 1938 S. I. A. A. championship won in the conference meet in Pineville last spring.

Preparation for the spring sport comes after an intensive six weeks' grid training season.

Although the outlook for the track team as a whole is good, the loss of three record-breakers, two in field events and one in the middle distances, will be apparent.

Returning to the squad this year are Steve Harmon, conference 440-yard champ; Walter Ledet, shot and discus S. I. A. A. champion; Willard Jackson, winner in the 100-yard dash and low hurdles races in conference circles last year, and Burnell Webb, conference champ in the 220-yard dash in 1938.

Promising sophomore candidates for the squad this season are Parker Wiggins, hurdles and broad jump; 'Bama Wright, half-mile and mile events; Ernest Tyler, 220 and 440-yard races and the broad jump; Frank Pruitt, discus and shot, and Roland Migues, sprints and broad jump.

Working to fill the gap left by Billy Parker, javelin hurler, are Staines, Subat, Moncla and T. Elkins. In the high jump Ledet and Tyler will fill in for McGee, while Pruitt, Migues, P. Wiggins and Pernici will handle the broad jump event. The distance races will feature last year's veterans, Gordon Wiggins, Scott, Perry and Sneed.

The first competition for the Demon thinclads this year will come on March 25 in the annual Southwestern relays in Lafayette.

SPANISH FORT HANDICAP IS CAPTURED BY ROIDEF

NEW ORLEANS, March 4.—(AP)—Roidef, alertly ridden by E. Hanke, won the Spanish Fort Handicap at the Fair Grounds today at the long odds of $86.40 for $2.

Under the light impost of 99 pounds, Roidef got off to a fine start as some horses were away poorly, and with hard urging closed in gamely on Old Rosebush in the stretch and drew away. The latter, under 116 pounds headed Bunny Baby, which closed fast to take third place from the rush of Knee Deep.

Roidef covered the six furlongs in 1:14 4-5.

RETAINS CROWN

JACKSON, Miss., March 4.—(AP)—Playing without a substitution through a furious battle, Mississippi college here tonight retained its Dixie conference title by defeating Howard 49 to 39 in the tournament finals.

INDIANS ENGAGE IN INTRA-SQUAD FOOTBALL GAME

Golds Defeat Purples, 9-0, In Training Tilt At Northeast Center

After two weeks of spring football training, the Northeast Center of L. S. U. Indians clashed in an intra-squad battle, under regulation game conditions, yesterday afternoon at Brown field with the "Gold" eleven defeating the "Purples," 9 to 0.

Although the Golds emerged with victory, they were faced by a hard fighting eleven that out downed them two to one. The Purples made 14 first downs to seven for the winners.

Features of the contest were the passing of Don Short, and spinner plays run by Joe Ady, the blocking of Bill Singleton and the off tackle power drives of Mickey Westbrook.

The Golds scored first in the opening period as the result of a safety, and came through with a touchdown in the last quarter and added the extra point.

A bad pass from center got past Westbrook, Purple fullback, deep in Purple territory, and Westbrook, after running back to retrive the ball was covered behind his own goal for the Gold safety.

A 60-yard drive on running plays by Bill Wilford and Don Short resulted in the only touchdown of the game, with Short going over on a wide end sweep after the ball had been placed inches short of the goal. Wilford entered the game as a substitute for John Wilhite.

The passing of Short was exceptional in that every heave was completed. Although Short tossed only five aerials four were completed to John Malone, Gold end, and one was completed to Harry Morton, Gold halfback.

Good defensive ball was played by the opposing centers, Bill McManus and Guy Bryson, and Coach Jim Malone also showed other stellar defensive workers in Russell Kynock and Gordon Sout, ends; "Blondy" Evans, a tackle; and the veterans George Perry, tackle, and Bill Singleton, quarterback.

Participating in the game were ten freshmen, Harold Larsen, Bill McManus, "Blondy" Evans, John Malone, John Wilhite, Robert May, Buster Macon, James Peters, Russell Kynock and Tom Cook.

The lineups were:

BIG SHOTS PRACTICE FOR 4-BALL TILTS

CORAL GABLES, Fla., March 4.—(AP)—The big names in American golf buckled down to serious practice today for their annual hand-to-hand battles in the $5,000 international four-ball matches tomorrow—all except Walter Hagen who, as of yore, kept the boys guessing.

Much of the interest and most of the conjecture in this par-cracking derby centered around the Haig, who is 46 now but just as irresponsible and irrepressible as in the days when he burned up the fairways as golf's bad boy.

Hagen is due to return to the tournament wars as Gene Sarazen's partner in the four-ball, but not even Gene was sure today just where he was. Hagen was last reported in the vicinity of Biloxi, Miss., and the old-timers around the Miami Biltmore course wouldn't be surprised if he swaggered to the tee at post time with a grin, a hello and nary an explanation.

The Haig hasn't played in a tournament for months and hasn't won one in years but he still pulls the galleries whenever he chooses to play.

On solid form, however, the experts expected the fireworks to come from a half-dozen of the younger teams.

Dick Metz and Ky Laffoon won the four-ball last year and were installed co-favorites with Ralph Guldahl, the national open champion, and Sam Snead, who seems to be hitting his stride again.

First manufacturer of cooper sheets and bolts in the United States was Paul Revere. He supplied the copper sheathing for the old frigate, Constitution.

will be the first trip out of Ruston for the popular coach since his near-fatal accident near Bunkie more than a year ago. Eddie, who always has had a soft spot in his heart for Monroe, is all pepped up over his first visit here in many, many months.

"We're staging the card in Monroe as a sort of gesture of appreciation for the fine support your citizens have accorded Tech's athletic teams," McLane said yesterday. "Monroe fans have supported us wonderfully in the past and many of them have followed our teams wherever they went. Now we're going to bring an athletic event to them. They won't have to travel even as far as Ruston to see us in action."

Both Tech and Centenary are said to have good boxing squads this season and, with the traditional rivalry to spur them on, the battlers can be counted upon to give mitt fans an evening of rousing entertainment.

FISH STORY

Fishermen of the parish already have something big to shoot at—figuratively, not literally.

John Elmendorf brought into the office the other day a small-mouth bass weighing six pounds and nine ounces. He wouldn't tell where he caught it, but we'd swear it was Bayou DeSiard, and thus for the next ten months bass fishermen of the parish face a real challenge to top John's record for the year.

Elmendorf said he caught the beauty on a small fly rod, using a wet fly. He had quite a battle landing the fish, as could be expected from a bass that big.

BULL LEA WIDENER WINNER; STAGEHAND THIRD

21,000 WITNESS RACE; SIR DAMION FINISHES SECOND

Jockey Aboard Favorite Waits Too Long To Start Moving Horse Up

By Gayle Talbot

MIAMI, Fla., March 4.—(AP)—Bull Lea, tenacious big son of Bull Dog, tore the heart from six opponents and pounded home first today in the $50,000 added Widener challenge cup at Hialeah park before 21,000 surprised spectators.

Third choice in the betting, Bull Lea jumped into the lead at the head of the stretch and bounded away to win by three good lengths over Sir Damion, which was a half length in front of Stagehand, the odds-on-favorite. Maxwell Howard's colt ran into a horse he couldn't collar in his closing rush.

Backers of Warren Wright's victorious four-year-old collected $15.20 for $2 straight mutuel tickets, $4 to place and $2.20 to show. Sir Damion, coupled with Mrs. W. Plunket Stewart's Pasteurized as an entry of Trainer George M. Odom, paid $3.20 to place and $2.20 to show. The show price on Stagehand was the same. A total of $144,349 was bet on the race, setting a record here.

The closing day of Hialeah's season saw Sir Damion, owned by Marshall Field and ridden by the sensational Don Meade, assume a lead at the gate and hold it steadily until Irving Anderson called upon Bull Lea three lengths from home.

From that moment there wasn't a doubt. Stagehand's last previous defeat, incidentally, also was administered by Bull Lea—at Narragansett park last August.

The son of Sickle, trying to add today's rich prize to his two big money victories at Santa Anita last year, waited too long. As far as the half-mile pole he was last, far back of the pace-setters. When Jimmie Stout finally did urge him coming into the stretch it was apparent he didn't have a chance.

Earl Sande, the favorite's famous trainer, conceded defeat a furlong from the finish, turning away sadly and saying: "He waited too long—too long."

The first prize was $46,450 and ran Bull Lea's total winning to $94,825. Sir Damion's second place was worth $8,000 and Stagehand's third $4,000, putting him above the $200,000 mark. The winner's time of 2:02 2-5 was three-fifths of a second off the track record for the mile and a quarter route. Bull Lea carried 119 pounds to Stagehand's top 126.

Four of the seven starters, Pasteurized, Mythical King, Francesco and Xavier, never threatened. Pasteurized was a big disappointment, failing badly after moving briefly into third place a half mile out and winding up a dismal last, eight lengths behind Xavier, which had been entered only on the off-chance the track would be muddy.

As the race turned out, there was no real reason to bewail the absence of War Admiral, withdrawn earlier this week because of a fluctuating temperature. Stagehand's admirers had been sad because the Admiral wouldn't be in there to take a licking from their horse.

ARMSTRONG WHIPS PACHO, KEEPS TITLE

HAVANA, March 4.—(AP)—Henry Armstrong, welterweight champion, successfully defended his crown against Bobby Pacho of California here tonight winning with a fourth round technical knockout in a scheduled 15 round fight. More than 10,000 saw the fight.

Pacho weighed 147 and had a 13 pound advantage.

Pacho began tiring of the fast pace early in the fourth and Armstrong backed him against the ropes and slugged him with lefts and rights to the head.

Pacho's hands fell and he slowly slid to the canvas as Hammering Henry rained blows. Referee Jim Braddock stopped the fight and dragged Pacho to his corner.

DAVIS OF TECH PLEASED WITH GRID PROSPECTS

Football Coach Says Outlook 'Good As Far As Sophomores Go'

RUSTON, La., March 4.—(Special)—Louisiana Tech's football prospects for this fall are "good as far as sophomores go."

That's about as "bold" a declaration as one can get from Head Coach Ray E. Davis, with five weeks of spring practice gone by.

The people, including the boys who are digging in for Coach Davis, say "you can depend upon what Coach Davis says." So the chief mentor wouldn't mislead the public with any championship chatter that he might have to take back in the middle of the season.

Coach Davis said, however, that he is well pleased with the prospects so far.

"The boys are all working hard," the coach emphasized, "but the squad is top-heavy with sophomores who lack experience. It's a long way from college freshman football to varsity football, and the sophomores have a lot to learn.

"Every time we go on the field this fall, we will go on with determination to win. But if the boys maintain the same spirit they have shown this spring and still lose, I'll guarantee you that it won't be any disgrace to lose."

Asked about the weakest part of the Bulldog gridiron machinery, Coach Davis thought for several seconds and replied, "Well, you've got me there. I would say there is no particular weak point but rather that the progression of the whole team has been about equal."

Spring football drills will continue until the baseball season gets under way, Coach Davis said. Probably in May the gridders will be called back in shorts for light workouts "to keep their memories refreshed."

Out of a group of about 45 candidates for the varsity squad, more than 30 are sophomores. Although Coach Davis does not cling to the "two-team" idea of football, he has lined up two elevens consistently as starters in four regulation intra-squad games this spring. In these practice contests, he has made it possible for every candidate to show his mettle under fire.

JEFF HEATH SIGNS CLEVELAND CONTRACT

NEW ORLEANS, March 4.—(AP)—Oscar Vitt, manager of the Cleveland Indians, announced tonight that Jeff Heath, last season's hard-hitting rookie outfielder, had come to terms and signed a contract.

Heath last year batted .343 to become the second ranking hitter in the American league.

Vitt did not announce the terms of the contract, but it was believed it called for a salary of about $11,000. Heath first was offered $7,500 and turned it down. He has been here several days at the Indians' spring training camp.

BASEBALL PRACTICE SCHEDULED AT TECH

RUSTON, La., March 4.—(Special)—Candidates for Louisiana Tech's 1939 varsity baseball squad are scheduled to report for practice Monday afternoon, Coach Ray Davis has announced.

Since excavating is under way for a new boys' dormitory on the old Tech baseball ground, the Ruston High school diamond will be used temporarily for workouts, it was stated. Later, the baseball field at Woodland park, about two miles southeast of Ruston, will be used for the Tech games.

A new baseball diamond will be constructed on the west part of the Tech campus, with the WPA cooperating in the project.

Among the veterans to compose the nucleus for the Bulldog nine this spring will be Joe Williams, Charlie Caston, Jimmy Sumrall, outfielders; Ray Sheppard, infielder; Harold Napper and Pat Meeks, catchers, and Lawrence (Lefty) Hinton and Clyde Stinnett, pitchers. Several promising sophomores also will be at the service of Coach Davis.

Freshman baseball aspirants will not report for practice until after spring football drills close.

Wayne Sabin Takes Men's Indoor Title; Pauline Betz, Women's

NEW YORK, March 4.—(AP)—The Pacific coast, ruler of tennis these many years, mopped up the floor of the seventh regiment armory today in a clean sweep of singles titles in the national indoor net championships.

Wayne Sabin, bright Davis Cup prospect from Portland, Ore., took the men's crown and pretty Pauline Betz, this tourney's top "upsetter" from Los Angeles captured the women's honors. Neither ran into any considerable difficulty.

Sabin, top-seeded in the tournament, trounced the veteran Frank Bowden, of New York, 6-3, 5-7, 6-3, 6-1, leaving Bowden still the "always-a-bridesmaid-but-never-a-bride" performer of the indoor event. Big husky Bowden has been in the final of this tournament for the last three years.

Miss Betz, who accounted for top-seeded Norma Taubele and third-ranked Barbara Nields in earlier round matches, came through with a 7-5, 4-6, 6-1 victory over Helen Bernhard of New York in a weird clash to take the women's crown.

Successful in her first try at national competition, the California 19-year-old did her best to make short work of Miss Bernhard. But the New Yorker, having been informed a lobbing game would take the edge off Miss Betz' speed, played "pitty-pat" through the first two sets.

Miss Betz, after falling into costly errors trying to speed the game up, finally reverted to the same type of play and the result was a contest with all the thrills of a race between two lame turtles.

For three sets of the men's finals, Bowden's driving smashing game and his "sly" placement shots made a hot battle of it, but Sabin came out after the intermission following the third set and took four straight games. He made only eight errors through the set, and, but for Bowden's ability to clip the corners with passing shots, would have made even more of a runaway than he did.

Miss Taubele and Grace Surber of New York annexed the women's doubles title without difficulty, beating Jean Wright and Josephine Sanfilippo of Brooklyn, 6-1, 6-2.

The men's doubles final proved an upset. A pair of veteran board-court players, Dr. Eugene McCauliff of Yonkers, N. Y., and Clifford Sutter of New York, former intercollegiate champion from Tulane, defeated Sabin and John Shostrom of Chicago, 4-6, 18-16, 6-4, 6-3.

MAIN MAN THIRD, SPECIFY FOURTH AS RECORD FALLS

Track Mark Shattered By Winner Under Fine Ride By Jockey Adams

By Robert Myers

LOS ANGELES, March 4.—(AP)—Kayak II, brilliant Argentine-bred 4-year-old and the public betting favorite, crashed through with a gallant stretch drive today to win the world's richest horse race—the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap.

Flashing the colors of Charles S. Howard, who was trying for the third time for the big purse, Kayak II overhauled the two speed burners, Major Austin C. Taylor's Whichcee and A. A. Baroni's Specify, as the field of 16 hurtled into the turn going into the home stretch, and with a burst of speed drove to the front to capture first prize of $91,100 by a length and quarter over Whichcee, and hang up a new track record.

Specify, worn out from the mad speed duel with Whichcee in the mile and one quarter grind, faded to fourth place as Louis B. Mayer's Main Man pulled up to grab the show position.

It was a brilliant renewal of the big 'cap, the fifth held, and the roar of a record crowd of 65,000 people, who plunged in $376,685 on the outcome, echoed back from the hazy blue Sierra Madre mountains.

Jockey Johnny Adams rode this Howard colt with rare ability and did it just as Stagehand triumphed over the lame Howard star, Seabiscuit, a year ago. He came from behind and the time was 2:01 2-5, bettering the time of Stagehand's track record of 2:01 3-5.

All betting records at Santa Anita park were broken for the day when a total of $1,701,760 was wagered through the pari-mutuel machines for the eight-race program. The previous high mark, set on handicap day in 1938, was $1,635,069.

Kayak II, son of Congreve and purchased by Howard a year or so ago for some $7,000 in Buenos Aires, was coupled with his South American running mate, Sorteado, in the betting, and paid $8 to win, $4.40 to place and $4 to show.

Whichcee, which tried and failed to get in the money of the $100,000 race last year, collected $20,000 second prize money and paid off at $6.20 and $4.80. Main Man, rated bare outsider chance, paid $9.60. He was paired with Quick Devil.

The sun still was high when the 16 thoroughbreds paraded to the post and long lines of the huge crowd fought to get their bets down. Heelfly, A. G. Vanderbilt's entry, unseated Joskey Harry Richards to hold up the start, and then Specify, with Charlie Corbett in the irons, proved so fractious he was taken from the No. 4 position, next to Heelfly and started from outside the gate.

The Baroni candiate, Whichcee, Thanksgiving and Main Man were leading the rush down past the grandstand the first time, and then as the field rounded the first turn and on in to the back stretch, Jockey Basil James kept Whichcee in the heated battle with Specify, but slightly under restraint. Main Man never was far off the pace, and Cravat, a 6-1 shot in the betting as second choice to Kayak II was outrun during the early stages and could not catch up with the flying leaders.

At the three quarters it was Whichcee, Specify and Main Man, with Kayak II behind. Specify faded on the drive to the wire, and the Argentine flash roared up on the outside to outdistance the still speedy Whichcee.

The other leading candidates in this supposedly wide open race—wide open until Kayak II began to close it up with that charge down the stretch—never were serious challengers. The entry of Neil MaCarthy's Today and Nelson Howard's Gosum, which closed at about 9-2, and Thanksgiving, Jacola, Heelfly and Congressman, to name the leaders, couldn't keep up with this burning track record pace.

Finishing behind Kayak II, Whichcee, Main Man and Specify, in order, were Today, Jacola, Cravat, Gosum, War Minstrel, Heelfly, Quick Devil, Frexo, Congressman, Thanksgiving, Sorteado and Melodist.

Trainer Tom Smith, who twice sent Seabiscuit into the Santa Anita and twice saw him beaten out by a nose, received a present of $10,000 tendered by the Los Angeles Turf club for the winning trainer.

Main Man's third place was worth $10,000 to his wealthy movie mogul owner, and Baroni, who won over $100,000 with his Top Row in the 1936 handicap, received $5,000 for fourth place.

Weather conditions were perfect and the crowd was the biggest in Santa Anita's history, but the betting handle for the feature race fell short of the $406,944 set last year.

Eighteen horses were entered for the handicap, but Olimpo and Amor Brujo were declared out before post time. Instead they ran in the fourth race, the Hurlingham Handicap at a mile and one sixteenth and Olimpo, owned by Bing Crosby and Lin Howard, the son of C. S. Howard, romped in first. Amor Brujo ran out of the money.

MARSHALL-MONTGOMERY BATTLE IS POSTPONED

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 4.—(AP)—Promoter Milo Solomito announced today he had postponed a heavyweight bout between Jack Marshall of Dallas and Lloyd Montgomery of Bauxite, Ark., from March 9 to March 31.

Solomito said Montgomery's manager had asked for the delay because the Arkansan had an injured hand.

In their first meeting at Jackson, Miss., Marshall decisioned Montgomery.

Workouts In Preparation For Defense Of S. I. A. A. Title Launched

NATCHITOCHES, La., March 4.—(Special)—Switching from spring football training regalia to track togs this week, Louisiana State Normal college athletes began a series of workouts for the 1939 season on the cinder path and field in defense of their 1938 S. I. A. A. championship won in the conference meet in Pineville last spring.

Preparation for the spring sport comes after an intensive six weeks' grid training season.

Although the outlook for the track team as a whole is good, the loss of three record-breakers, two in field events and one in the middle distances, will be apparent.

Returning to the squad this year are Steve Harmon, conference 440-yard champ; Walter Ledet, shot and discus S. I. A. A. champion; Willard Jackson, winner in the 100-yard dash and low hurdles races in conference circles last year, and Burnell Webb, conference champ in the 220-yard dash in 1938.

Promising sophomore candidates for the squad this season are Parker Wiggins, hurdles and broad jump; 'Bama Wright, half-mile and mile events; Ernest Tyler, 220 and 440-yard races and the broad jump; Frank Pruitt, discus and shot, and Roland Migues, sprints and broad jump.

Working to fill the gap left by Billy Parker, javelin hurler, are Starnes, Subat, Moncla and T. Elkins. In the high jump Ledet and Tyler will fill in for McGee, while Pruitt, Migues, P. Wiggins and Pernici will handle the broad jump event. The distance races will feature last year's veterans, Gordon Wiggins, Scott, Perry and Sneed.

The first competition for the Demon thinclads this year will come on March 25 in the annual Southwestern relays in Lafayette.

INDIANS ENGAGE IN INTRA-SQUAD FOOTBALL GAME

Golds Defeat Purples, 9-0, In Training Tilt At Northeast Center

After two weeks of spring football training, the Northeast Center of L. S. U. Indians clashed in an intra-squad battle, under regulation game conditions, yesterday afternoon at Brown field with the "Gold" eleven defeating the "Purples," 9 to 0.

Although the Golds emerged with victory, they were faced by a hard fighting eleven that out downed them two to one. The Purples made 14 first downs to seven for the winners.

Features of the contest were the passing of Don Short, and spinner plays run by Joe Ady, the blocking of Bill Singleton and the off tackle power drives of Mickey Westbrook.

The Golds scored first in the opening period as the result of a safety, and came through with a touchdown in the last quarter and added the extra point.

A bad pass from center got past Westbrook, Purple fullback, deep in Purple territory, and Westbrook, after running back to retrive the ball was covered behind his own goal for the Gold safety.

A 60-yard drive on running plays by Bill Wilford and Don Short resulted in the only touchdown of the game, with Short going over on a wide end sweep after the ball had been placed inches short of the goal. Wilford entered the game as a substitute for John Wilhite.

The passing of Short was exceptional in that every heave was completed. Although Short tossed only five aerials four were completed to John Malone, Gold end, and one was completed to Harry Morton, Gold halfback.

Good defensive ball was played by the opposing centers, Bill McManus and Guy Bryson, and Coach Jim Malone also showed other stellar defensive workers in Russell Kynock and Gordon Sout, ends; "Blondy" Evans, a tackle; and the veterans George Perry, tackle, and Bill Singleton, quarterback.

Participating in the game were ten freshmen, Harold Larsen, Bill McManus, "Blondy" Evans, John Malone, John Wilhite, Robert May, Buster Macon, James Peters, Russell Kynock and Tom Cook.

The lineups were:

NEW ORLEANS, March 4.—(AP)—Roidef, alertly ridden by E. Hanke, won the Spanish Fort Handicap at the Fair Grounds today at the long odds of $86.40 for $2.

Under the light impost of 99 pounds, Roidef got off to a fine start as some horses were away poorly, and with hard urging closed in gamely on Old Rosebush in the stretch and drew away. The latter, under 116 pounds, headed Bunny Baby, which closed fast to take third place from the rush of Knee Deep.

Roidef covered the six furlongs in 1:14 4-5.

RETAINS CROWN

JACKSON, Miss., March 4.—(AP)—Playing without a substitution through a furious battle, Mississippi college here tonight retained its Dixie conference title by defeating Howard 49 to 39 in the tournament finals.

BIG SHOTS PRACTICE FOR 4-BALL TILTS

CORAL GABLES, Fla., March 4.—(AP)—The big names in American golf buckled down to serious practice today for their annual hand-to-hand battles in the $5,000 international four-ball matches tomorrow—all except Walter Hagen who, as of yore, kept the boys guessing.

Much of the interest and most of the conjecture in this par-cracking derby centered around the Haig, who is 46 now but just as irresponsible and irrepressible as in the days when he burned up the fairways as golf's bad boy.

Hagen is due to return to the tournament wars as Gene Sarazen's partner in the four-ball, but not even Gene was sure today just where he was. Hagen was last reported in the vicinity of Biloxi, Miss., and the oldtimers around the Miami Biltmore course wouldn't be surprised if he swaggered to the tee at post time with a grin, a hello and nary an explanation.

The Haig hasn't played in a tournament for months and hasn't won one in years but he still pulls the galleries whenever he chooses to play.

On solid form, however, the experts expected the fireworks to come from a half-dozen of the younger teams.

Dick Metz and Ky Laffoon won the four-ball last year and were installed co-favorites with Ralph Guldahl, the national open champion, and Sam Snead, who seems to be hitting his stride again.

First manufacturer of cooper sheets and bolts in the United States was Paul Revere. He supplied the copper sheathing for the old frigate, Constitution.

will be the first trip out of Ruston for the popular coach since his near-fatal accident near Bunkie more than a year ago. Eddie, who always has had a soft spot in his heart for Monroe, is all pepped up over his first visit here in many, many months.

"We're staging the card in Monroe as a sort of gesture of appreciation for the fine support your citizens have accorded Tech's athletic teams," McLane said yesterday. "Monroe fans have supported us wonderfully in the past and many of them have followed our teams wherever they went. Now we're going to bring an athletic event to them. They won't have to travel even as far as Ruston to see us in action."

Both Tech and Centenary are said to have good boxing squads this season and, with the traditional rivalry to spur them on, the battlers can be counted upon to give mitt fans an evening of rousing entertainment.

FISH STORY

Fishermen of the parish already have something big to shoot at—figuratively, not literally.

John Elmendorf brought into the office the other day a small-mouth bass weighing six pounds and nine ounces. He wouldn't tell where he caught it, but we'd swear it was Bayou DeSiard, and thus for the next ten months bass fishermen of the parish face a real challenge to top John's record for the year.

Elmendorf said he caught the beauty on a small fly rod, using a wet fly. He had quite a battle landing the fish, as could be expected from a bass that big.

...TRACK MEET

...Have Filed Entries By Today For Ouachita Relay Carnival

...track and field teams ... have filed plans to enter the first ... Ouachita Parish High school ... carnival here March 17 are be... pressed by Coach Woodrow W. ... that the deadline for filing ... has been set for next Satur...

The carnival should attract many ... of this area in view of the fact ... an abundance of medals and ... are to be awarded and the ... that no entry fee is being charged.

While no school has officially filed an entry yet, several have shown interest in the program as outlined by Coach Turner in invitations sent them some time ago.

Coach John Whatley at Rayville expressed intentions of entering the Hornets in the meet in a letter to Coach Turner last week, and a communication from Bolton at Alexandria was also to the effect that the Bruins hoped to have a team ready in time to participate.

Delhi and Bastrop are also reported as planning to participate.

One hundred and ten invitations were mailed to schools throughout Louisiana, south Arkansas and western Mississippi. Of coure it would quite exceed the expectations of the promoters if a majority of the invites were accepted, but nevertheless the relay carnival is expected to draw a big entry.

Coach Turner has been working his Ouachita Lions steadily the past few days in preparation for the meet, and he sent them through an exceptionally long drill yesterday.

The Lions, however, have not yet been assigned to any particular event although most members of the squad are already specializing in one or two events.

Coach Turner announced last night that he would assign places to his charges next Saturday.

to a single free toss tally and moved out to take a 24 to 19 advantage at the intermission.

With a five-point lead at half time, the Kentuckians lapsed shortly after the second frame opened and Tennessee pulled up to a count of 29-28. But the one-point deficit was as close as the Volunteers could get.

Tennessee, which lost to Kentucky in the finals here in 1937 by 25-39, lost two of its ace performers, Frank Thomas and Gilbert Huffman, on fouls late in the game.

Kentucky also lost two players via the personal foul route—two centers, Cluggish and Walker Thompson—but the Blue Grass quintet had too much of a command at the time to feel the loss.

TROJANS BEAT BULLDOGS

The Trojan softball team defeated the Bulldogs, 9 to 8, on the Ouachita Parish Grammar school grounds yesterday. Cox, Gonzales and Durham led the victors' hitting, while Foster hit best for the losers. The batteries were Durham and Higdon, Trojans; Jacola and Minor, Bulldogs.

OHIO STATE WINS TITLE

COLUMBUS, O., March 4.—(AP)—Ohio State university won the Big Ten conference basketball championship tonight, defeating Purdue, 51 to 35, while Michigan was beating Indiana, 53 to 45, in their last games of the season.

TRAINING CAMP NOTES

TIGERS

LAKELAND, Fla., March 4.—(AP)—The pitchers started throwing curves in the training camp of the Detroit Tigers today after only one week of training.

"Few pitchers ever throw a curve before they've been in training two or three weeks," Manager Del Baker said. "I've thought for some time that pitchers were making a mistake in throwing only fast balls in the early stages of training because their muscles get in a groove and then, when they start curving the ball, they come up with sore arms."

REDS

TAMPA, Fla., March 4.—(AP)—Ernie Lombardi, Cincinnati Reds catcher, announced today that he was fully recovered from a recent attack of influenza and ready for another hard season of baseball.

"I'll give 'em all I've got," said the big catcher who last season won both the National league batting championship and the most valuable player award.

WHITE SOX

PASADENA, Calif., March 4.—(AP)—Manager Jimmy Dykes received a wire today from Mrs. Gerald Walker saying an attack of flu would prevent her husband, the White Sox outfielder, from reporting at spring training camp for several days.

The message said Walker was in bed at Hot Springs, Ark. Dykes apparently was upset over the report, not only because of Walker's forced delay but he feared the effects of the illness on the Garden mainstay.

CUBS

AVALON, Calif., March 4.—(AP)—The Chicago Cubs were all in the fold today with the signing of Outfielder Hank Leiber and the arrival of all the infielders and outfielders to the island training site. First drill for the second squad is scheduled for Sunday morning.

PHILLIES

NEW BRAUNFELS, Tex., March 4.—(AP)—Catcher Bill Lee wood injected zest into the batting practice today, swatting the offerings of various Phillies pitchers into remote reaches of Landa park. "This is like old times," he said with a broad grin. Reason: Manager Doc Prothro ordered him to return to his former free-swinging style, which Jimmy Wilson altered last year to vary the husky backstop's range.

ATHLETICS

LAKE CHARLES, La., March 4.—(AP)—Connie Mack surveyed the assemblage of rookies and veterans in the Athletics training camp today with a circumspect eye, trying to line up squads. The fiery play of Bill Lillard at short and Lodigiani at third tabbed them as likely for the first lineup. An approving smile crossed Mack's countenance at the slugging feats of Sam Chapman, Dick Seibert and Bob Johnson.

INDIANS

NEW ORLEANS, March 4.—(AP)—Manager Oscar Vitt reminded his Cleveland Indians today they were in the southland for serious training and departed from the custom of his predecessors by ordering practice as usual for Sunday.

Coaches, meanwhile, kept watchful eyes on Rookie Ray Mack of Cleveland, very much in the running for a second base job, and Hurler Bob Feller, who hasn't touched a baseball to date but is getting abundant exercise running in the outfield and stretching his arm.

CARDINALS

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 4.—(AP)—This was "camera day" at the St. Louis Cardinals' training camp, so, with all the posing for pictures, there wasn't much else accomplished.

After the photographers were through, Manager Ray Blades devoted the rest of the day to batting practice, with a brief infield workout.

"We're getting along fine," he said. "In fact, we're so far advanced that I'm going to have only one workout tomorrow.

DODGERS

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 4.—(AP)—Manager Leo Durocher split his Brooklyn Dodgers into two teams and a five-inning battle between nines captained by Coaches Bill Killefer and Charlie Dressen featured the workout today. The game ended in a 4 to 4 tie. Babe Phelps, who signed his contract yesterday, and Goodie Rosen hit home runs for the Killefers while Gene Moore, acquired from the Boston Bees last winter, was the leading batter for the Dressens.

BROWNS

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 4.—(AP)—A bench-warmer with the Yankees, Catcher Joe Glenn, obtained by the St. Louis Browns in a winter deal, jumped right in today on his campaign to win the regular backstop berth. He showed power at bat as the Browns' batterymen went through a long training drill under a hot sun.

GIANTS

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., March 4.—(AP)—The New York Giants, who have been taking preliminary workouts and baths here, packed up today and left for their regular training camp at Baton Rouge, La. Although several of them were suffering from heavy colds, Manager Bill Terry was well satisfied with the results of the conditioning period. The big problem just ahead is Burgess Whitehead, out all last season, who is due to report at Baton Rouge with the main squad Monday.

YANKEES

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 4.—(AP)—Summing up at the end of the first week of spring training, Manager Joe McCarthy of the New York Yankees said today the Yanks have "the three classiest rookies that ever hit a big league camp at one time." The three are Charley Keller, Joe Gallagher and Buddy Rosar, who may stick all season. Lefty Gomez came up with a slightly sore arm today as a result of tossing some curves in hitting practice.

150,000 TO SEE POPE CORONATED

the holy father will be carried from the basilica on a portable throne. He will ascend a temporary throne erected on the balcony and there receive the golden triple tiara from the hands of Camillo Cardinal Caccia-Dominioni, deas of the order of deacons.

Soon after the coronation, possibly on the following Sunday, March 19, which is St. Joseph's festival, the pontiff is expected to leave the Vatican for the first time since his accession and take possession of the basilica of St. John Lateran, the pope's cathedral as bishop of Rome.

Pope Pius' second full day of his reign was taken up with conferences with members of the hierarchy as he settled into the routine of administering the vast affairs of the church.

His holiness reappointed the aged Monsignor Mella di Sant'elia as papal chamberlain and Vatican circles expected he would announce soon his own successor as papal secretary of state.

BODY OF SLAIN NEGRO IS FOUND

The body of a negro man, tentatively identified as Grant Hughes, 60, was found lying near the railroad tracks at 23rd and Grammont streets last night, according to a report by police, who were investigating evidence of foul play.

Dr. Irving J. Wolff, parish coroner, who investigated the case, was quoted as saying the negro met his death at the "hands of a party or parties unknown." A sharp instrument, such as a meat cleaver or an axe, had apparently been used in slaying the negro, who had a long, deep gash in his forehead.

The victim was tentatively identified by a social security card which he had on his person. No motive for anyone's slaying the negro was reported. He was believed to have resided in Doc Moore's alley.

TO ATTEND BEAUTY MEET

The Monroe Beauty shop, 315 Harrison street, will be represented at the Mid-west Beauty Trade school, Hotel Sherman, Chicago, this week. Those who will attend are Mrs. Myrtice Dodd, Lois Smith, Mildred Day and Edith Chambers.

CLEMSON TRIUMPHS

RALEIGH, N. C., March 4.—(AP)—The Clemson Tigers, darkhorse giant-killers who showed better form the more games they played, took the championship of the Southern conference basketball tournament tonight with a 39-to-27 upset of Maryland's Old Liners.

LIBERTY CALLED BEST GUARANTEE

and silent while religious liberty was denied in other lands, but would use every "peaceful means" to preserve religious and personal freedom.

"Where democracy is snuffed out there, too, the right to worship God in one's own way is circumscribed or abrogated," he said. "Shall we by our passiveness, by our silence, by assuming the attitude of the Levite who pulled his skirts together and passed by on the other side lend encouragement to those who today persecute religion or deny it?

"The answer is 'no,' just as in the days of the first congress of the United States it was 'no'".

Chief Justice Hughes said the most significant fact in connection with the anniversary "is that after 150 years notwithstanding expansion of territory, enormous increase in population and profound economic changes, despite direct attack and subversive influences, there is every indication that the vastly preponderant sentiment of the American people is that our form of government shall be preserved."

Again, the president described the bill of rights, with its guarantees of freedom of worship, freedom of the speech, of the press and of assembly, as containing a "vast chasm between our representative democracy and those reversions to personal rule which have characterized these recent years."

"Our guarantees of fair trials," Mr. Hughes said, "of due process in the protection of life, liberty and property—which stands between the citizens and arbitrary power—of religious freedom, of free speech, free press and free assembly, are the safeguards which have erected against the abuses threatened by gusts of passion and prejudice which in misguided zeal would destroy the basic interests of democracy."

But while the chief executive suggested modern times demanded speed in adjusting our government to meet new problems, Hughes said the inherent delays of democracy assured deliberate judgment.

The president, mentioning the phrase "horse and buggy days"—which he used in describing the supreme court's 1935 decision invalidating NRA, said it is not used as a term of derogation. He continued:

"We use it rather to explain the tedious delays and the local antangonisms which beset our early paths, and we use it perhaps to remind our citizens of today that the automobile, the railroad, the airplane, the electrical impulse over the wire, and through the ether leave to no citizen an excuse for sectionalism, for delay in the execution of the public business or for a failure to maintain a full understanding of the acceleration of the processes of civilization."

Said the chief justice:

"If our checks and balances sometimes prevent the speedy action which is thought desirable, they also assure in the long run a more deliberate judgment. And what the people want they generally get. With the ultimate power of change through amendment in their hands they are always able to obtain whatever a preponderant and abiding sentiment demands."

The session was one of impressive formality.

The galleries were packed, and among the spectators there were the president's wife and mother.

Speaker Bankhead spoke briefly, asserting the present was a time for "reappraising the soundness and desirability of our democratic form of government." He mentioned "certain sinister influences and minorities" and suggested that the nation had, perhaps been too generous in its hospitality to such elements.

Senator Pittman, Democrat, Nevada, president pro-tempore of the senate, reviewed the first session of congress 150 years ago. Gladys Swarthout and John Charles Thomas, opera stars, sang "America" and "The Star Spangled Banner."

The nation's "house" was built with the writing of the constitution, the president said, but it had to be made "habitable" by the addition of the bill of rights.

He enumerated the rights guaranteed by it: jury trial, freedom from unlawful search and seizures, freedom of assembly and freedom to petition congress.

"Freedom of speech," he continued. "Yes, that too is unchecked, for never has there been so much of it on every side of every subject. . . .

"Freedom of the press—I take it that no sensible man or woman believes that it has been curtailed or threatened or that it should be. . . . Representative democracy will never tolerate suppression of true news at the behest of government.

Then, discussing freedom of religion, he went on to say that this country would not be silent at its denial elsewhere in the world for, he said, "that essential of the rights of mankind goes back also to the origins of representative government."

SHIRTWAISTERS GO EVENING

Most intriguing of all the shirtwaisters are the dinner and evening ensembles. Just by choosing the right blouse, one can be as casual or as formal as one likes. Skirt and blouse may be of one material, as is seen in navy and white silk dinner shirtwaister with a narrow red kid belt. Or the skirt may be of a dark sheer wool, slim at the hips and flaring at the hemline, worn with a fine silk stud shirt and a wide commerbund in a third color to give a narrow, high-waisted effect. Broadened shoulders, long voluminous sleeves gathered into narrow tight wristbands distinguish many of the blouses, although some of the dainty, frilly white cottons are short-sleeved. Skirts are, of course, evening length and very full, wide gored or pleated.

Oil And Gas News

NEW ORLEANS, March 4.—(AP)—Ten new wells in Louisiana oil fields, with total initial daily production of 2,946 barrels, are listed in the weekly report of the minerals division of the department of conservation, made public Saturday.

Largest potential producer of the week was a new well on the southwest flank of the Bay St. Elaine field in Terrebonne parish, which flowed at the rate of 357 barrels daily through a one-eighth inch choke, the smallest opening used for production in the state. Largest actual producer was a well in the new Shreveport field which flowed at the rate of 594 barrels through a quarter inch choke.

Twenty-one permits to drill were issued during the week, of which 11 were for operations in south Louisiana fields. Eight of the 10 north Louisiana permits were for wells in Caddo parish.

Average daily production of crude production in Louisiana fields during the week ending February 25 was estimated by the department at 266,905 barrels, of which 195,850 barrels were from the gulf coast fields and 71,055 barrels from north Louisiana.

New producers listed, with date of completion ranging from February 1 to February 28 were:

Bancroft, Beauregard parish, Republic Production company, No. 5 Lutcher-Moore, 403 barrels.

Bay St. Elaine, Terrebonne parish, the Texas company, No. B-2 State, 357 barrels.

Charenton, St. Mary parish Knisely Oils, Inc., No. 3 W. E. Hortel, No. 3 Paul LeBlanc, 315 barrels, No. 4 Paul LeBlanc, 83 barrels, No. 5 Rovicheaux, 8 barrels.

Shreveport, Caddo parish, R. L. Bauman, No. 1 Emile Dorian, 264 barrels; Harry Hanbury, No. 1 S. G. Sample, 594 barrels.

Ville Platte, Evangeline parish, Continental Oil company, No. 1 Fontenot-Deshotels, 259 barrels, No. 2 J. E. Vidrine, 360 barrels.

Zwolle, Sabine parish, Clyde Creighton, No. 1 Bowman-Hicks, 104 barrels.

New permits issued follow:

Acadia parish, Atlantic Refining company, No. 1 A. Doga, Gulf Refining company, No. 41 Arnaudet.

Avoyelles parish—Pomo Petroleum company No. 1 Sentell.

Caddo parish—J. P. Adams et al, No. 1 M. C. Stallcup, R. E. Allison Drilling company, No. 1 Louisiana Real Estate and Development company, and No. 1 S. J. Harmon; F. W. Burford, No. 3 H. Clay-Brown; Burnham Drilling company, No. 1 Tom Bell; Leon Dunn, No. 1 Raymond Nelson, et al; Ralph Gilster, No. 1 DeSoto corporation; A. R. Handock, No. 6 Helpman, et al.

Calcasieu parish—Continental Oil company, No 2 J. H. Moss estate.

Cameron parish—Humble Oil and Refining company, No. 2 Cameron school board.

Evangeline parish—Continental Oil company, No. 3 Tate-McDaniel and No. 4 McDonald.

Iberia parish—Lisbon-Iberia Oil company, No. 7 Gulf Refining company fee.

Iberville parish—Humble Oil and Refining company, No. 1 Wilberts' sons.

Jefferson Davis parish, Union Sulphur company, No. 1 Donovan and O'Connor.

Ouachita parish—Southern Carbon company, No. 5 Richland plantation.

St. Mary parish—Pan-American Production company, No. 6 E. J. Robicheaux.

Union parish—United Carbon company, No. 2 N. R. Nolan.

NEW YORK STOCKS

By Victor Eubank

NEW YORK, March 4.—(AP)—The stock market rally faltered today after an early upswing in which numerous issues again stepped into high ground for the past year or so.

Profit-taking on Friday's bulge, and the desire of some traders to lighten commitments pending the president's speech to congress, due shortly after noon, were believed by brokers to have contributed to the slow-down in the forward push.

While fractional gains were plentiful at the close, and a number of isolated strong spots were in evidence, many recent leaders were unable to make headway and small minor signs were plentiful. Aircrafts were among the principal losers.

Overnight buying orders, both domestic and foreign, enlivened the opening with blocks of 1,000 to 5,000 shares changing hands. The ticker tape, however, managed to keep up and the pace slackened appreciably in later proceedings. At that, transfers for the two hours were around 600,000 shares.

Steel shares acted tired following the remarks of Chairman Girdler of Republic in which he suggested to stockholders that increased prices throughout the industry were "sorely needed to permit a reasonable return on investment." The American Iron and Steel institute, though, reported 451,000 workers were now being employed by the steel makers, the largest number in 10 months.

Renewed strength in United States rubber preferred was taken as a response to the company's earnings jump in the final half of last year which enabled the concern to more than offset a deficit in the first six months.

United States government and secondary rails bonds continued to move higher. Commodities were narrow.

DEADLINE NEAR FOR TRACK MEET

Teams Must File Entries By Saturday For Ouachita Relay Carnival

High school track and field teams of this area that plan to enter the first annual Ouachita Parish High school Relay carnival here March 17 are being warned by Coach Woodrow W. Turner that the deadline for filing entries has been set for next Saturday.

The carnival should attract many schools of this area in view of the fact that an abundance of medals and trophies are to be awarded and the fact that no entry fee is being charged.

While no school has officially filed an entry yet, several have shown interest in the program as outlined by Coach Turner in invitations sent them some time ago.

Coach John Whatley at Rayville expressed intentions of entering the Hornets in the meet in a letter to Coach Turner last week, and a communication from Bolton at Alexandria was also to the effect that the Bruins hoped to have a team ready in time to participate.

Delhi and Bastrop are also reported as planning to participate.

One hundred and ten invitations were mailed to schools throughout Louisiana, south Arkansas and western Mississippi. Of coure it would quite exceed the expectations of the promoters if a majority of the invites were accepted, but nevertheless the relay carnival is expected to draw a big entry.

Coach Turner has been working his Ouachita Lions steadily the past few days in preparation for the meet, and he sent them through an exceptionally long drill yesterday.

The Lions, however, have not yet been assigned to any particular event although most members of the squad are already specializing in one or two events.

Coach Turner announced last night that he would assign places to his charges next Saturday.

to a single free toss tally and moved out to take a 24 to 19 advantage at the intermission.

With a five-point lead at half time, the Kentuckians lapsed shortly after the second frame opened and Tennessee pulled up to a count of 29-28. But the one-point deficit was as close as the Volunteers could get.

Tennessee, which lost to Kentucky in the finals here in 1937 by 25-39, lost two of its ace performers, Frank Thomas and Gilbert Huffman, on fouls late in the game.

Kentucky also lost two players via the personal foul route—two centers, Cluggish and Walker Thompson—but the Blue Grass quintet had too much of a command at the time to feel the loss.

TROJANS BEAT BULLDOGS

The Trojan softball team defeated the Bulldogs, 9 to 8, on the Ouachita Parish Grammar school grounds yesterday. Cox, Gonzales and Durham led the victors' hitting, while Foster hit best for the losers. The batteries were Durham and Higdon, Trojans; Jacola and Minor, Bulldogs.

TRAINING CAMP NOTES

TIGERS

LAKELAND, Fla., March 4.—(AP)—The pitchers started throwing curves in the training camp of the Detroit Tigers today after only one week of training.

"Few pitchers ever throw a curve before they've been in training two or three weeks," Manager Del Baker said. "I've thought for some time that pitchers were making a mistake in throwing only fast balls in the early stages of training because their muscles get in a groove and then, when they start curving the ball, they come up with sore arms."

REDS

TAMPA, Fla., March 4.—(AP)—Ernie Lombardi, Cincinnati Reds catcher, announced today that he was fully recovered from a recent attack of influenza and ready for another hard season of baseball.

"I'll give 'em all I've got," said the big catcher who last season won both the National league batting championship and the most valuable player award.

WHITE SOX

PASADENA, Calif., March 4.—(AP)—Manager Jimmy Dykes received a wire today from Mrs. Gerald Walker saying an attack of flu would prevent her husband, the White Sox outfielder, from reporting at spring training camp for several days.

The message said Walker was in bed at Hot Springs, Ark. Dykes apparently was upset over the report, not only because of Walker's forced delay but he feared the effects of the illness on the Garden mainstay.

CUBS

AVALON, Calif., March 4.—(AP)—The Chicago Cubs were all in the fold today with the signing of Outfielder Hank Leiber and the arrival of all the infielders and outfielders to the island training site. First drill for the second squad is scheduled for Sunday morning.

PHILLIES

NEW BRAUNFELS, Tex., March 4.—(AP)—Catcher Bill Atwood injected zest into the batting practice today, swatting the offerings of various Phillies pitchers into remote reaches of Landa park. "This is like old times," he said with a broad grin. Reason: Manager Doc Prothro ordered him to return to his former free-swinging style, which Jimmy Wilson altered last year to vary the husky backstop's range.

ATHLETICS

LAKE CHARLES, La., March 4.—(AP)—Connie Mack surveyed the assemblage of rookies and veterans in the Athletics training camp today with a circumspect eye, trying to line up squads. The fiery play of Bill Lillard at short and Lodigiani at third tabbed them as likely for the first lineup. An approving smile crossed Mack's countenance at the slugging feats of Sam Chapman, Dick Seibert and Bob Johnson.

INDIANS

NEW ORLEANS, March 4.—(AP)—Manager Oscar Vitt reminded his Cleveland Indians today they were in the southland for serious training and departed from the custom of his predecessors by ordering practice as usual for Sunday.

Coaches, meanwhile, kept watchful eyes on Rookie Ray Mack of Cleveland, very much in the running for a second base job, and Hurler Bob Feller, who hasn't touched a baseball to date but is getting abundant exercise running in the outfield and stretching his arm.

CARDINALS

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 4.—(AP)—This was "camera day" at the St. Louis Cardinals' training camp, so, with all the posing for pictures, there wasn't much else accomplished.

After the photographers were through, Manager Ray Blades devoted the rest of the day to batting practice, with a brief infield workout.

"We're getting along fine," he said. "In fact, we're so far advanced that I'm going to have only one workout tomorrow.

DODGERS

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 4.—(AP)—Manager Leo Durocher split his Brooklyn Dodgers into two teams and a five-inning battle between nines captained by Coaches Bill Killefer and Charlie Dressen featured the workout today. The game ended in a 4 to 4 tie. Babe Phelps, who signed his contract yesterday, and Goodie Rosen hit home runs for the Killefers while Gene Moore, acquired from the Boston Bees last winter, was the leading batter for the Dressens.

BROWNS

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 4.—(AP)—A bench-warmer with the Yankees, Catcher Joe Glenn, obtained by the St. Louis Browns in a winter deal, jumped right in today on his campaign to win the regular backstop berth. He showed power at bat as the Browns' batterymen went through a long training drill under a hot sun.

GIANTS

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., March 4.—(AP)—The New York Giants, who have been taking preliminary workouts and baths here, packed up today and left for their regular training camp at Baton Rouge, La. Although several of them were suffering from heavy colds, Manager Bill Terry was well satisfied with the results of the conditioning period. The big problem just ahead is Burgess Whitehead, out all last season, who is due to report at Baton Rouge with the main squad Monday.

YANKEES

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 4.—(AP)—Summing up at the end of the first week of spring training, Manager Joe McCarthy of the New York Yankees said today the Yanks have "the three classiest rookies that ever hit a big league camp at one time." The three are Charley Keller, Joe Gallagher and Buddy Rosar, who may stick all season. Lefty Gomez came up with a slightly sore arm today as a result of tossing some curves in hitting practice.

the holy father will be carried from the basilica on a portable throne. He will ascend a temporary throne erected on the balcony and there receive the golden triple tiara from the hands of Camillo Cardinal Caccia-Dominioni, deas of the order of deacons.

Soon after the coronation, possibly on the following Sunday, March 19, which is St. Joseph's festival, the pontiff is expected to leave the Vatican for the first time since his accession and take possession of the basilica of St. John Lateran, the pope's cathedral as bishop of Rome.

Pope Pius' second full day of his reign was taken up with conferences with members of the hierarchy as he settled into the routine of administering the vast affairs of the church.

His holiness reappointed the aged Monsignor Mella di Sant'elia as papal chamberlain and Vatican circles expected he would announce soon his own successor as papal secretary of state.

BODY OF SLAIN NEGRO IS FOUND

The body of a negro man, tentatively identified as Grant Hughes, 60, was found lying near the railroad tracks at 23rd and Grammont streets last night, according to a report by police, who were investigating evidence of foul play.

Dr. Irving J. Wolff, parish coroner, who investigated the case, was quoted as saying the negro met his death at the "hands of a party or parties unknown." A sharp instrument, such as a meat cleaver or an axe, had apparently been used in slaying the negro, who had a long, deep gash in his forehead.

The victim was tentatively identified by a social security card which he had on his person. No motive for anyone's slaying the negro was reported. He was believed to have resided in Doc Moore's alley.

TO ATTEND BEAUTY MEET

The Monroe Beauty shop, 315 Harrison street, will be represented at the Mid-west Beauty Trade school, Hotel Sherman, Chicago, this week. Those who will attend are Mrs. Myrtice Dodd, Lois Smith, Mildred Day and Edith Chambers.

CLEMSON TRIUMPHS

RALEIGH, N. C., March 4.—(AP)—The Clemson Tigers, darkhorse giant-killers who showed better form the more games they played, took the championship of the Southern conference basketball tournament tonight with a 39-to-27 upset of Maryland's Old Liners.

LIBERTY CALLED BEST GUARANTEE

and silent while religious liberty was denied in other lands, but would use every "peaceful means" to preserve religious and personal freedom.

"Where democracy is snuffed out there, too, the right to worship God in one's own way is circumscribed or abrogated," he said. "Shall we by our passiveness, by our silence, by assuming the attitude of the Levite who pulled his skirts together and passed by on the other side lend encouragement to those who today persecute religion or deny it?

"The answer is 'no,' just as in the days of the first congress of the United States it was 'no'".

Chief Justice Hughes said the most significant fact in connection with the anniversary "is that after 150 years notwithstanding expansion of territory, enormous increase in population and profound economic changes, despite direct attack and subversive influences, there is every indication that the vastly preponderant sentiment of the American people is that our form of government shall be preserved."

Again, the president described the bill of rights, with its guarantees of freedom of worship, freedom of the speech, of the press and of assembly, as containing a "vast chasm between our representative democracy and those reversions to personal rule which have characterized these recent years."

"Our guarantees of fair trials," Mr. Hughes said, "of due process in the protection of life, liberty and property—which stands between the citizens and arbitrary power—of religious freedom, of free speech, free press and free assembly, are the safeguards which have erected against the abuses threatened by gusts of passion and prejudice which in misguided zeal would destroy the basic interests of democracy."

But while the chief executive suggested modern times demanded speed in adjusting our government to meet new problems, Hughes said the inherent delays of democracy assured deliberate judgment.

The president, mentioning the phrase "horse and buggy days"—which he used in describing the supreme court's 1935 decision invalidating NRA, said it is not used as a term of derogation. He continued:

"We use it rather to explain the tedious delays and the local antangonisms which beset our early paths, and we use it perhaps to remind our citizens of today that the automobile, the railroad, the airplane, the electrical impulse over the wire, and through the ether leave to no citizen an excuse for sectionalism, for delay in the execution of the public business or for a failure to maintain a full understanding of the acceleration of the processes of civilization."

Said the chief justice:

"If our checks and balances sometimes prevent the speedy action which is thought desirable, they also assure in the long run a more deliberate judgment. And what the people want they generally get. With the ultimate power of change through amendment in their hands they are always able to obtain whatever a preponderant and abiding sentiment demands."

The session was one of impressive formality.

The galleries were packed, and among the spectators there were the president's wife and mother.

Speaker Bankhead spoke briefly, asserting the present was a time for "reappraising the soundness and desirability of our democratic form of government." He mentioned "certain sinister influences and minorities" and suggested that the nation had, perhaps been too generous in its hospitality to such elements.

Senator Pittman, Democrat, Nevada, president pro-tempore of the senate, reviewed the first session of congress 150 years ago. Gladys Swarthout and John Charles Thomas, opera stars, sang "America" and "The Star Spangled Banner."

The nation's "house" was built with the writing of the constitution, the president said, but it had to be made "habitable" by the addition of the bill of rights.

He enumerated the rights guaranteed by it: jury trial, freedom from unlawful search and seizures, freedom of assembly and freedom to petition congress.

"Freedom of speech," he continued. "Yes, that too is unchecked, for never has there been so much of it on every side of every subject. . . .

"Freedom of the press—I take it that no sensible man or woman believes that it has been curtailed or threatened or that it should be. . . . Representative democracy will never tolerate suppression of true news at the behest of government.

Then, discussing freedom of religion, he went on to say that this country would not be silent at its denial elsewhere in the world for, he said, "that essential of the rights of mankind goes back also to the origins of representative government."

SHIRTWAISTERS GO EVENING

Most intriguing of all the shirtwaisters are the dinner and evening ensembles. Just by choosing the right blouse, one can be as casual or as formal as one likes. Skirt and blouse may be of one material, as is seen in navy and white silk dinner shirtwaister with a narrow red kid belt. Or the skirt may be of a dark sheer wool, slim at the hips and flaring at the hemline, worn with a fine silk stud shirt and a wide commerbund in a third color to give a narrow, high-waisted effect. Broadened shoulders, long voluminous sleeves gathered into narrow tight wristbands distinguish many of the blouses, although some of the dainty, frilly white cottons are short-sleeved. Skirts are, of course, evening length and very full, wide gored or pleated.

Oil And Gas News

NEW ORLEANS, March 4.—(AP)—Ten new wells in Louisiana oil fields, with total initial daily production of 2,946 barrels, are listed in the weekly report of the minerals division of the department of conservation, made public Saturday.

Largest potential producer of the week was a new well on the southwest flank of the Bay St. Elaine field in Terrebonne parish, which flowed at the rate of 357 barrels daily through a one-eighth inch choke, the smallest opening used for production in the state. Largest actual producer was a well in the new Shreveport field which flowed at the rate of 594 barrels through a quarter inch choke.

Twenty-one permits to drill were issued during the week, of which 11 were for operations in south Louisiana fields. Eight of the 10 north Louisiana permits were for wells in Caddo parish.

Average daily production of crude production in Louisiana fields during the week ending February 25 was estimated by the department at 266,905 barrels, of which 195,850 barrels were from the gulf coast fields and 71,055 barrels from north Louisiana.

New producers listed, with date of completion ranging from February 1 to February 28 were;

Bancroft, Beauregard parish, Republic Production company, No. 5 Lutcher-Moore, 403 barrels.

Bay St. Elaine, Terrebonne parish, the Texas company, No. B-2 State, 357 barrels.

Charenton, St. Mary parish Knisely Oils, Inc., No. 3 W. E. Hortel, No. 3 Paul LeBlanc, 315 barrels, No. 4 Paul LeBlanc, 87 barrels, No. 5 Rovicheaux, 8 barrels.

Shreveport, Caddo parish, R. L. Bauman, No. 1 Emile Dorian, 264 barrels; Harry Hanbury, No. 1 S. G. Sample, 594 barrels.

Ville Platte, Evangeline parish, Continental Oil company, No. 1 Fontenot-Deshotels, 259 barrels, No. 2 J. E. Vidrine, 360 barrels.

Zwolle, Sabine parish, Clyde Creighton, No. 1 Bowman-Hicks, 104 barrels.

New permits issued follow:

Acadia parish, Atlantic Refining company, No. 1 A. Doga, Gulf Refining company, No. 41 Arnaudet.

Avoyelles parish—Pomo Petroleum company No. 1 Sentell.

NEW YORK STOCKS

By Victor Eubank

NEW YORK, March 4.—(AP)—The stock market rally faltered today after an early upswing in which numerous issues again stepped into high ground for the past year or so.

Profit-taking on Friday's bulge, and the desire of some traders to lighten commitments pending the president's speech to congress, due shortly after noon, were believed by brokers to have contributed to the slow-down in the forward push.

While fractional gains were plentiful at the close, and a number of isolated strong spots were in evidence, many recent leaders were unable to make headway and small minor signs were plentiful. Aircrafts were among the principal losers.

Overnight buying orders, both domestic and foreign, enlivened the opening with blocks of 1,000 to 5,000 shares changing hands. The ticker tape, however, managed to keep up and the pace slackened appreciably in later proceedings. At that, transfers for the two hours were around 600,000 shares.

Steel shares acted tired following the remarks of Chairman Girdler of Republic in which he suggested to stockholders that increased prices throughout the industry were "sorely needed to permit a reasonable return on investment." The American Iron and Steel institute, though, reported 451,000 workers were now being employed by the steel makers, the largest number in 10 months.

Renewed strength in United States rubber preferred was taken as a response to the company's earnings jump in the final half of last year which enabled the concern to more than offset a deficit in the first six months.

United States government and secondary rails bonds continued to move higher. Commodities were narrow.

421,000 TO GET FIELD TRAINING

Largest Scale Maneuvers Army Has Undertaken In Peacetime Contemplated

WASHINGTON, March 4. — (AP) — Some 421,000 officers and men, war department officials estimated today, will undergo intensive field training this year in probably the largest scale maneuvers the army has undertaken in peacetime.

A record $689,391 was earmarked in the war department's annual appropriation for the bulk of expenses, and General Malin Craig, chief of staff, said congress probably would be asked for "considerable increases."

Maneuvers involving large bodies of troops, air forces and teaming with the navy are "essential," General Craig told a house committee, to prepare the army "to execute its mission in national defense."

War games of the first army, one of the four major units into which the nation's land defense forces are divided, will involve the largest number of men. Approximately 45,000 regulars and national guardsmen will be concentrated at Plattsburg, N. Y., August 13-27, and about 22,000 at Manassas, Va., August 5-19.

Maneuvers of the first cavalry division in Texas will test the defense of an undisclosed industrial area against air raids and a joint exercise with the navy and marine corps will be directed toward repelling a simulated landing on the Pacific coast by a hostile sea force.

Added to these and other field maneuvers for the regulars, guardsmen and reservists are the annual summer citizens military training camps and the field training given selected college students in the reserve officers training corps.

Already this year troops in Panama and the Philippines have tested defenses of their outposts in maneuvers under simulated war conditions. The army's third division will stage a division maneuver at Fort Lewis, Wash., in May. The remainder of the important field exercises are carded after July 1.

The war department earmarked $382,650 for extra expenses for the year's training, plus $106,741 for transporting officers and men, and $200,000 for expenses of the participation of four national guard divisions in the first army maneuvers.

These full army war games are much the most expensive of all the field training to the national guard outlay, officials estimated. $199,000 would be required for expenses of the regulars.

An extra $75,000 was budgeted for cost of the air raid defense of an industrial city, aside from normal expenses of the troops and planes. The most spectacular of military maneuvers this exercise is expected to result in the army's heaviest concentration of anti-aircraft artillery in addition to employment of 200 or more warplanes.

HEDY LAMARR AND GENE MARKEY WED

Glamor Girl Of Screen Marries Movie Producer In Mexicali

MEXICALI, Baja California, March 4.—(AP)—Black-haired Hedy Lamarr, Hollywood's 23-year-old newest glamor girl, motored across the California-Mexico border today to take a new husband, 43-year-old Gene Markey, movie writer and producer.

They decided yesterday they wanted to be married right away, so they drove to San Diego last night, and over the mountains to Baja California today because in California it takes three days to get legal permission to wed. Their only companion on the elopement was Markey's Filipino boy, Jose Fuentes.

When Civil Magistrate of Mexico Atcolonio Nunez read the marriage ceremony this afternoon, it was the second time each of the movie principals had entered the marriage bond. The glamor girl has been divorced from Fritz Mandl, wealthy European munitions manufacturer. Markey's previous wife was Joan Bennett, film star.

Miss Bennett divorced Markey in June, 1937. Miss Lamarr obtained a divorce from Mandl shortly after she came to this country.

At only 17, Miss Lamarr was the feminine star in the racy European film "Ecstasy," which was barred for a time in the United States and later released again. The picture caused such a stir that Mandl was reported to have purchased all available prints of it to destroy.

For some months before her friendship with the handsome, urbane Markey became publicly noticed, Miss Lamarr was seen frequently in the company of the English Reginald Gardiner.

Markey said he and Miss Lamarr came to Mexicali to be wed immediately because they wanted two mutual friends to serve as witnesses. The two were Gustavo Padres, Jr., Mexican consul at Calexico, Calif., across the border from here, and Jimmy Alvarez, manager of a Mexicali tavern.

"We didn't bring any Hollywood friends," Markey said, "because we didn't want to take them away from the Santa Anita handicap at Los Angeles."

He said there would be no honeymoon for the present because both were returning to Hollywood by automobile tonight so they would be on hand to take up work assignments awaiting them.

THREE POISONS' NAMED

BERLIN, March 4.—(AP)—The magazine, "At the Source of German Srength," organ of the neo-pagan cult organized by the late General Erich Ludendorff, today linked the Bible with tobacco and strong drink as "three poisons" to be avoided by Germans.

FRANCO CALLS ON PEOPLE TO YIELD

BURGOS, Spain, March 4.—(AP)—Generalissimo Francisco Franco directed batteries of loud speakers against the republican lines on the Madrid front today, appealing to the defenders of the capital to surrender without further bloodshed.

Amplifiers carried the words of the nationalist propagandists over the trench [illegible], to republican guards several hundred yards away.

"Surrender! Our troops can walk into Madrid any time El Caudillo ("The Chief" Franco) decides," was one of the appeals.

The nationalists also rocketed into the city cardboard cartridges filled with propaganda sheets reminding the republicans that Catalonia had been "liberated."

Nevertheless the nationalists took precautions against any surprise maneuvers. Sentinels at advance posts in University City, Casa de Campo, West Park and Carabanchel were kept on the alert.

They listened intently for any indication of digging underground. Since the siege of Madrid began November 6, 1936, the conflict about the capital has been mostly mine warfare between lines lying close together.

Occasionally the nationalist besiegers felt out the enemy lines by turning on salvos of artillery and machine gun fire. Nationalist officers reported today the only response to such salvos was an occasional rifle crack.

FAVOR EXTENDING SEA LIMIT AREA

Administration Thinks Three Miles Not Enough But 27 Too Much

WASHINGTON, March 4.—(AP)—Administration officials heartily approve current proposals that a nation's control over adjacent ocean waters be extended beyond the present limit of three miles at sea.

While there has been no official comment, informed persons said the administration would like to see the limit increased, but not to the 27 miles proposed in a bill which was passed last week by the senate of the coastal state of Delaware.

Officials say that increasing the limit would enable the national government to extend its control over territorial waters, would lessen smuggling and assist fisheries control.

They are agreed, however, that no change can be made in the limit by either state or national legislation alone, but it must be negotiated with other maritime nations.

In the 1920's the state department negotiated the so-called "rum treaties" with a dozen nations. These provided that the United States could seize a foreign vessel within the distance from the short that the offending vessel could make in one hour's sailing.

Various acts of congress early in the 1930's sought to give the United States the right to control up to the 12-mile limit to apprehend smugglers.

The United States and other nations discussed in 1930 the possibility of international agreement, but nothing came of it.

Senator Burton S. Heal, in presenting his measure in the Delaware senate, said the three-mile limit was based on the range of cannon at the time the limit became recognized. Since cannon now shoot about 27 miles he thought the limit should be made the new shooting distance.

Not all legal authorities, however, agree that the three-mile limit was based on the range of cannot shot. Some maintain that the limit was fixed arbitrarily by various nations at the distance of a marine league—under English law that is three miles.

The international jurist, Thomas Baty, says that the United States in a declaration of neutrality of April 22, 1793, and more emphatically in the act of congress of June 5, 1794, expressly fixed the limit of its territorial waters at a league.

The British jurist, Sir Robert Phillimore, says, however: "The limit of territorial waters has been fixed at a marine league because that was supposed to be the utmost distance at which a cannon shot from shore could reach."

Authorities here generally reject, for a variety of reasons, the idea of fixing the limit of territorial waters on the range of artillery:

1—There would be "unending uncertainty" dependent upon ordnance improvements, and once the law was changed to conform with changes in gun ranges, it would have to be changed every time the range increased.

2—Twenty-seven miles is too far. It would give a nation too extended control over shipping passing near it. This would be particularly true were a main shipping lane to run near shore.

3—The same limit would give rise to many conflicts of authority in certain straits such as the English channel, where two 27-mile limits would overlap.

5 KILLED IN WRECK OF THREE AUTOS

WASHINGTON, Ind., March 4.—(AP)—Five men were killed and five others injured, three dangerously, late today in a wreck of three automobiles, twelve miles east of here on road 50.

The dead are:

John King, town marshal at Shoals.

Carl Cornell, 28, Shoals school teacher.

James Tranter, 77, retired railroad employe of Shoals.

Everett Lessing, a soldier from Fort Knox, Ky.

Fred Connell, trustee of Halbert township, Martin county.

The injured are an unidentified soldier; Leonard Burke, another soldier from Fort Knox; Charles Willis of Loogootee; Ott Baker and Cosman Van Hoy, both of Shoals. The two soldiers and Willis were reported to be in a critical condition.

The accident occurred during a rainstorm.

LEONORE WINTER AND STEWART WED

VENTURA, Calif., March 4.—(AP)—Donald Ogden Stewart, book author and Hollywood movie writer, and Leonore Winter, former wife of the late Lincoln Steffens, liberal author, were married here today.

Superior Judge Louis C. Drapeau performed the ceremony in his chambers during the noon hour.

Primarily a humorist, Stewart wrote several books and plays before taking up movie work, including "A Parody Outline of History," "Mr. and Mrs. Haddock Abroad," and "The Crazy Fool."

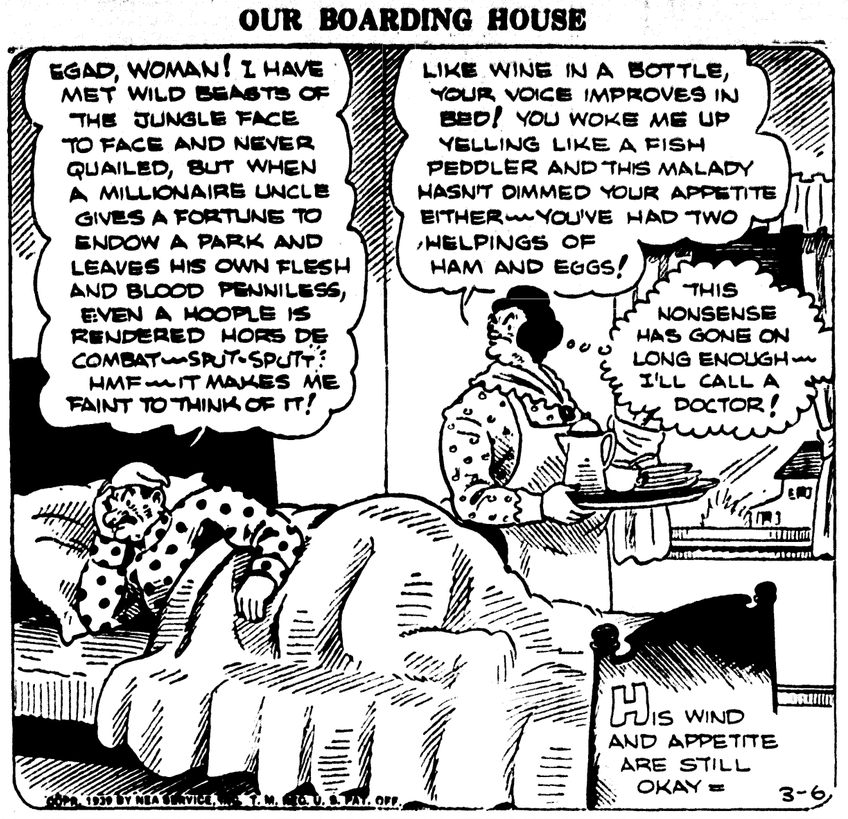

The bride, whose pen name is Ell Winter, has been frequently associated with central and northern California labor movements. She and Steffens were divorced before his death about two years ago at Carmel, Calif.

421,000 TO GET FIELD TRAINING

Largest Scale Maneuvers Army Has Undertaken In Peacetime Contemplated

WASHINGTON, March 4. — (AP) — Some 421,000 officers and men, war department officials estimated today, will undergo intensive field training this year in probably the largest scale maneuvers the army has undertaken in peacetime.

A record $689,391 was earmarked in the war department's annual appropriation for the bulk of expenses, and General Malin Craig, chief of staff, said congress probably would be asked for "considerable increases."

Maneuvers involving large bodies of troops, air forces and teaming with the navy are "essential," General Craig told a house committee, to prepare the army "to execute its mission in national defense."

War games of the first army, one of the four major units into which the nation's land defense forces are divided, will involve the largest number of men. Approximately 45,000 regulars and national guardsmen will be concentrated at Plattsburg, N. Y., August 13-27, and about 22,000 at Manassas, Va., August 5-19.

Maneuvers of the first cavalry division in Texas will test the defense of an undisclosed industrial area against air raids and a joint exercise with the navy and marine corps will be directed toward repelling a simulated landing on the Pacific coast by a hostile sea force.

Added to these and other field maneuvers for the regulars, guardsmen and reservists are the annual summer citizens military training camps and the field training given selected college students in the reserve officers training corps.

Already this year troops in Panama and the Philippines have tested defenses of their outposts in maneuvers under simulated war conditions. The army's third division will stage a division maneuver at Fort Lewis, Wash., in May. The remainder of the important field exercises are cardad after July 1.

The war department earmarked $382,650 for extra expenses for the year's training, plus $106,741 for transporting officers and men, and $200,000 for expenses of the participation of four national guard divisions in the first army maneuvers.

These full army war games are much the most expensive of all the field training to the national guard outlay, officials estimated $199,000 would be required for expenses of the regulars.

An extra $75,000 was budgeted for cost of the air raid defense of an industrial city, aside from normal expenses of the troops and planes. The most spectacular of military maneuvers, this exercise is expected to result in the army's heaviest concentration of anti-aircraft artillery in addition to employment of 200 or more warplanes.

HEDY LAMARR AND GENE MARKEY WED

Glamor Girl Of Screen Marries Movie Producer In Mexicali

MEXICALI, Baja California, March 4.—(AP)—Black-haired Hedy Lamarr, Hollywood's 23-year-old newest glamor girl, motored across the California-Mexico border today to take a new husband, 43-year-old Gene Markey, movie writer and producer.

They decided yesterday they wanted to be married right away, so they drove to San Diego last night, and over the mountains to Baja California today because in California it takes three days to get legal permission to wed. Their only companion on the elopement was Markey's Filipino boy, Jose Fuentes.

When Civil Magistrate of Mexico Atoolonio Nunez read the marriage ceremony this afternoon, it was the second time each of the movie principals had entered the marriage bond. The glamor girl has been divorced from Fritz Mandl, wealthy European munitions manufacturer. Markey's previous wife was Joan Bennett, film star.

Miss Bennett divorced Markey in June, 1937. Miss Lamarr obtained a divorce from Mandl shortly after she came to this country.

At only 17, Miss Lamarr was the feminine star in the racy European film "Ecstasy," which was barred for a time in the United States and later released again. The picture caused such a stir that Mandl was reported to have purchased all available prints of it to destroy.

For some months before her friendship with the handsome, urbane Markey became publicly noticed, Miss Lamarr was seen frequently in the company of the English Reginald Gardiner.

Markey said he and Miss Lamarr came to Mexicali to be wed immediately because they wanted two mutual friends to serve as witnesses. The two were Gustavo Padres, Jr., Mexican consul at Calexico, Calif., across the border from here, and Jimmy Alvarez, manager of a Mexicali tavern.

"We didn't bring any Hollywood friends," Markey said, "because we didn't want to take them away from the Santa Anita handicap at Los Angeles."

He said there would be no honeymoon for the present because both were returning to Hollywood by automobile tonight so they would be on hand to take up work assignments awaiting them.

'THREE POISONS' NAMED

BERLIN, March 4.—(AP)—The magazine, "At the Source of German Srtength," organ of the neo-pagan cult organized by the late General Erich Ludendorff, today linked the Bible with tobacco and strong drink as "three poisons" to be avoided by Germans.

FRANCO CALLS ON PEOPLE TO YIELD

BURGOS, Spain, March 4.—(AP)—Generalissimo Francisco Franco directed batteries of loud speakers against the republican lines on the Madrid front today, appealing to the defenders of the capital to surrender without further bloodshed.

Amplifiers carried the words of the nationalist propagandists over the trench to republican guards several hundred yards away.

"Surrender! Our troops can walk into Madrid any time El Caudillo ("The Chief" Franco) decides," was one of the appeals.

The nationalists also rocketed into the city cardboard cartridges filled with propaganda sheets reminding the republicans that Catalonia had been "liberated."

Nevertheless the nationalists took precautions against any surprise maneuvers. Sentinels at advance posts in University City, Casa de Campo, West Park and Carabanchel were kept on the alert.

They listened intently for any indication of digging underground. Since the siege of Madrid began November 6, 1936, the conflict about the capital has been mostly mine warfare between lines lying close together.

Occasionally the nationalist besiegers felt out the enemy lines by turning on salvos of artillery and machine gun fire. Nationalist officers reported today the only response to such salvos was an occasional rifle crack.

FAVOR EXTENDING SEA LIMIT AREA

Administration Thinks Three Miles Not Enough But 27 Too Much

WASHINGTON, March 4.—(AP)—Administration officials heartily approve current proposals that a nation's control over adjacent ocean waters be extended beyond the present limit of three miles at sea.

While there has been no official comment, informed persons said the administration would like to see the limit increased, but not to the 27 miles proposed in a bill which was passed last week by the senate of the coastal state of Deleware.

Officials say that increasing the limit would enable the national government to extend its control over territorial waters, would lessen smuggling and assist fisheries control.

They are agreed, however, that no change can be made in the limit by either state or national legislation alone, but it must be negotiated with other maritime nations.

In the 1920's the state department negotiated the so-called "rum treaties" with a dozen nations. These provided that the United States could seize a foreign vessel within the distance from the short that the offending vessel could make in one hour's sailing.

Various acts of congress early in the 1930's sought to give the United States the right to control up to the 12-mile limit to apprehend smugglers.

The United States and other nations discussed in 1930 the possibility of international agreement, but nothing came of it.

Senator Burton S. Heal, in presenting his measure in the Delaware senate, said the three-mile limit was based on the range of cannon at the time the limit became recognized. Since cannon now shoot about 27 miles he thought the limit should be made the new shooting distance.

Not all legal authorities, however, agree that the three-mile limit was based on the range of cannot shot. Some maintain that the limit was fixed arbitrarily by various nations at the distance of a marine league—under English law that is three miles.

The international jurist, Thomas Baty, says that the United States in a declaration of neutrality of April 22, 1793, and more emphatically in the act of congress of June 5, 1794, expressly fixed the limit of its territorial waters at a league.

The British jurist, Sir Robert Phillimore, says, however: "The limit of territorial waters has been fixed at a marine league because that was supposed to be the utmost distance at which a cannon shot from shore could reach."

Authorities here generally reject, for a variety of reasons, the idea of fixing the limit of territorial waters on the range of artillery:

1—There would be "unending uncertainty" dependent upon ordnance improvements, and once the law was changed to conform with changes in gun ranges, it would have to be changed every time the range increased.

2—Twenty-seven miles is too far. It would give a nation too extended control over shipping passing near it. This would be particularly true were a main shipping lane to run near shore.

3—The same limit would give rise to many conflicts of authority in certain straits such as the English channel, where two 27-mile limits would overlap.

5 KILLED IN WRECK OF THREE AUTOS

WASHINGTON, Ind., March 4.—(AP)—Five men were killed and five others injured, three dangerously, late today in a wreck of three automobiles, twelve miles east of here on road 50.

The dead are:

John King, town marshal at Shoals.

Carl Cornell, 28, Shoals school teacher.

James Tranter, 77, retired railroad employe of Shoals.

Everett Lessing, a soldier from Fort Knox, Ky.

Fred Connell, trustee of Halbert township, Martin county.

The injured are an unidentified soldier; Leonard Burke, another soldier from Fort Knox; Charles Willis of Loogootee; Ott Baker and Cosman Van Hoy, both of Shoals. The two soldiers and Willis were reported to be in a critical condition.

The accident occurred during a rainstorm.

LEONORE WINTER AND STEWART WED

VENTURA, Calif., March 4.—(AP)—Donald Ogden Stewart, book author and Hollywood movie writer, and Leonore Winter, former wife of the late Lincoln Steffens, liberal author, were married here today.

Superior Judge Louis C. Drapeau performed the ceremony in his chambers during the noon hour.

Primarily a humorist, Stewart wrote several books and plays before taking up movie work, including "A Parody Outline of History," "Mr. and Mrs. Haddock Abroad," and "The Crazy Fool."

The bride, whose pen name is Ell Winter, has been frequently associated with central and northern California labor movements. She and Steffens were divorced before his death about two years ago at Carmel, Calif.

HEAD PROJECT

Cotton Valley Principal To Direct Thomason Resettlement Plan

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., March 4.—(AP)—The farm security administration today announced the appointment of Fritz B. Spencer, former principal of the Cotton Valley High school, Louisiana, to be project manager of the Thomastown resettlement project in Madison parish.

Spencer has been with the farm security administration as rehabilitation farm planning specialist for Louisiana since December, 1935. Previously he taught vocational agriculture and was principal at Cotton Valley. He graduated with a degree in agriculture from Louisiana State university in 1932. He is a brother of Floyd Spencer, AAA chief in Louisiana.

Simultaneously, E. B. Whitaker, assistant regional director of the FSA here, said the government's 21,876-acre land holdings in East Carroll and Madison parishes are to be divided into two cooperative operating units for the purpose of efficient development and management. Spencer is to have

E. A. Brady, FSA project manager at Transylvania, will continue in that capacity, managing 9,000 acres in two tracts south of Lake Providence. These are to be developed into 147 farmsteads for use of white tenant farmers.

Contracts have been recently let for construction of improvements on both projects and work is getting under way. The entire acreage has been operated by families farming with rehabilitation loans since it was acquired. Early this year money was allotted to carry out development plans.

M'CLEERY RITES HELD SATURDAY

The funeral of Charles G. McCleery, 57, manager of the Lumberman's Supply company, who died suddenly of heart failure at his home, 601 Glenmar avenue, Friday morning, was held at the residence Saturday at 3 p.m. when a Christian Science service was held.

The body was taken on a night Missouri Pacific train Saturday en route to Topeka, Kans., where the interment will take place. The Mulhearn Funeral home was in charge of the arrangements.

Pallbearers were M. R. Brooks, T. A. Sanders, E. N. Faulk, C. B. Braun, S. A. Moss, J. M. Edminston, C. J. Fleming and W. M. Mitchell.

Mr. McCleery had spent his life in lumbering interests in which he was highly successful. He came to the Twin Cities in 1927 when the H. R. Hayes Lumber company was established in West Monroe, of which he was manager. Later he organized the Lumbermen's Supply company and was identified with this company at the time of his death.

He leaves his wife, one son, Guilford McCleery, student in S. M. U. at Dallas, Tex.; and three brothers, William McCleery, Washington state; John McCleery, Fort Worth, Tex., and George McCleery, Gem, Tex.

KOLLEGE KAPERS SCHEDULED HERE

Centenary College Group Will Appear On Night Of March 15 At Parish School

Kollege Kapers, Centenary student variety show, will be presented in Monroe on Wednesday, March 15, in the Ouachita Parish High school auditorium. This will be the sixth year the Kaperites have performed in Monroe.

The 1939 edition of the collegiate show has been playing to overflow audiences in practically every town where it has appeared since January. The cast includes 35 collegiates and coeds who were chosen out of a group of 80 who tried out for parts in the show in December.

Much new equipment has been added to the list of properties owned by the Kapers organization due to income from a radio contract entered into early in the fall with a Shreveport broadcasting station. The show has a new set of drums and traps, special scenery, and its own lighting and public address systems. A special trailer has been equipped for transporting all paraphernalia necessary for a performance.

A three-act playlet, "What a Hero," was written especially for Kapers by Peggy Weber of New Orleans. This 25 minute comedy includes a football broadcast and has been received enthusiastically over the radio and by audiences throughout the Ark-La-Tex area.

The variety show includes a 15-piece orchestra, eight vocalists, comedians, tap-dancers, a caricaturist, monologuist, a 35-voice chorus, instrumental soloists including violin, piano, trumpet, clarinet, saxophone, a baton twirling exhibition, and many other specialties.

Sponsors for the entertainment are members of the night circles of the Methodist Women's Missionary society.

16 ARE ARRESTED BY POLICE DEPARTMENT

Sixteen persons were arrested by state police of the Monroe district during February and 472 traffic violations were corrected, according to a report issued yesterday by Captain Rex Ensminger, district commander of state police.

Captain Ensminger also reported 13 accidents investigated at the scene and eight accidents checked from the office.

Offenses for which persons were arrested were reckless driving, eight; petty larceny, one; operating a school bus without a chauffeur's license, one; operating a motor vehicle with improper lights, two; parking a motor vehicle on a public highway without lights, one; and operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating liquors. State police also arrested one person at the request of Texas authorities.

Other cases handled by state police included improper license violations corrected, 108; improper lights on motor vehicles corrected, 192; persons apprehended operating motor vehicles corrected, 192; persons apprehended operating motor vehicles without chauffeur's license, 72; trucks inspected for safety, 94; and overloaded trucks checked, six.

UNUSUALLY LARGE INFANT BORN HERE

Birth of a 15 1-2 pound son to Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Smith, 708 Alabama street, Friday at Dr. C. H. Hill's clinic, 1371-2 South Grand street, was announced yesterday afternoon. The mother and infant were reported "doing nicely."

The infant has the physical development of a 3-month-old baby, Dr. Hill said.

The doctor has been a practicing physician 26 years, but never before ushered into the world so lusty an infant. In one case some years ago, he worked at the delivery of an infant weighing slightly more than 14 pounds.

Harry Pierce Smith—the name given the 15 1-2 pound arrival—is the sixth child of the Smith family. He has two brothers and three sisters ranging in ages from three to 12 years.

The father is a fireman at the central fire station.

12 RUSTON CITIZENS JOIN SCHOOL KIDS AT MEAL IN CAFETERIA

RUSTON, La., March 4.—(Special)—Twelve local men joined 90 youngsters for lunch in the recently opened cafeteria at the Eastland Grammer school here the other day.

The dozen invited diners were "special," but the rest of the occasion was not that way. It was just an ordinary event, with a typical meal on the menu—and that was the point to the whole thing, it was explained.

Mrs. Jim Goslin, president of the Eastland Parent-eacher association, invited the 12 visitors to see the new cafeteria in operation under its usual conditions.

What the children had to eat was set before the men, who licked their platters clean and liked it, they declared. The youngsters did get a glass of milk with their meal, while the men got a cup of coffee, or rather two cups, mostly. But otherwise on all the 102 plates were chicken a la king, vegetable salad, bread and a fair-sized helping of apricot whip—all of which was reported suficient to fill the biggest gastronomic gap in the house.

The men were held off while the children took their places at the tables. One of the youngsters said grace—and "soup was on."

Many of those kids have to get up early to attend a free day school. It had been a long time since breakfast. That warm food made their eyes stand out like buttons on a smokehouse door.

Forty of those 90 pupils, unable to pay, were having their meal "on the house." The other pupils pay 10 cents each. The matter is handled without any embarrassment on the part of those unable to pay, it was pointed out. Even the P.-T. A. members who manage the cafeteria do not know which children are paying and which are not. The teachers simply prepare the dining lists and have a way of their own for collecting dimes from those who have dimes.

Mrs. B. C. Van Hook, general chairman of the cafeteria committee, told one of the guests that the meal he had just eaten "cost probably less than a nickel."

The guest, who had recently paid a $55 installment on a grocery store, inquired of Mrs. Van Hook: "Would it be possible for you to take on a family of four?"

The 12 invited guests included R. O. Sutton, Eddie Evans, R. L. Seegers, W. W. Durden, Hale Shadow, Rev. C. B. White, Glen Shadow, Charles Frazier, T. A. Wright, Kenneth F. Hewins, Sheriff Bryan Thigpen and J. D. Holland.

Frank Durden yesterday was reported seriously ill and confined to St. Francis sanitarium.

COLUMBUS KNIGHTS PLAN BALL, PARTY

The Knights of Columbus plan a bingo party and dance at Hotel Frances on St. Patrick's day, March 17. Money that is netted will be placed in the lodge building fund.

The bingo party will be held from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. and the dance will be held from 9 p.m. to 12 p.m. Arrangements for the party are being completed by a committee headed by J. C. Welsh.

Plans are now being drawn for the new home that the local Knights of Columbus are planning to build. On April 21 a large class of candidates from all over north Louisiana will be initiated at Shreveport. The state convention will be held in Alexandria on May 6.

Monroe Morning World

WHOLESOME HUMOR FOR THE WHOLE FAMILY

MONROE, LOUISIANA, SUNDAY, MARCH 5, 1939

Tarzan

by EDGAR RICE BURROUGHS

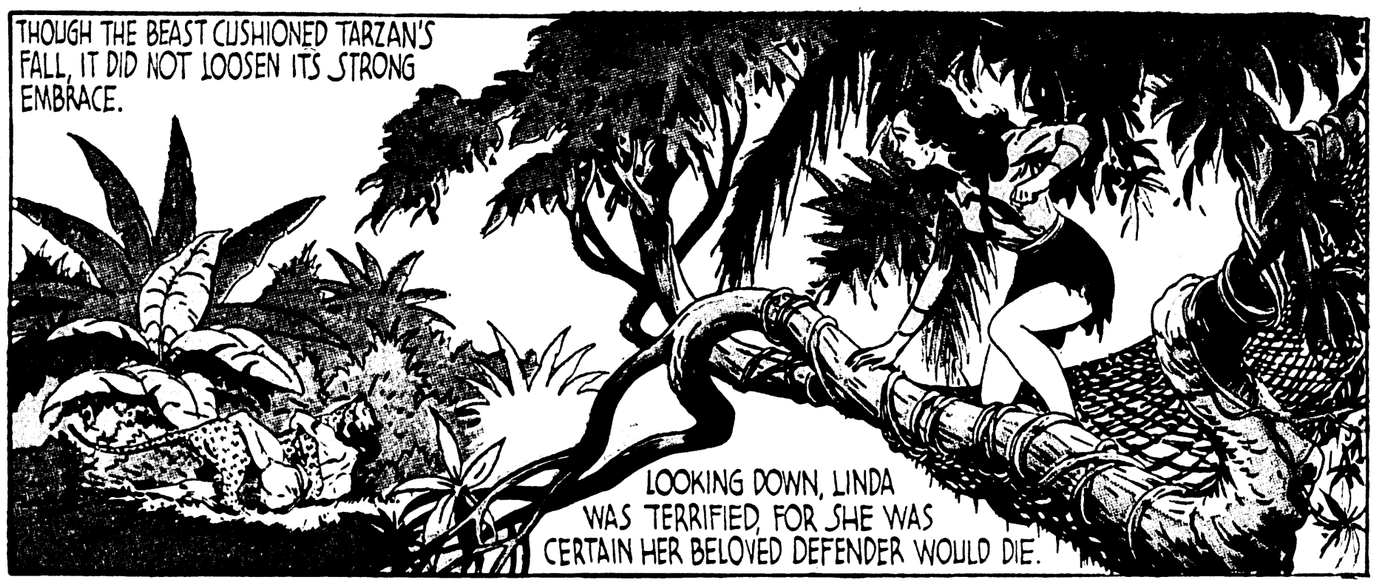

Copr. 1939, Edgar Rice Burroughs, Inc.—Tm. Reg. U. S. Pat. Off. Produced by Thomas Gallery and Dalrymple. Distributed by UNITED FEATURE SYNDICATE, Inc.

BROKEN PARADISE

WHEN THE PLUNGING LEOPARD STRUCK TARZAN, BOTH TUMBLED TO EARTH IN A TANGLE OF SAVAGE FURY.

THOUGH THE BEAST CUSHIONED TARZAN'S FALL, IT DID NOT LOOSEN ITS STRONG EMBRACE.

LOOKING DOWN, LINDA WAS TERRIFIED, FOR SHE WAS CERTAIN HER BELOVED DEFENDER WOULD DIE.

BUT NOW SHE SAW HIS ARM WHIP AROUND THE LEOPARD'S NECK AND THROTTLE THE STRUGGLING BEAST.

HE ASCENDED THEN TO THE ASTONISHED, TREMBLING GIRL WHO FOUND COMFORT IN HIS NEARNESS.

THE DAYS THAT FOLLOWED WERE FOR LINDA A JUNGLE IDYLL. SHE EXULTED IN THE FREEDOM OF THE PRIMITIVE WORLD.

SHE DELIGHTED IN THE SOCIETY OF JUNGLE CREATURES TO WHICH HER COMPANION INTRODUCED HER.

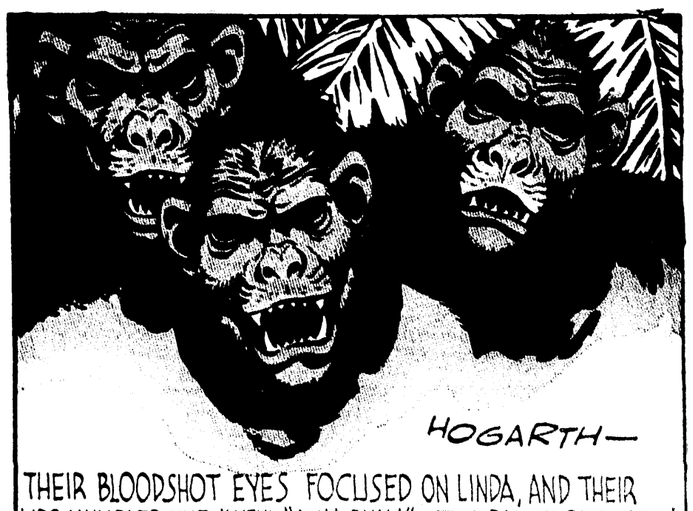

UNAWARE THAT HE UNDERSTOOD, SHE OFTEN DECLARED HER LOVE FOR THE STALWART TREE-MAN.

TARZAN GAVE NO SIGN OF COMPREHENSION. HE HAD NO WISH TO EMBARRASS HER, NOR TO DISTURB HER EASY COMRADESHIP.

BUT THEIR IDYLL ENDED ABRUPTLY. ONE DAY WHILE THEY FROLICKED IN A CRYSTAL POOL, TARZAN LOOKED UP---- TO SEE THE POOL SURROUNDED BY A HORDE OF APES, WHOSE EVERY ACTION INDICATED HOSTILITY.

HOGARTH—

THEIR BLOODSHOT EYES FOCUSED ON LINDA, AND THEIR LIPS MUMBLED THE AWFUL "DUM-DUM!"--THE DANCE OF DEATH!

NEXT WEEK-- CAPTURED

I KNEW IF I WAITED IN FRONT OF THIS CROOK WOLLEY'S PLACE LONG ENOUGH — YOU'D SHOW UP! SON, YOUR GANGSTER CAREER IS ENDING NOW!

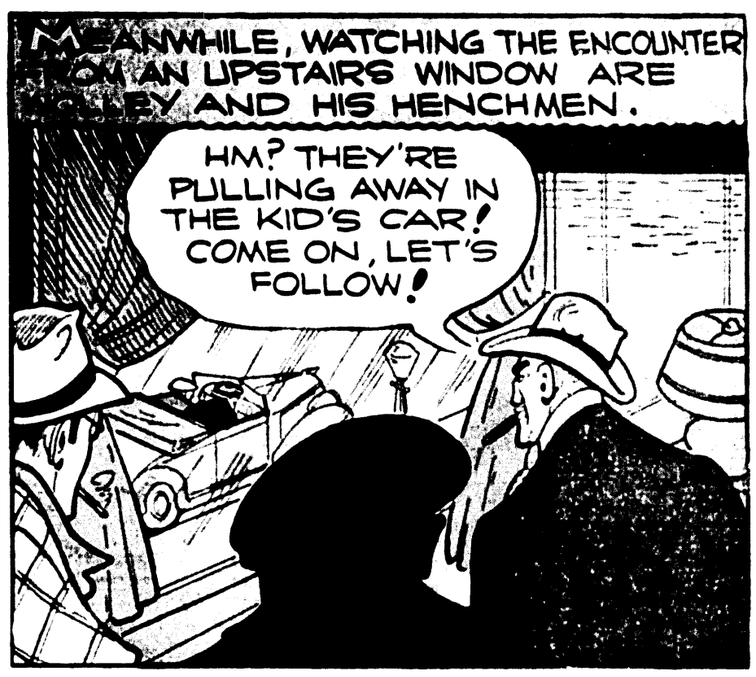

WHY, YOU OLD BAT! YOU'RE NOT TELLING ME WHAT TO DO! TAKE YOUR DIRTY OLD PAWS OFF ME!

YOU MAY BE MY FATHER — BUT I'M OVER 21! I CAN — OUO-o

YOU ROTTEN LITTLE PUP! I'LL BREAK EVERY BONE IN YOUR BODY BEFORE I'LL LET YOU GO ON LIKE THIS!

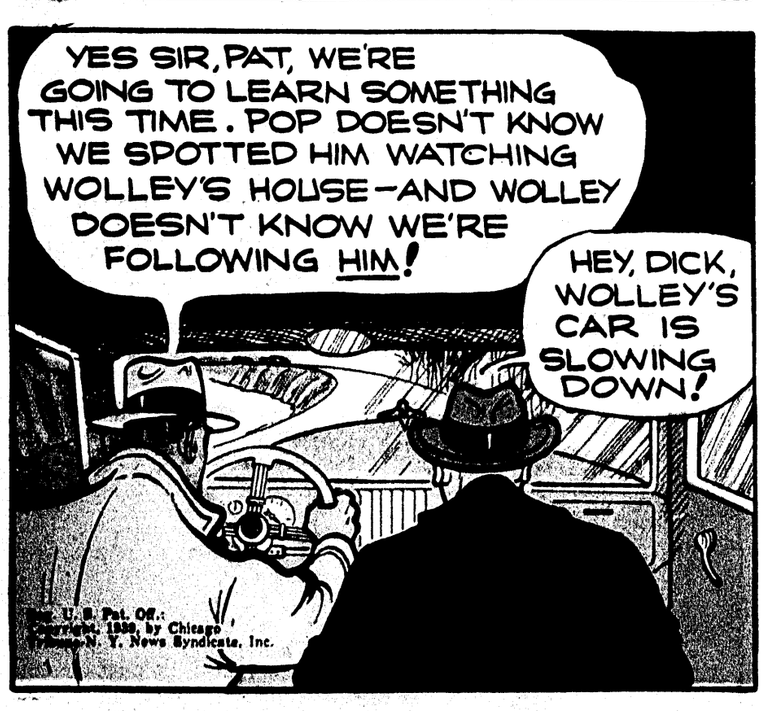

NOW, GET UP AND CLIMB IN YOUR ROADSTER WITH ME! BEFORE I TURN YOU OVER TO THE POLICE I WANT TO KNOW WHAT YOU DID WITH THAT JEWELRY SALESMAN.

MEANWHILE, WATCHING THE ENCOUNTER FROM AN UPSTAIRS WINDOW ARE WOLLEY AND HIS HENCHMEN.
HM? THEY'RE PULLING AWAY IN THE KID'S CAR! COME ON, LET'S FOLLOW!

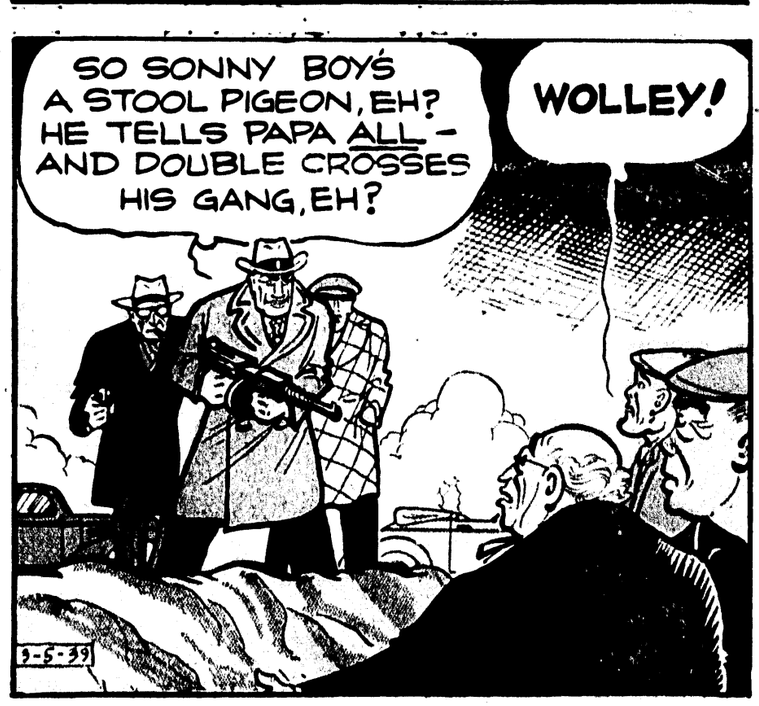

ONE HOUR LATER — ON A COUNTRY SIDE-ROAD.
HE'S ... HE'S IN THERE.

GO AHEAD... PULL HIM OUT!

OH-H-H! UMH- MGF - FM - UH- ...OH..H..H..
THE POOR DIVVIL! GET HIM UNTIED — AND BE FAST ABOUT IT!

YES SIR, PAT, WE'RE GOING TO LEARN SOMETHING THIS TIME. POP DOESN'T KNOW WE SPOTTED HIM WATCHING WOLLEY'S HOUSE — AND WOLLEY DOESN'T KNOW WE'RE FOLLOWING HIM!
HEY, DICK, WOLLEY'S CAR IS SLOWING DOWN!
U. S. Pat. Off.: Copyright, 1939, by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.

GET UP IN THAT ROADSTER AND SIT DOWN. WE'LL BE WITH YOU IN A MINUTE AND TAKE YOU INTO TOWN.

SO SONNY BOY'S A STOOL PIGEON, EH? HE TELLS PAPA ALL — AND DOUBLE CROSSES HIS GANG, EH?
WOLLEY!

OUR BOARDING HOUSE

IT'S SO COLD IN MY IGLOO THAT ALL THE LITTLE PONDS ON THE WALL PAPER ARE FROZEN!

YEH, TH' HOT WATER FAUCET HAS AN ICICLE FOR A BEARD IN TH' BATH ROOM!

THAT LAZY LUMMOX LET THE FURNACE GO OUT!

T. M. REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

OH, SO YOU FORGOT TO BANK IT — WELL, HOP OUT OF THERE AND START THE FIRE OR START TO GET A JOB — IF ANYONE WILL HAVE YOU!

CEASE YOUR RANTING, WOMAN! I SHALL SEEK EMPLOYMENT IN A FIELD WHERE BRAIN, NOT BRAWN, RECEIVES A JUST REMUNERATION — SPUTT! SPUTT!

MAJOR HOOPLE

HAR-RUMPH! I'LL FLING HER INSINUATIONS BACK AT HER WHEN I WIN SUCCESS WITH MY NIMBLE MIND!

HEY, MAJOR — HOW ABOUT TRYING YOUR LUCK HELPING ME INTRODUCE A COMBINATION WASH CLOTH AND SCRUBBING BRUSH ON TH' MARKET?

EGAD, FENWICK, THE LIFE OF A RETIRED CAPITALIST PALLS UPON ME! I'LL ACCOMPANY YOU AND INVESTIGATE ITS POSSIBILITIES!

HAW! A RIDE INTO THE COUNTRY WILL BE TO MY LIKING!

— AND DON'T FORGET — POKE YOUR FOOT IN TH' DOOR BEFORE THEY SLAM IT ON YOU!

EE-GAD!

SHOO! OUTA HERE! CAN'T YOU READ?

NO PEDDLERS

A FLAT TIRE IS JUST ONE OF TH' HEADACHES THAT GO WITH THIS BUSINESS!

WHAT EVER POSSESSED ME TO COME ON THIS SILLY TRIP?

OUT OF GAS? EGAD!

YEH! HERE'S A GALLON CAN — IT'S ONLY TWO MILES BACK TO THAT LAST GAS STATION WE PASSED!

IT LOOKS LIKE TH' MAJOR!

EGAD, I HATE TO LEAVE FENWICK IN THE LURCH — I SHALL HAVE TO EXPLAIN WHEN I SEE HIM AGAIN THAT A MESSENGER MET ME ON THE ROAD WITH TIDINGS THAT I WAS REQUIRED AT HOME POST HASTE ON A MATTER OF PRESSING IMPORTANCE!

HAW, M'DEAR! AFTER DUE CONSIDERATION I MUST CONFESS THAT YOUR IRE WAS INDEED JUSTIFIED WHEN I FAILED TO STOKE THE FURNACE — HERE IS A PRESENT TO COMPENSATE FOR MY SHORTCOMING!

HM — YOUR NOSE SEEMS A BRIGHTER RED THAN USUAL!

MY STARS, WOTTA MESS!

IT LOOKS LIKE I'D BETTER BE DOIN' A BIT OF SPRING CLEANIN'

WELL, LOOK WHAT I FOUND! MY OLD GOLF CLUBS!

HEY, GUZ! LOOK WHAT I GOT! I BETCHA I CAN BEAT THE EARS OFF YOU!

OH, YEAH? YOU'LL NEVER SEE TH' DAY YOU CAN! WAIT'LL I GIT MY STICKS!

AFTER YOU, YER HIGHNESS!

OKAY, OOP — HERE'S WHERE FRIENDSHIP CEASES!

WELL I'LL BE-!! !@#$%!? ?!

WHASSA MATTER, GUZ? HAVIN' A LITTLE TROUBLE? HEH! HEH!

NOW LOOKIT THAT! ?!!@#$?

WELL, YOU BIG BURR-HEAD -- IF YOU'D KEEP YER EYE ON TH' BALL, Y'WOULDN'T BE GITTIN' INTO THEM KINDA JAMS!

NOW WHY'N HECK DID I HAFTA GIT A DIRTY BREAK LIKE THIS?

AW, WHAT ARE YOU SQUAWKIN' ABOUT? IF YOU HAD SOME OF TH' DOOZIES I'VE HAD, YOU REALLY COULD HOLLER!

TEN? WHY, YOU OLD PIRATE, HOW'BOUT TH' SIX YA TOOK ON TH' LAST HOLE?

WHADYA MEAN, YOU TOOK A FOUR ON THAT HOLE? I SAW Y'TAKE TEN!!

WELL, WHAT ABOUT IT?

BACK ON TH' RIDGE I SAW YOU DIG A HOLE BIG ENOUGH TO BURY A MAMMOTH!

OH, THAT? I WUZ KILLIN A SNAKE

WHY DIDN'T YA LIE HIM TO DEATH LIKE YER DOIN' TO ME?

WHY D'YOU ALWAYS HAFTA BE SHOOTIN' OFF YER MOUTH? NOW LOOK WHATCHA MADE ME DO!

WHY, YOU ALLIGATOR-FACED BABOON, I OUGHTA BEND THIS CLUB AROUND YER SKULL!

WELL, BOYS- IT SOUNDS LIKE GUZ AND OOP ARE AT IT AGAIN!

AIN'T IT A SHAME TWO SWELL GUYS LIKE THEM CAN'T GIT ALONG?

NICE PUTT! WELL, OOP, Y'GOT ME ONE DOWN, BUT WE'VE SURE HADDA SWELL GAME!

YOU SAID IT, PAL! I DON'T KNOW WHEN I'VE ENJOYED ANYTHING HALF SO MUCH!
